Bootheel election spotlight focuses on N. Madrid

NEW MADRID — A record number of votes could be tallied in the Aug. 6 primary election in New Madrid County which, in several ways, is a definite contrast to prior primaries.

With the election just two weeks away, personal campaigning is reaching a peak by the prospective nominees despite the withdrawal of two candidates and the resignation from office of another who was seeking renomination.

For the first time within the past 20 years, seven candidates are vying for the Democratic nomination for two offices, and an inactive candidate for a third office could be elected and subsequently disqualified.

The upcoming election is the first local primary to be held under the statewide mandatory voter registration law enacted Sept. 28, 1973.

Voting precincts in the county now total 33, which is an increase of 12 polling places, and there are approximately 9,500 registered voters.

Also, for the first time since the 1970 census revealed the county's population to be less than 30,000, the office of probate judge and magistrate judge will be combined.

Another political facet which could result in an unusual development is that the name of an inactive candidate, Linus E. Young of Portageville, appears on the Democratic ballot for renomination for county recorder of deeds.

Young, who has resigned from the office to accept federal employment, was unable to withdraw his name from the ballot because less than 45 days remained before the date of the election.

Should a majority of votes be cast for Young over his opponent, Robert B. Hedgepeth of New Madrid, Young would be declared the Democratic nominee for the general election. However, he would subsequently become disqualified due to his federal position.

In that instance, under section 120.550 of the state election laws, the county Democratic Party central committee would be allowed to nominate a candidate and place his name on the ballot for the November general election.

Whether the county Republican Party central committee, which is without a candidate for the office in the primary election, could, in this particular situation, also name a nominee for the office in the general election is unclear.

No Republican candidates filed for any county offices.

A third Democratic candidate for the nomination of recorder of deeds, Donald R. Schaffer of Lilbourn, withdrew from the race.

Regardless of the outcome of the contested or uncontested primary races, five offices will change hands when the newly elected officeholders assume duties next January.

These include county treasurer, collector of revenue, recorder of deeds, county clerk and the probate judge, who will serve also as magistrate judge.

Four Democratic candidates are seeking the nomination for the county treasurer's office, which is being vacated by W. R. "Dick" Phillips Jr. Phillips had filed as a candidate for county collector and later withdrew his candidacy.

Candidates for the treasurer's post are H. H. "Bud" Townsend and Price P. Thompson of New Madrid, Shirley LaPlant of New Madrid Route One and O. D. Henning of Morehouse.

A three- way contest is being waged for the office of collector of revenue to be relinquished by William H. "Bill" Dean Jr. of Sikeston Route Three. Deputy Collector W. A. "Dub" Scobey of New Madrid is opposed in his bid for the nomination by Robert A. Riley of New Madrid and H. Van Whittle of Canalou.

John R. Bailey of Portageville, the incumbent probate judge, is unopposed for the nomination of Court tells Nixon to release tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 8 to 0 today that President Nixon must surrender White House tapes and papers sought by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski as evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, a Nixon appointee, delivered the ruling.

"We conclude that when the ground for asserting privilege as to subpoenaed materials sought for use in a criminal trial is based only on the generalized interest in confidentiality, it cannot prevail over the fundamental demands of due process of law in the fair administration of criminal justice," Burger said.

Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, a senior Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee, said it would be disastrous for Nixon if he failed to obey the Supreme Court order.

"If the President would defy the court the way he has defied the committee I don't see how we could avoid articles of impeachment," McClory told newsmen.

McClory also said he thought the committee should hold up its impeachment proceedings in order to get the tapes for its own inquiry.

"This clearly is relevant information," McClory said. "We have subpoenaed it, we want it and to report articles to the floor without it would be a disservice."

It was not immediately clear how the President would respond to the court's ruling.

In arguments before the court, his lawyer, James D. St. Clair, said the case was "being submitted to this court for its guidance and judgment with respect to the law."

"The President, on the other hand, has his obligations under the Constitution," St. Clair said.

President Nixon promised during a similar dispute with Jaworski's predecessor, Archibald Cox, that he would comply with a definitive ruling of the Supreme Court on whether he had to turn over tapes sought by Cox.

That case never reached the Supreme Court, however, and Nixon and other White House spokesmen have consistently refused to repeat that pledge in the dispute with Jaworski.

At a news conference Monday night, St. Clair again declined under repeated questioning to say whether Nixon would obey a Supreme Court order in the case.

The 8-0 ruling appeared to be about as strong a statement as the court could have made on the subject.

After delivering the opinion, the court recessed until 10 a.m. on Thursday.

Michael Rodak Jr., the clerk of the court, said a decision was expected at that time on an appeal from a lower court order calling for busing of pupils across school district lines for purposes of racial integration in the Detroit area.

The court ruled that the dispute between the President and Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski was subject to determination in the courts, contrary to Nixon's assertion that it was not on grounds it was a dispute within the executive branch.

Local cities seeking park grants

MALDEN — The State Inter- Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation began accepting applications from local municipalities for recreation grants under the Land and Water Conservation Fund for fiscal year 1975, according to an announcement issued by the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission office.

The grants will be made on a 50-50 cost- sharing basis, with the federal government putting up 50 per cent if certain conditions are met and the local participant paying the balance.

The Bootheel REgional Planning Commission is assisting a number of area municipalities in preparing preliminary drawings for pre-applications.

The Bootheel Rural Conservation and Development Committee will develop the plans, with assistance from the Soil Conservation Service. Upon completion of the plan, which will contain recommendations concerning erosion, sediment control, flood prevention and recreation, funds are available on a matching basis for implementation..

Dexter is preparing an application covering the development of an approximately eight- acre park. The eight acres will be donated to the city. The development will provide regualr activities, along with specially designed facilities for the handicapped. A 10-acre park will be developed by Advance with landscaping, tennis courts and other recreational facilities.

Vanduser is considering the acquisition and development of a five- acre park.

Morley is considering the acquisition of the old school grounds for development into a four- acre park.

Local officials in Benton are considering acquisition of the old school grounds there to develop into a recreational complex.

The Richland School District is considering installation of a tennis court to serve both school patrons and the residents of Essex.

The project application deadline for grants is Oct. 1.

Betterment club meets in Dexter

DEXTER — The Dexter Community Betterment Committee will hold an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 1 at the city administration building.

The committee is currently working on several phases of the statewide five-star program. In the area of community service in leisure activities, Dexter now has an active summer program, but the state requires a year-around program, so the committee will begin planning indoor winter activities for adults.

Dexter's board of education has approved the use of the junior high school gymnasium three nights a week and on Sunday. Plans are to conduct the program from Nov. 1 to March 1, with basketball, volleyball, table tennis, shuffleboard and calisthenics among possible activities.

In order to cover necessary expenses, the committee will organize activities into leagues and plans to ask local industries, businesses, civic clubs and church groups to sponsor teams.

Nixon's defense setback after Hogan's defection

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's hopes of avoiding impeachment have suffered a setback on the eve of the House Judiciary Committee's historic debate today.

Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, a conservative and one of those committee Republicans counted on to oppose impeachment, announced Tuesday he supports impeachment.

Hogan is the first committee Republican to announce he will vote for impeachment. His decision touched off open talk of impeachment in the Republican cloak room.

The debate, beginning at 7:30 p.m. EDT, will be carried nationally on television and radio. A vote on whether to recommend impeachment is expected by Friday or Saturday.

Hogan's announcement triggered a prediction by one GOP member that as many as seven of the 17 committee Republicans may end up calling for Nixon's impeachment. Hogan said in an interview Tuesday night that he expected eight Republicans to vote for impeachment. All 21 Democrats are believed ready to vote for at least one article of impeachment.

Another GOP member, who said he has expected about 40 Republicans to vote for impeachment, raised his estimate to 80 after Hogan's views became known.

Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, the third-ranking Republican in the House, said, "It seems to me quite obvious that Mr. Hogan's statement is convincing evidence that the committee is disposed to vote one or more articles and I would gather that the House would follow suit, from what I hear in the corridors."

One southerner said after the Hogan announcement, "This had a profound psychological impact. Many Republicans who were not on anybody's list for impeachment were talking for the first time today about their votes for it as being possible or probable."

Races develop for Stoddard posts

BLOOMFIELD — Several races have developed for nomination to various offices among Stoddard County Democrats.

Among the positions where races have developed is the recorder of deeds office, for which Freida Lee of Dexter and Murlin Phillips of Bloomfield have filed for nomination. The office was left open when Ethel Crites, the present recorder, did not file for re- election.

Ermer Garner of Bloomfield, incumbent presiding judge of the County Court, will be opposed for nomination by Bob Blair of Gray Ridge.

A three- way race has developed for nomination to the office of County Court associate judge of the first district. Charles M.Jones of Puxico, Darrel Roberts of Bloomfield and Jack Ward of Avert are seeking the nomination.

For associate judge of the second district, Darla J. Grossman of Dexter is opposed for nomination by Harold E. "Pete" Snider of Pyle.

Democrats facing no opposition are Jimmy B. Trammel of Dexter for the office of probate- magistrate judge. He will face Republican incumbent Koss W. Blomeyer in the November general election.

Phillip Ayers of Dexter is unopposed for prosecuting attorney, and Charles R. Corbin faces no opposition for the circuit clerk post. John Marvin Capps of Bloomfield, incumbent county clerk, will face Republican Bill Beal on the November ballot.

Seeking the offices of township committeemen nd committeewomen are:

Castor: Bob L. Beal and Vera W. Wellman of Bloomfield, Republican; and Fred Wethington of Idalia and Kathryn Mooney of Bloomfield, Democrat.

Duck Creek: Wiley L. Mattingly and Betty Mattingly of Asherville, Republican; and William E. Sifford of Puxico and Mary E. Taylor of Dudley, Democrat.

Elk: Earl Swinger and Sue Swinger of Essex, Republican; and Hugh W. Parks and Pauline Aycock of Marco, Democrat.

THE AMNESTY ISSUE

Although efforts are being vigorously renewed to obtain total, unconditional amnesty for the thousands of American men who fled the country rather than serve in Vietnam, or who deserted the military, we believe the government must stand firm in its denial.

Some of the most cogent reasons for this position were recently given by the Director of National Security and Foreign Affairs for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Col. Phelps Jones. In a broadcast interview with Philip C. Clarke of the American Security Council, Col. Jones contrasted the actions of those who fled with those who served.

"During the Vietnam war 600,000 Americans were drafted and served in Vietnam," Col. Jones explained. "Of this number, 60,000 were wounded — one out of 10 — and 11,500 were killed. Total casualties of our drafted soldiers, then, in Vietnam was 71,500. Surely, the compositon of that role of honor would be very different if those young men who had been called had served rather than deserted their comrads or deserted their country.

Col. Jones also noted that, overall, 56,000 Americans were killed in Vietnam, 303,000 were wounded, nearly 600 returned in "unspeakable conditions" as prisoners of war, and more than 1,000 Americans are still missing in action.

Those who broke the law must now face the law and be judged individually on the merits of their cases. To rule otherwise would be a grave injustice to those who heeded the call to serve. It would also invite chaos and set a dangerous precedent for the future of American military action.

Our judicial system historically has tempered justice with mercy. If these men truly want to become part of American society again, let them turn to this system and pay the price it requires of them as a prerequisite for citizenship.

One of the basic strengths of our society is the concept of voluntary social action. For most Americans voluntarism means a commitment to improving the quality of life - in the community, in the nation.

By donating their time and skills to organizations such as Girl Scouts, many citizens are able to give responsible service to their communities. We need Girl Scouts and they need us.

This fall, Girl Scouts are again conducting an adult recruitment drive for volunteer leaders, in their continuing effort to bring Girl Scouting within reach of all girls who want to belong.

In Girl Scouting voluntarism is more than a simple commitment; it's a way of life. And, since the ultimate responsibility for the Girl Scout movement rests with the volunteers and their dedication to young people, we are happy to lend our support to the organization's adult recruitment campaign.

Today, over half a million women and men work in partnership with more than three million Girl Scouts in the country. But - and it's an important but - there is a vital need for at least twice that many adult volunteers if the organization is to achieve its goal of serving every girl who wants to be a Girl Scout.

There is a long list of girls ages 6 through 17 who are waiting to become Girl Scouts in our area. To give them this opportunity for self- development and to give yourself personal satisfaction, join Scouting - be a Girl Scout leader. Get in touch with your local Girl Scout council and find out how you can fit in.

THE CHEERING SECTION, TOO, HELPS WIN GAMES

America provides, free, more and better schooling than any other nation on earth.

Business gives you and me more and better products and services than in any other nation, for less than a nickel out of a dollar of sales — when they make any profit at all (and 3 companies out of 10 don't make any.)

More than one and a half million new jobs have to be created every year if we want to avoid depression. If government provides them our taxes go up; if business provides them our taxes go down.

Industry is a better friend of ours than many think. For instance, between the years 1940 and 1969, drug firms invested in research which developed 868 major medicines which saved millions of lives while the average unit price of prescription drugs went down.

How many games would your home team win if all the spectators did nothing but smear and jeer them at every game?

DIZZY DEAN: A FOLKHERO

It is very hard to think of Dizzy Dean as dead. He was always so alive, so real, so vividly present on the American scene. He was the superstar of the St. Louis Cardinals in the early 1930s, and there wasn't a kid on a sandlot anywhere who didn't worship him. He was the joking sportscaster with a million malapropisms. He was the guy you like to go hunting with or sit around drinking beer with on Saturday night. And he was an authentic American folk hero of the 20th Century.

"Hi, podnuh," he would say in that Arkansas drawl, and you felt that he must have been your friend forever. So he was puffed up with vanity about his baseball pitching exploits. Well, nobody else in the National League has yet topped that 1934 record of winning 30 games. It's impossible to remember another World Series like that of the Cardinals and the Detroit Tigers that year, when Diz won two games and brother Daffy Dean another two. Ole Diz had a right to his ego, and it never destroyed his appreciation for the baseball skills of others.

Since he hailed from the cotton fields of Arkansas and spent many of his later years at Wiggins, Miss., when not traveling, Dizzy Dean's death may seem a little more personal to Mid-Southerners than to the big- city crowds he mingled with.

But he was a part of the national fabric — a strong thread that wove itself into the national pastime — and it was good to have him as a symbol of the good times in this uncertain century.

BOTTOM DROPS OUT OF THE BAG MARKET

Consumers are getting used to being left holding the bag. The trouble is that now even bags are in short supply.

Grocery stores around the country are asking customers to bring their own bags. Some are offering two cents or trading stamps for each one.

Not only is there a scarcity of bags, but paper products of all kinds, napkins, tissues, toilet tissue and towels, are frequently conspicuous by their absence from supermarket shelves.

There are all kinds of reasons for the paper shortage, but basically the explanation is a simple one says Food Marketer magazine: demand exceeds supply.

In 1973, the paper industry produced 2.7 per cent more paper than in 1972. In the 10 years before that, however, production increased 4.6 per cent annually.

There are two reasons for the production slowdown. First, a shortage of natural resources; second, minimal profits in the paper industry which prohibit the expansion required to meet present demands.

Canandian pulpwood producers increased their prices in 1973 and plan two more increases this year. The pulp producers blame the price increases on dwindling forest supplies and labor and transport problems.

Then there's the energy crunch. Several paper mills have been forced to shorten working hours and workdays to conserve natural gas. Some have closed operations permanently.

Basic chemicals, such as chlorine for cooking woodpulp, are in short supply. In addition, installation of pollution equipment to comply with new government laws has pushed up operating expenses.

Another reason the bottom has fallen out of the bag business is that there is little profit in kraft and bleach papers from which paper bags are made. Thus manufacturers have turned to more profitable grades of paper.

Virtually at a stalemate in the United States because of price controls, paper products also began turning to the more lucrative overseas market and found eager purchasers in Japan and Europe, leaving the U. S. market starving.

That's the bad news. Now for the worse news. The paper shortage, far from being just a temporary inconvenience, promises to develop into a major crisis, says Food Marketer.

Through 1975, woodpulp production is expected to increase only 1.5 per cent a year, about a fifth the average annual increase in the previous 10 years.

It takes two years or more to develop and install new paper producing equipment, and even if the needed mills were being built today, the shortages of basic resources would still hinder production.

AMERICAN DOLLARS TO YUGOSLAVIA

Does it make sense for American taxpayers to underwrite low-interest loans to a Communist dictatorship, while the American people are forced to pay higher interest rates, in addition to paying higher and higher taxes?

Some members of Congress think not; but that didn't pervent the U.S. Export-Import Bank from slipping through a controversial $176 million to Communist Yugoslavia, to build a nuclear power plant on the Sava River in Eastern Slovenia.

According to radio commentator Philip C. Clarke on the "Washington Report of the Air," there are a number of unusual provisions in the Yugoslav deal. It is, he pointed out, the first time that the Export-Import Bank has given aid for nuclear power in a Communist country. It is also the largest such credit ever granted Yugoslavia by the Bank. Further, it provides 90 percent of the financing for the sales of U. S. equipment for the project, compared to a normal 45 percent financing of other Export-Import loans. In addition, the low- interest (seven percent) loan guarantees repayment of an additional $2 million loan to finance local costs such as payment for Yugoslav labor and equipment. Normally, Clarke reports, local costs are not a part of the Export-Import Bank's financing.

The U.S. taxpayer-underwritten loan will not only help Yugoslavia to build the nuclear power plant, but will also enable this Communist monopoly to "buy" the time, talents, and technical know-how of some of our most highly skilled scientists, engineers and technicians in the field of atomic energy.

There are at least two major issues involved in the matter of this loan. First, does the Export-Import bank have the right to hand out American taxpayers' dollars on terms far more favorable than private American business loans, particularly to a regime that is unalterably opposed to our free enterprise system, and to a project which will help to strengthen the economic and military potential of that regime?

Secondly, is it morally right for business interests in the United States to enter into such an agreement, whereby they will be paid with American dollsrs to assist a nation which exploits slave labor; and which suppresses every vestige of human liberty? Or doesn't morality enter into the field of big business today?

THE HABIT OF LIBERTY

What about a free press?

"I am always in favor of a free press . . . but sometimes they say quite nasty things," Winston Churchill once said.

Mr. Churchill also said, on a more formal occasion:

"A free press is the unsleeping guardian of every other right that free men prize; it is the most dangerous foe of tyranny . . . Under dictatorship the press is bound to languish, and the loudspeaker and the film to become more important. But where free institutions are indigenous to the soil and men have the habit of liberty, the press will continue to be the Fourth Estate, the vigilant guardian of the rights of the ordinary citizen."

He started his professional life as a war correspondent during the Boer War in South Africa.

Charles Dickens knew about newspapers, too. It was he who said:

"To the wholesome training of servere newspaper work, when I was a very young man, I constantly refer my first successes."

Newspaper work is sometimes servere.

Ben Franklin, another newspaperman, put it this way:

"If all printers were determined not to print anything till they were sure it would offend nobody, there would be very little printed."

However, as desirable as a free press is, we must face the fact that it is not right all the time. People staff the press, so in spite of their most diligent efforts to achieve the highest order of professionalism in news, the press is not perfect. Nor will it ever be. And, certainly, controlled by the government would never make it so.

Judge Learned Hand put it this way:

"The first amendment . . . presupposes that right conclusions are more likely to be gathered out of a multitude of tongues, than through any kind of authoritative selection. To many this is, and always will be, folly; but upon it we have staked out all."

BIRTH RATE SLOWS AS AFFLUENCE GROWS

The more developed the country, the more likely it is to have low population growth rates, according to the World Popular Conference.

Most of the world's highly industralized nations, including Western European countries, Canada, Japan and the United States have low growth rates. They are expected to maintain an overall downward trend.

The USSR, Eastern European and Scandinavian countries have goverment policies encouraging family planning, with resulting lower birth rates.

In the U. S., birth rates reached the lowest rate ever in 1972, with an average number of children per couple at 2.03 and population growth rate of .7 per cent per year.

A DIRTY TRICK

A bachelor who had lived with his mother for nearly 40 years was fearful of marrying because he didn't want her to be alone. Finally he met a girl and eloped with her, but for one year after his marriage he never told his mother.

Finally his wife insisted to visit his mother and gently broke the news.

"Mom, Dottie and I have been married since last November.

The mother said nothing, just peered at her son.

"Mom," he asked, "are you angry? Don't you approve?"

"It's just a dirty trick." the old lady said. "You've been married a whole year and I'm still doing your shirts."

AN APPALLING IDEA

The proposal has been made in all seriousness that newspaper, radio and television newsmen should be licensed just like barbers, electricians, doctors and lawyers. The idea is "... just a thought that's occurred ..." to a state legislator. It is unlikely that the idea will become a national threat, but nevertheless, the potential for mischief which it holds is worth contemplating.

Licensing of newsmen is advocated on the theory that since standards of knowledge and performance are set for other professions, why shouldn't they be formalized by statute with respect to newsmen. Under such a proposal, if it became law, a news writer would have to take an examination to meet the requirements of a licensing law administered by state authorities. Conceivably, owners of newspapers, magazines and radio and television stations would be subject to licensing if they supervised the content of the news that their outlets offered.

Licensing and state surveillance of those who write the news and present it in the nation's press and over radio and television would reduce freedom of expression to an incalculable degree. Licensing means control and when the state controls newsmen the news won't be worth reading because the press will merely be the sounding board of the state.

* * *

THEN AND NOW

Most of those who currently lament the allegedly sad state of the environment are acting on hindsight -- especially when they blame business and industry for not having more foresight. Nobody lost any sleep back in the 1940's and 60's over failure to price products to provide for proper land reclamation and the elimination of air and water pollution.

An executive of a major oil company points out that it is easy to imagine the naswer a salesman would have gotten 10 years ago if he had said, "Yes, we can deliver coal for $3.75 a ton, or crude oil for $1.75 a barrel, but we'll have to build in another 50 cents for pollution devices, a dollar for health and safety research and another 50 cents to eliminate sulfur." The salesman would have been told to shut his mines or plug his well.

Even today, when it comes right down to it, the public still wants energy and wants it in sufficient supply -- plus without environmental damage, plus without threat to health and safety, plus without peril from radiation, plus without offshort drilling, plus without surface mining -- and it still wants it cheap. As the industry executive observes: "All these desires are understandable, but we can't have them all, not in the same world."

OPPOSE FEDERAL ENERGY CONTROLS EDUCATOR SAYS

Strong opposition to present and proposed government actions to solve the energy shortage has been expressed by a leading academic spokesman.

In a keynote address at the 78th Annual Congress of American Industry in New York City. Henry G. Manne, Kenan Professor of Law and Political Science at the University of Rochester, said:

"The threats of controls and higher taxes and the calls to patriotism and social responsibility are but the carrots and sticks of political bullies who can ultimately rationalize the last ounce of control over our private lives."

Denying that a real "crisis" exists, and citing the failure of wage and price controls to curb inflation, Prof. Manne urged the business leaders to "publicize as widely as possible the inevitable inefficiencies, mistakes, and human miseries that will develop with these controls."

They are and will be all around us, and no one will have to look far for examples," he said. "That price controls prevented production of the equipment necessary to produce more oil refining capacity is the kind of thing that the public should be made to understand. The public should not be allowed to believe that racketeering, black markets, favoritism, misallocations, delays and inconveniences are sacrifices that they must endure in the nation's interest. These are, after all, in fact the unnecessary costs of economic stupidity or political knavery."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: How Big Oil Sets Own Rules

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Geological Survey, which is supposed to protect the public from calamitous offshore oil spills, has turned to the oil industry for guidance.

A Geological Survey document, marked "PRIVILEGED INFORMATION," reveals that the government has brought in 23 oil executives to draft the standards for antipollution equipment used in offshore drilling.

This is a little like putting Dracula in charge of the blood bank. The oil tycoons have demonstrated in the past that they are more interested in holding down their costs than in protecting the public from oil spills.

The scramble for more oil, meanwhile, has spurred a drive for new leases to drift for oil off the Gulf and Atlantic coasts. Unless adequate safeguards are taken, repetitions of the disastrous Santa Barbara, Calif., oil spill could blight America's beaches.

A Geological Survey spokesman promised us that the antipollution standards adopted by the industry-dominated committee would be carefully reviewed.

The quiet appointment of 23 oil executives to draft oil spill standards, however, illustrates how the industry influences federal oil policies. Top industry executives and governmen oil officials shuffle back and forth between corporate boardrooms and government conference rooms with remarkable ease.

Not only does the government depend upon industry manpower but also industry data in oil policymaking. A confidential General Accounting Office investigation has found, for example, that the oil oversight agencies accept industry figures on everything from the number of shut- in wells to the amount of recoverable oil and gas under the ground.

The government doesn't verify the figure, GAO investigators were told, because "policies prohibit verification." These "policies" are imposed by the oil and gas industry, which supplies the government with the data.

Any manipulation of the figures, of course, would significantly alter oil and gas prices. Yet there is no way anyone can double- check.

Footnote: Congressman John Moss, D-Calif., who requested the GAO study, has called for independent government data gathering.

TIMM'S TROUBLES -- In 1960, Federal Communications Chairman John Charles Doerfer took a brief yachting vacation at the expense of broadcaster George B. Storer.

Doerfer admitted at House hearing that he and his wife had flown to Miami in a plane owned by the Storer Broadcasting Company and had gone yachting and golfing in the Keys aboard Storer's cabin cruiser Lazy Girl. "This was a social occasion," pleaded Doerfer.

Nevertheless, President Eisenhower immediately summoned Doerfer to the White House and demanded his resignation. Within a week, the unhappy Doerfer was no longer Federal Communications Chairman.

Last month, Civil Aeronautics Chairman Robert D. Timm and his wife flew to Bermuda for a golfing vacation at the expense of United Aircraft Corporation.

They traveled in a company jet and were put up at the fashionable, cliffside Clastle Harbour Hotel. We went to Bermuda and checked out the hotel, which is surrounded by lush, semitropical gardens. It has an 18- hole championship golf course, two private pink sand beaches, a private yacht club with deep -sea fishing boats and three swimming pools, one of them complete with a man- made waterfall.

Strictly speaking, the Doerfer and Timm junkets were not alike. Doerfer's expenses were paid by a company he was supposed to regulate. Timm doesn't regulate United Aircraft, which picked up his bills.

But United Aircraft sells aircraft engines and accessories to the big airlines, which Timm does regulate. And the company arranged for four top airline executives -- Pan American's William T. Seawell, Trans World's Charles C. Tillinghast, Braniff's Harding L. lawrence and Western's Arthur F. Kelly -- to join their chief regulator for a cozy weekend in Bermuda.

The airline bigwigs must have been grateful to United Aircraft for putting them together, under such sociable circumstances, with the man who will judge whether they get valuable new routes. But Timm protested that he had no control over whom his host invited to Bermuda.

He confirmed our finding that the trip arrangements had been made by President Nixon's former chief lobbyist and campaign manager, Clark MacGregor, who is now the chief lobbyist for United Aircraft.

Although Timm technically didn't accept a free vacation in Bermuda from the airlines he regulates, he frequently lunches, dines, golfs and attends theater parties as the guest of airline executives. We spoke to airline vice presidents who admitted they had entertained Timm, who acknowledged that he had been their guest at social events.

Both Timm and his airline hosts emphasized that they never discussed pending cases on these social occasions. Timm also insisted that his rulings have not been affected by his social contacts. He contended that he couldn't oversee the airline industry from a glass bubble and that he learned about the industry through close association with its people.

BRAVE CHRISTIANS SPEAK OUT IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Though the Soviet government continues its brutal suppression of all religion, brave Christians still speak out and their message is being heard.

Rev. Dmitri Dudko was until recently the pastor of the Church of St. Nicholas, a Russian Orthodox church in Moscow. From his pulpit the priest strongly criticized the brutalities of the communist regime. Father Dudko had spent eight years in Soviet prison camps, so he had felt the wrath of the Kremlin before. Nevertheless he did not hesitate to tell his parishioners of the evils of the communist government, especially the moral bankruptcy of the Soviet Union.

Father Dudko's sermons and question- and- answer sessions drew huge crowds to his small church and inevitably attracted the attention of the communists. He was first forbidden to preach and then arrested. His fate is still unknown.

Much better known is the fate of the brilliant author Alexander Solzhenitsyn, recently exiled, who had at one time attended Father Dudko's church. What is not so well known in the West is that Solzhenitsyn is a devout Christian and is critical of communism precisely from that standpoint.

Solzhenitsyn, Dudko and those like them are setting an inspiring example to those of us in the West. They deserve whatever help and support we can give them. HLH

New Greek leader takes office today

By the Associated Press

Constantine Caramanlis took office as premier of Greece today after the Cyprus crisis toppled the country's seven-year-old military dictatorship.

Early congratulations came from Turkey where Premier Bulent Ecevit described Caramanlis as "an experienced statesman who had shown the value he places on Turkish-Greek friendship during his previous service."

Turkey's invasion of Cyprus on Saturday, following a coup by the Greek-led national guard, brought on the fall of the Greek government and recall of Caramanlis from 11 years of self-imposed exile. He replaced resigned Premier. Adamantios Androutsopoulos.

On Cyprus, newly named President Glafcos Clerides said the return of President Makarios, ousted in the now collapsed coup, "is a question for the people of Cyprus." Makarios said in New York he expected to return to the presidency in a few weeks, but Clerides, a Makarios supporter, said he had not been in touch with the archbishop.

He said his job is not to decide about the return of Makarios, but to avoid bloodshed and rebuild the nation. He declared, "Turks and Greeks must coexist in the Cyprus nation without fighting."

News dispatches from Cyprus reported only scattered fighting Tuesday. But United Nations forces reported a number of cease-fire violations, and the Security Council adopted a new resolution demanding compliance with the truce that began Monday.

Hundreds of thousands of jubilant Greeks thronged the streets of Athens, dancing, singing, hugging and kissing, after the announcement that "the armed forces have decided to transfer power to a civilian government" headed by Caramanlis, the elder statesman of Greek democracy and a self-exile in Paris for 11 years.

Caramanlis, 67, told a cheering crowd at the Athens airport early this morning: "I know that the Greek people in difficult moments are united, and together I hope we will be able to construct a new democracy."

Chanting "no mockery, true democracy," cheering crowds lined his route into the city, and he went at once to a meeting at the parliament building with leaders of the military dictatorship, civilian politicians who have been in limbo for the past seven years, and two foreign ambassadors, Henry Tasca of the United States and Robin Hooper of Britain.

The government radio said the ambassadors were called in to receive a protest against alleged Turkish violations of the cease-fire on Cyprus.

The conference lasted for two hours and then Caramanlis, presumably satisfied that the military leaders would return to the barracks and give him a free hand, was sworn in. The oath was administered by Archbishop Seraphim in the presence of President Phaedon Gizikis, a general who was installed last November when a conservative group of generals overthrew the previous military dictator, President George Papadopoulos.

The government radio said Caramanlis would announce his cabinet later today.

The rebel Cypriot regime also was tottering. The president installed by the Greek army officers who led the coup,

2 plead guilty, draw probation

NEW MADRID -- Two men were placed on probation after pleading guilty to criminal charges Tuesday in Circuit Court before Judge William L. Ragland, who also granted four dissolution of marriage decrees.

Kenneth Battles of New Madrid was granted probation without supervision after receiving a two-year sentence in custody of the State Department of Corrections following a guilty plea to possession of a loaded rifle on June 12 while he was intoxicated.

Sentencing was suspended against Clifton Robinson of Portageville and he was granted probation without supervision when he pleaded guilty to feloniously exhibiting a dangerous shotgun in a rude and threatening manner in the presence of Edward DeLisle on July 7.

Vicki Marie Jones of Matthews Route One was restored to her maden name of Roberts when her marriage to James Edward Jones was dissolved. A property settlement was approved and custody of two children, plus $75 per child per month for support, were awarded to Brenda Joyce Rowland upon the dissolution of her marriage to Larry Richard Rowland of East Prarie Route One.

Also dissovled were the marriages of Clyde G. Scott and Violette D. Scott of Sikeston Route Three and Claudia Anne White of Portageville and Bruce Edwin White. Mrs. White was granted custody of three children and $35 per week for each child for support.

Judge Ragland sustained a motion to dismiss an earlier motion to set aside sentence and judgment filed by Bruce Joseph Wright. Wright was sentenced Nov. 15, 1973 to 10 years in custody of the State Department of Corrections on a guilty plea to a manslaughter charge stemming from the shooting death of Larry Allen Williams, 16, of Portageville.

The Garden State Park thoroughbred racing meet at Cherry Hill, N.J., continues through Memorial Day, May 27.

Scouts enjoy horseback riding

Riding instructor Rick Walk, left, of Puxico watches closely as counselor- in-training Lee Bidewell of Poplar Bluff instructs Cadette campers in saddling a horse. Camp Latonka offers horseback riding for Cadette and Senior Scouts during each 12-day session.

Cyclists enjoy freedoms

Kay Kirkpatrick of Charleston enjoys a level stretch for cycling at Camp Latonka. Bike trips are a new addition to the camp program this summer, and the cycling units are open to third, fourth and fifth graders.

Sailing is recreation

Water welcome in hot weather

"Oh, boy! I'm hot, and the lake's just waiting to be jumped into!" The waterfront appears to be the most popular area of camp when the temperature climbs, and Camp Latonka offers canoeing, sailing, skiing and swimming to Girl Scout campers.

Confessions to mate ruin marriage

Dear Ann Landers: I have a wonderful husband and we have two fine children. About a year ago I made a miserable mistake. I became involved with a married man, the husband of a friend of mine. The "romance" was of short duration and I could kick myself every time I think about it.

I foolishly believed I was entitled to some outside loving because something was lacking at home. My lover gave me the same line. We were "soulmates." Finally I came to see the relationship for what it was, a cheap, back- alley affair. I stopped seeing him after the fifth meeting and have toned down my friendship with his wife. (Guilt, of course.)

Since that lousy episode, I've tried doubly hard to be a better- than- ever wife, and our marriage has never been stronger.

Yesterday I received a phone call from "Mr. Black Past." He tells me he wants to "do the right thing" and confess everything to his wife. He claims his conscience is bothering him and he can't rest until he comes clean. I nearly collapsed.

I begged him not to. I explained that if his wife isn't willing to forgive and forget she might sue for divorce, naming me correspondent, and it could wreck my life. He reads your column every day and says you're a smart lady. Will you please try to get through to him. -- Tormented in Toledo

Dear Torm: If he reads my column every day, he knows my position on confessing past indiscretions -- this goes for extramarital affairs as well as premarital sexual activities. I'll say it one more time, especially for him.

Confession may be good for the soul, but it won't do anything for a marriage except hurt your wife and shatter her faith in you. It is also a very dirty trick to play on the woman with whom you were involved.

If you feel you MUST clear your conscience, please talk to a clergyman, a trusted lawyer or a doctor -- some individual who will view your confession as privileged information. But please, mister -- spare your wife.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for quite some time, but I never thought I'd have to write to you. When I read that long lecture you gave about how we must outlaw guns in this country I knew I had to speak out.

Do you realize you are stepping on the toes of millions of sportsmen? Did you ever stop to think about who pays the salaries of all the wildlife officers? In case you don't know it, they are financed through the sale of hunting licenses and taxes on guns and ammunition. If you eliminate these jobs, our wildlife will dwindle.

If someone wants to kill you, he will, and he can do it with a hatpin. I wish you'd see both sides of the story before you take such a strong stand against something. -- Sportsman Not A Killer

Dear Sport: I'm not interested in taking guns away from the sportsmen of America. I'm well aware that the hunters are not going to be deprived of their fun no matter what.

I AM against handguns, those "Saturday Night Specials" sold for only one reason -- to kill people.

For your sake, Sport, I hope that if someone wants to hold you up on a dark street, he has a hatpin instead of a handgun. Your chances of coming through alive will be a lot better.

Brownies to include 1st graders

This year all first grade girls will be offered the opportunity to particiapte in the Girl Scout program.

Girl Scouting is a changing program keeping up with the changing world of today. Girls, today, are exposed to the world at an early age through the media, more widespread travel and the knowledge revolution, as well as through pre- school experiences. As a result, they are able to enter the Girl Scout movement at an earlier age than in the past.

A five or six- year- old girl is interested in enlarged community experience and eager to learn about new things, to have group experiences and to join her peers in enrichmant activities.

Through Girl Scouts, the 5 to 6- year- old girl is provided with opportunities to communicate and verbalize, to explore and experiment with her own ideas, to develop a greater curiosity about things outside her own immediate framework, to become involved with her community and to develop coordination through group play and crafts.

The Brownie Girl Scout program is a learning experience which is available to girls meeting the Brownie Girl Scout requirements. The requirements are to learn the Brownie Girl Scout Promise, accept the scout laws, be a participating member in the scout program, pay annual membership dues and meet applicable membership standards.

This is an exciting age for girls and they can share many happy times together through the Brownie Girl Scout program. If your child is interested in this program, please call 471-1035.

Miss Berlin bride of Tony A. Sisk

Tony Anthony Sisk and Dollie Idamay Berlin of Sikeston were married Friday at 1 p.m. at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Irene Sisk, 122 N. Handy St., by the Rev. T. A. McDonough.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Berlin, 203 Bynum St. William Sisk of Morehouse is the father of the groom.

The couple is living in Sikeston.

Area Girl Scouts enjoy trip to nation's capitol

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is written in first person by Miss Nancy Forbis, one of six Sikeston Girl Scouts who recently took a Scout trip to Washington, D.C. The trip was arranged by Cotton Boll Council Office in Sikeston and open to all interested senior scouts. Other scouts attending were Michelle Powell, Libby Walker, Linda Pegnes, Sandra McGree and Kim Burrow.

By NANCY FORBIS

Sixty-six girls from the Bootheel area left June 6 for Washingotn, D.C. This trip was sponsored by the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council for scouts interested in seeing our nation's capitol.

The chaperones were Mrs. Wade Demaree of Malden and Mrs. Jim Leggett of Bloomfield. The two bus guides for the trip were Mrs. Darrell Alcorn of Sikeston, and Mrs. Dale Schumacher of Bell City. They were especially helpful since they have made the trip many times.

One the way to Washington, we toured one of the outstanding horse farms at Lexington, Ky., and saw the statue of Man-O-War, the most famous race horse. While traveling through the West Virginia mountains, we stopped at Hawks Nest State Park. Friday night, we attended the drama of the "Creation" at Natural Bridge, Va. It was a play about the creation of the world.

Saturday, we toured Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson. We also visited "Christ of the Blue Ridge" at Waynesboro, Va. It is the home of Lao Russell and the late Dr. Walter Russell, who sculptured a statue of Christ with his hands in prayer. They call the mountain Swannanoa. And it is breath-taking to see. The next day was spent touring the old town of Williamsburg.

On Monday, we toured Mt. Vernon, home of George Washington. Then we went on to Alexandria, Va., to see "Christ Church". That is where Washington and Robert E. Lee attended church. We spend four nights at Rockwood National Girl Scout Camp in Potomac, Md. Each day we drove into Washington, D.C.

Tuesday through Thursday was spent touring Washington. It was really unbelieveable to think of all the history that had been made in this one city. We saw the U.S. Mint while they were printing money. Also, we saw the White House, Senate, House, Capitol, Arlington Cemetery, Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, Archives Building and many more. We even got to see the Watergate Office Building, the motel where it all happened. We also toured the Smithsonian Institute. It was the most interesting place of the trip. At night, we went up in the Washington Monument and looked over the city. It was really beautiful.

Wednesday night we saw a musical entitled "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope" at Ford's Theatre. It had an all black cast, and was the best play I've ever seen. Friday and Saturday were spent coming home.

We rushed around quite a bit, but it was necessary to keep on schedule so we could see everything. The trip on the whole, was the most interesting one I've ever been on. Everyone became like one big family, and it was sad when we all separated.

Many things can happen on a trip, and we had a few exciting incidents. We came home tired but with a little more knowledge and respect for our country. I think, if anyone gets a chance to go on this trip or one like it, they should go. They will benefit greatly, and it is a lot of fun.

Miss Peggy Davison is June bride of Kenny Wayne Bright

VANDUSER—Twin bouquets of white mums with rainbow-colored ribbons graced the alter of Vanduser Baptist Church for the June 28 wedding of Peggy Jean Davison of Vanduser and Kenny Wayne Bright of Sikeston Route One.

The Rev. Lawrence Ray performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Jessie Todd was pianist and accompanied Louis Watkins as he sang "More".

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Davison of Vanduser, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bright of Sikeston Route One.

neckline, sheer bodice and sheer shepherdess sleeves all accented with lace. The gathered skirt featured a wide, fluted, gathered flounce at the hem.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal-length gown of peau de soie and Chantilly lace. The gown featured a high

The bride wore an elbow-length, three-tiered veil of white illusion, and carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Miss Darline Hatley of Vanduser was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Peggy Walls of Matthews, sister of the groom; Dorothy Jones of Crowder; Barbara Davison of Vanduser, sister of the bride; and Debbie Bright of Crowder, sister of the groom

The attendants wore long gowns of dacron overlaid with flowered sheer dacron. The dresses featured empire waistlines accented with satin ribbon and short sleeves which were flounced and sheer. Bridesmaids wore mint green, light blue, hot pink and lavender dresses, respectively; and the maid of honor wore an apricot dress. Each girl carried a nosegay of white mums tipped to match the color of their gowns.

Ricky Daniels of Oran was best man. Terry Walls of Matthews, brother-in-law of the groom, Mike Bivens of Sikeston Route Four, Alfred Pearson of Bell City Route One, and Chuck Pobst of Sikeston Route Four were groomsmen.

They wore white tuxedoes with colored shirts to match the color of the gown of the bride's attendant each escorted.

Ushers were Richard Eaker and Terry Burton.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church. Sherri Owens of Sikeston Route Four and Cindy Pobst of Oran served guests. Vickie Dollins of Morley attended the guestbook.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Cookson and Jay, Vestor Phillips and Judy Cook of Morley; Harold Britt and Billy Brown of Sikeston; Barb Abner and Fred Brown of Bell City; Kathy Daniel, Judy Daniel and Carol Jansen of Oran; Dorothy and Freddie Middleton and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kennedy of Matthews; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Adams of Denver, Colo.; and Sandy Griffin of Dudley.

Women executives have bright futures

Over three in five (64.6%) corporation presidents plan to increase the number of female executives in their companies over the next five years, according to an exclusive study conducted by The Gallagher Presidents' Report among chief executives of 250 leading U.S. corporations. The weekly newsletter to chief executives finds women compose 35.5% of the average company's labor force of 2246 employees. However, only one in 10 of the average company's 76 executives is a woman. An executive is defined as 1) an officer and/or director (cited by 75.1% of the GPR respondents); 2) a person with P&L responsibilities (listed by 49.0%); 3) a department head (46.1%); 4) an individual in charge of a staff function (28.2%). 12.2% consider responsibility for a minimum number of employees as an executive function (12 employees per executive). 6.9% regard salary level as an important consideration (average $17,900). The study is published as a Supplement to this week's issue.

Over three in four (78.4%) company presidents think "women's lib" has helped women in business despite the fact that over half (51.6%) of the corporate chiefs don't feel the movement reflects the thinking of a majority of women, the Report continues. On the other hand, 44.0% think the movement is generally good. While two-thirds (66.1%) of the presidents in the study admit that females are discriminated against in business today, 76.0% see the encouragement of women to seek meaningful careers as a chief benefit of the movement. 66.4% regard the heightened awarness of job/pay inequalities as a positive factor. 48.5% recognize the movement has opened up a new corporate resource for executive talent.

The Report finds that administration looms as a major area for female executive employment in the future. Personnel, sales, marketing, communications, finance, and advertising are also areas for employing female executive talent. The professions (accounting, law), production, acquisition and merger appear the least likely prospects for female executive potential.

Seven in 10 (70.7%) presidents find women executives superior in paperwork, detail. Nearly one-third (32.9%) find female executives more economical with company funds. The major objections to hiring female executives center around the tendency of women to drop out during their childbearing years and the lack of adequate preparation for executive positions, according to the Report.

The continuing government crackdown on corporate hiring and promotion practices is expected to accelerate the change in executive suites, the Report finds. One in five (21.1%) companies in the GPR study has experienced government investigation of female employment policies. The problem appears more acute in Big Business where 37.0% of the presidents heading companies with annual sales over $100 million report government probes of female hiring, promotion practices. While only one in three (31.0%) companies actively recruit female executives, of those who do over eight in 10 (85.3%) promote from within. Over half (51.6%) the GPR respondents provide on-the-job training opportunities for executives. 94.1% include women in regular training programs.

The biggest problem to be overcome by female executives as viewed by 63.0% of the presidents in the study is male ego resentment of a female boss, the Report concludes.

What's the law?

The case of the aging cop

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Upon reaching his 50th birthday, Sam expected to begin losing his hair, his teeth and even his illusions. But he never figured he'd lose his job as a state policeman. Yet a state law was enacted which prescribed mandatory retirement for any state policeman 50 years of age.

Refusing to hang up his shield and empty his gun, Sam aggressively attacked the validity of the retirement statute in court.

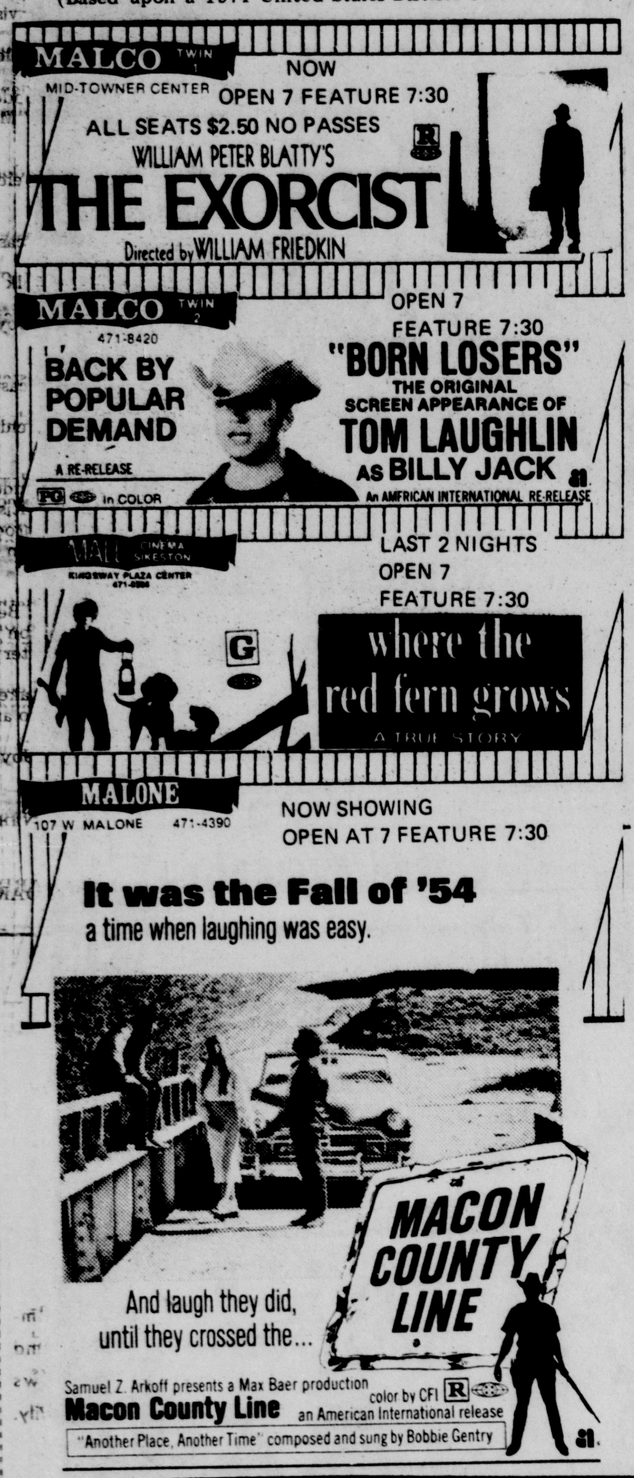
"To compel a cop to retire at 50," he argued, "isn't fair. I'm as tough and efficient as I ever was. What's more, I'm the fastest gun on the force."

"That may be," conceded state officials, "but, we can't deal with individual situations. At 50 years of age, some men are still big and strong while others can be blown over by a kiss. To maintain a vigorous and healthy police department a mandatory retirement age was necessary and the one we picked can't be challenged."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of the retirement statute and bounce aging Sam from the force?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that to arbitrarily force a policeman to retire at 50 years of age with his age being the sole criterion for his retirement is unreasonable and unconstitutional. At that young age, concluded the judge in effect, there must be some other evidence to indicate a reason for his compulsory retirement from the force.

(Based upon a 1974 United States District Court Decision)



DR LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Will diet harm unborn baby?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can dieting during pregnancy be harmful to the unborn baby? My friend is one month pregnant and weighs 110 pounds. She says she will allow herself to gain no more than 10 pounds during the pregnancy.

What does determine the weight of the baby? Is there an way a woman can control the weight of the baby so she will have a smaller baby?

DEAR READER — The only person who should diet during a pregnancy is a woman with a medical problem, like toxemia of pregnancy. I think it is very unwise for a pregnant woman to diet except upon the advice of her doctor.

That new baby needs protein to develop. If he doesn't get it there is a possibility of faulty development, or as some scientists have suggested, the baby's brain may not be developed to its full capacity. In plain language, the baby won't be as smart as it should be.

The latest recommendations from the Food and Nutrition Council of the National Academy of Sciences recommends an addition of 30 grams of protein a day at a bare minimum. For more information on dietary requirements write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019, and ask for the booklet on Balanced Diet. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

The placenta and fluid around the baby will amount to about two-and-a-half pounds. The uterus will also increase in weight as it must develop to provide support for the baby and delivery of the baby. It usually increases over two pounds in weight. The breasts normally gain about two pounds. That accounts for at least six-and-a-half pounds without considering the weight of the baby. The body normally accumulates some extra fluid during pregnancy, and the mother's volume of blood is increased to support the pregnancy.

It follows that in a normal pregnancy with a baby of about seven pounds, the mother will gain a minimum of 15 to 20 pounds just to support the pregnancy. Now if she is fat to begin with she can use some of her body fat, but oddly enough it is the skinny woman who wants to avoid gaining weight during pregnancy. So she harms her own body and harms her baby by failing to follow the good advice of her doctor.

The baby's weight will indeed depend upon the mother's health during the pregnancy, and that definitely includes what she eats. It will also depend upon how long the pregnancy lasts. One indication of whether a baby is premature or not is its birth weight. Premature babies often have serious health problems at birth.

The mother's diet must contain adequate amounts of minerals. The baby has to develop a complete skeleton and that means it needs calcium. The mother can lose calcium from her own skeleton if she doesn't pay attention to this. The American diet is often deficient in calcium, so it is a very important consideration. The baby will also need lots of iron.

Washington report

Housing program aids elderly in small towns

By STUART SYMINGTON
U.S. Senator—Missouri

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Low- cost housing is a major concern of many Missourians, but it is especially vital to senior citizens who wish to live dignified, self- sufficient lives. Due to a lack of inexpensive, adequate housing in rural areas all over the country, many elderly persons on low, fixed incomes have been forced to leave the towns where they and their families have spent many years.

Starting in 1964, however, using loans from the Farmer's Home Administration, many smaller communities in Missouri reversed this trend and modern low- cost housing for moderate- income families and senior citizens has been constructed.

Oak Grove First to Act

The FmHA makes low-interest loans available to non-profit and citizen groups for new housing which both suits the needs of the elderly and fits into the community it serves. Only 10 years ago, the people of Oak Grove in Jackson County responded to the need for housing for the aged and became the first town in Missouri to apply for federal funds.

Since then, 140 communities have built a total of 2,902 apartment units for senior citizens, making Missouri the nation's leader in housing of this type. MFA has financed loans totaling $28,905,880 for these projects in our state.

The National Housing Act provided for support of housing credit for both urban and rural areas. Towns of 10,000 population or less are eligible to receive loans from the FmHA, an agency of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Most of the housing built for the elderly in Missouri small towns has been garden-style, one- story apartments with no steps. These units usually are located near shopping areas and medical care and contain central laundry and recreational facilities. Most important, this housing allows persons on fixed incomes to remain in the towns where they have spent their lives and have long family or friendship ties.

Arthur Stanley

One man, Arthur Stanley, who has helped the small cities all over our state solve the problem of low cost housing, deserves special recognition. After 35 years of service with the Missouri Farmers Home Administration and its predecessor agency, the Farm Security Administration, Mr. Stanley retired June 30.

Beginning as an assistant county office supervisor in 1939, he had advanced through the FmHA to become a leading specialist in the rental housing area.

Thanks to the efforts of Art Stanley and concerned citizens all over our state, Missouri has moved ahead in the continuing effort to provide decent, inexpensive housing for those who have the greatest need.

His dedicated assistance and guidance have been invaluable.

Soft contact lenses not answer to everyone's vision problem

CHICAGO (AP) — Soft contact lenses are not the answer to everybody's vision problems, but apparently they are here to stay.

The so-called soft contacts have gained wide popularity in the three years they have been available in the United States because of the ease with which they can be worn.

Dr. Barton L. Hodes, an ophthalmologist on the faculty at Northwestern University medical school, said that while he would fit his own children with soft contact lenses if they needed them today, "they're not the answer to everybody's problems."

Dr. Whitney G. Sampson, a Houston, Tex., ophthalmologist who is president of the Contact Lens Association of Ophthalmologists, said at a recent symposium on contact lenses that "soft —as well as hard—contact lenses are here to stay."

But the decision as to which the patient needs should be the eye doctor's, he said.

He said there were some early problems with soft contacts because the same techniques used for fitting the hard ones were used.

But he said the soft lenses are now "definitely safe, effective and warranted in a fair percentage of situations" in the management of certain vision problems.

Contact lenses correct vision the same way eyeglasses do.

There are no accurate figures on the number of persons wearing contact lenses or eyeglasses. An estimated 50 per cent or more of the population wear some type of corrective lenses. Of these, contacts may be worn by 2.5 to 3 per cent.

Malden council to hold special meeting Friday

MALDEN — The City Council Monday night voted to hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the council room to meet with an architect and discuss low bidders on the new community building.

The council decided to have 100 copies of the new zoning ordinance and map printed at a cost of $300.

The council also accepted the revised budget for the new fiscal year, with the only change being that monies allotted for the recreational park may be changed as needed.

In other action, the council told the chief of police to ask owners to remove all old cars parked on the street which are not licensed.

The street department was given permission to purchase oil for blacktopping at a cost of $155.

Frankly speaking

Mandatory allocation vital to independents

By SEN. THOMAS F. EAGLETON

WASHINGTON — The mandatory fuel allocation program is of critical importance to independent oil marketers. Without it independents fear they may not be able to stay in business.

One of those independents is MFA -- the largest independent oil dealer in Missouri. If MFA and other independents went out of business, farmers, a large number of whom purchase oil from independents, would be forced to buy exclusively from the major oil companies. This could mean fuel scarcity and higher prices.

The independents' plight has been recognized since the fall of 1971, when various sections of the country experienced shortages of petroleum products. Insufficient production capabilities for crude oil and a domestic shortage of refining capacity made it impossible to meet all of our oil demands. Yet while demands were increased, so were the needs of the other industrial countries.

For this reason I offered the first legislative allocation proposal to the Economic Stabilization Act in 1973. It allowed the President to allocate fuel across the country on a mandatory basis. It was then apparent that independents must survive if competition was to continue in the fuel marketing industry.

The President did not use his authority to allocate, so in 1973 the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act was passed by Congress to protect the consumer from unreasonably high prices and to maintain competition in the oil industry.

My current concerns are the Federal Energy Administration's attempts to thwart the allocation program and oppose Congressional efforts to extend authority for the program, which otherwise will expire in February.

According to recent press reports, John Sawhill, chief of the Federal Energy Administration, has already prepared a memo entitled "Petroleum Deallocation Strategy" which was sent to top officials in the administration proposing a method to phase out the allocation program.

It is hard to visualize how an agency can effectively carry out its legislative mandate if the key officials in the agency are in basic opposition to the legislative goals stated in the laws that they are required to enforce.

At a recent meeting with Sawhill, the Independent Gasoline Marketers Council, a group of nonbranded independent marketers submitted a position paper to the FEA urging several steps to be taken to maintain and protect competition within the marketing segment of the oil industry. The paper clearly indicated that they have serious reservations about eliminating allocations at this time.

I agree with this position and recently spoke on this subject in the Senate. With the public's attention momentarily diverted from the oil companies because of a current lack of shortages, we should not lose sight of the long- range problem and the continuing threat to independent marketers.

Extension of the Emergency Petroleum allocation Act would prevent this and would help protect consumers from even higher and more unreasonable prices.

Malone features Max Baer film

The plight of two brothers from Chicago and their Dallas girl friend, suspected of a heinous murder in a small Southern town, unfolds in "Macon County Line", which opens tonight at Malone Theatre, 107 W. Malone Ave.

Alan Vint and Jesse Vint, real brothers as well as for their movie roles, star in the American International release produced by Max Baer and Roger Camras.

Baer also enacts the role of a sheriff whose wife, played by Joan Blackman, is the murder victim.

Also starring in the film are Cheryl Waters, the girlfriend, and Geoffrey Lewis, Sam Gilman, Timothy Scott, James Gammon, Leif Garrett, Emile Meyer and Doodles Weaver.

"Macon County Line" is based on a story written by Baer and Richard Compton, who directed the film.

Piggyback taxes are sometimes a polite term for greed on the part of those who tax.

Heavy trading may mean better days

By CROCKETT SCOTT

"The Mighty Hopes that Make us Men."

...Tennyson

A glimmer of hope in the stock market could be that some of the badly depressed stocks may have touched bottom.

Whether or not sight gains hold will be proven or disproven in time.

But heavy trading in distressed common shares sometimes are forerunners of better days.

First Charter Financial is an example. This California savings and loan firm has been hurt by high interest rates, with certificates of deposit and bonds siphoning off funds it normally obtains from small money savers.

Recently First Charter bounded up from about 6½ to over seven.

Lennar Corp., a home builder, also appears to be attempting to get up off the floor.

Kaufman & Broad, another home builder with interests also in cable television, has climbed from its low of recent days.

First Charter, Lennar and Kaufman & Broad all have been heavily traded recently.

Another issue which has made a move to the upside is Bausch & Lomb.

R. H. Macy & Co. and Bell & Howell also have turned upward for the time being -- even though the moves may be of short duration.

Qualified economists say the depressed stock market may be heralding a depression; noting that recognized standards of measuring the pace of the economy already are defining it as encumbered by a recession.

Stock market analysts remind that lessened strength in the economy eventually will tend to ease the demand for money for capital expansion.

They add that, as the velocity of the economy eases, there will be less demand for money, with the likelihood of declining interest rates, which in turn makes for potentially higher corporate profits, recycling the economy for another upward turn.

Realization of the approaching turn stimulates the buyer of common stocks again; and as he starts acquiring shares, their price goes up.

Kiplinger's Washington Letter has a few words to say about the economy, and the optimists about the market should be happy to hear part of it.

"More boom" ahead, says Kiplinger. Now comes the bad part of the letter's prediction," more inflation ahead."

"Over the next 10 years," says the Kiplinger Letter, "inflation will continue to jog along at nearly twice the rate of the 1960s ... despite Nixon's efforts to roll it back. And business will boom again as the biggest backlog of savings that the American consumer has ever stashed away comes out of hiding and into the market.

"This may be hard for you to accept under today's conditions. But the fact remains that those who do prepare for the new boom ahead will reap big dividends for their foresight -- and avoid the blunders others will make."

The savings which Kiplinger talks about should help fuel the stock market, eventually. But first the ingredient of confidence has to be present.

Some plus for confidence in the market may be found in the published reports about Saudi Arabia's oil money finding its way to the United States.

An Associated Press dispatch of July 20 noted that Saudi Arabia likely will invest a sizeable amount of its oil wealth in the United States -- in government securities and the stock market, too.

Any money the Arabs place in American stocks should help the market, pricewise.

In 1918, Elmo Lincoln, was the first actor to portray "Tarzan the Ape Man" in the movies.

Rowe under $2,500 bond on drug charge

NEW MADRID — Two men were bound over to Circuit Court for trial on felony charges after both waived a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

Charged with possession of marijuana in excess of 35 grams and possession of paraphernalia for administering controlled drugs, Charles Rowe was placed under $2,500 bond pending his Circuit Court appearance.

In addition to marijuana, Rowe is accused of possession of paraphernalia consisting of one pipe, one gas mask hose and one cigarette holder for administering controlled drugs.

Charles Gill of Tallapoosa was bound over to Circuit Court under $500 bond on a charge of feloniously exhibiting a shotgun in a threatening manner before Charles Deprow.

A fine of $45 was assessed Daniel Leslie Flowers for careless and imprudent driving and operating a motor vehicle with defective brakes. Sammy White paid a $40 fine for careless and imprudent driving.

A charge of malicious destruction of personal property resulted in a $35 fine against Brenda Fields. Richard Carter pleaded guilty to trespassing on property owned by Roy F. Elam and was fined $50.

Alan Vincent Seagrave, a driver from outside of the state, was levied a $125 fine on a driving while intoxicated charge.

Marsha Ann Clubb paid a $25 fine for driving without a license, and Clarence T. Parks and Columbus Watters each paid $20 fines on similar charges. Randall Don Williams was fined $20 for operating an improperly registered vehicle.

Thirty-two fines were levied on speeding citations. Persons fined were:

Norris Richmond Jr. and Fredrick James Wilson, $75 each; Robert Wesley Spencer; Cloyd B. Moran Jr., John D. Talbert and Archie Kelly, $50 each; Betty Lou Delcove, $41; Stanley Michael Harmon and William Lloyd Reed, $34 each; Gerald Counts, James Edward Pell, Robert Wayne Nix and Brian Lee Willis, $30 each.

James Allen House, Earnest Honey, Jerry Don Lorance, Richard D. Duvall, Owen J. Taul, and Marshall Wendall Thompson, $28 each; Jack Raymond Lewis, Keith Allen Grissom, Willie Davis Motton, James Baker, Betty Mae Hinton, Jerry Wayne Lewis and Leonard Edward Smith, $26 each; Robert Eugene Bush and Danny Lee Albritton, $25 each; and James Linn Chamberlain, Jack Lee Weddington, William Robert Chamberlain and Roy Lee Bishop, $20 each.

Casting derby, rodeo winners announced

RISCO — Winners of the casting derby, bicycle rodeo and demonstration activities, conducted last week in conjunction with the annual New Madrid County 4-H Fair, have been announced.

Howard Bailey and Sheila Midgett of Risco were top winners in the casting derby held Wednesday afternoon under the direction of Conservation Agent Wayne Martin of Cape Girardeau and Sam Tanner of New Madrid. Contestants performed after they saw a film on Missouri Rivers and fishing shown by Martin.

Other winners were Wayne Blough of Risco and Lori Deprow of Tallapoosa, second, and Johnny Sells of Matthews and Charlene Whiffen of Canalou, third. Honorable mention went to Andy McCord and Chris Hon of Risco and Terena Joyce and Melissa Kirksey of Risco.

Sheila Buck and Andrew Joyce of Risco won first place in the bicycle rodeo Thursday afternoon. The rodeo was conducted by highway patrol Sgt. Joe Matthews of Poplar Bluff, who was assisted by Mrs. Paul Cummins of Risco and Mrs. Richard Whiffen of Matthews.

Also winning recognition were Trena Joyce of Risco and Gary Phillips of Marston, second, and Randy Phillips of Marston and Sheila Midgett of Risco, third. Honorable mention was awarded to Tammy Hony and Chris Hon of Risco, Marie Macklan of Portageville and Van Malloy of Canalou.

Awards were also presented to winners of demonstration activities, held Thursday morning under the direction of Mrs. Dianne Watson of Canalou.

Winners of $5 cash prizes for over 14- age demonstrators were Cheryl Whiffen and Cindy Blankenship of Canalou, who presented "Grooming a Horse."

Winning the $5 top prize for the under- 14 age group was Wayne Blough, Risco, who presented "Photography ... The Old and the New."

Second prize of $3 for under - 14 demonstrators went to Tommy Kirksey of Risco, who showed "Hunters Safety."

Third prize of $2.50 was presented to Christie Pearson of Risco, who showed "Measuring Liquid and Dry Ingredients."

Other red ribbons went to Chris Hon of Risco, "Archery Tips"; Keith Hampton of Lilbourn, "Transplanting Okra" Gail Polk of Canalou, "Show Horse at Halter", Charene Whiffen of Canalou, "Horse Traveling"; and Marie Malloy of Canalou, "Fun With Playdough."

No Battery Hearing Aid

BATTERY COST GOING UP AND UP
WHERE WILL IT STOP?

MISSOURI SPECIAL.) An all new hearing aid that uses no battery has been developed and is saving money for ring aid users throughout the untry. It is moderate in ice, yet superior to other much higher priced instruments. The nickel cadmium powercell eliminates batteries and does away with background noise and hum in the amplifier. The automatic suppression circuit controls those too loud noises, helps your hearing and understanding in church, noisy restaurants, in traffic and crowds. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor
Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Mr. Editor,

The President of the U.S.A. is under attack, not just for the misdeeds of some of his associates but, by the powerful conspirators to destroy America and the Presidency of the U.S.A. The news media, while not a part of the conspiracy, is nevertheless playing into the hands of the conspirators and the President, himself, is falling deeper and deeper in the pit. By ignoring the horrible conditions of our country and courting the ones who are plotting the downfall of our country and the people the President is calling friends, are the plotters and planners. I could not but note the contempt of Brezhnev when he was looking or talking to Nixon, the one thing the Russians have the uttmost contempt for, is weakness, and the Russians are not stupid, they know when they have the upper hand. The President, if he would regain the confidence of the American People and the world, would be to get the affairs of this country straightened out, by divorcing himself from the Big Oil companies the oppressors of the common people, the Communists are hopeful that this country will fall, but they don't know what a Great and Mighty God has declared that no conquerer will set foot on this land. God has proven that Declaration through two of the vicious wars the world has ever known and that same almighty God will never permit the foot of an enemy to walk upon this land. So in Conclusion let me say, Mr. Editor, that the President, had better look to America and the American people for his help, if he wants to survive.

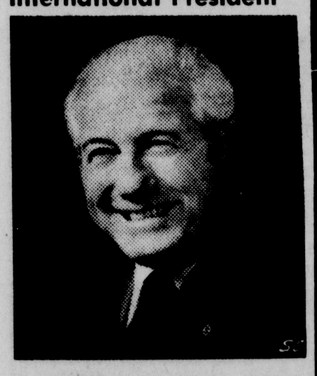
Lions Elect New International President



SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA—Johnny Balbo of Oak Brook, Illinois, was elected President of the International Association of Lions Clubs at their 57th Annual Convention in San Francisco, California. Lions International is the largest humanitarian service club organization in the world. It is a non-political, non-sectarian association with over one million members in 146 nations and geographic areas.

A former professional wrestler and World Light-Heavyweight Champion from 1947-49, Balbo has been a member of the La Grange, Illinois, Lions Club since 1952. Now a mobile home park owner, Balbo is a director of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness and a trustee of Leader Dog School for the Blind, Rochester, Michigan, and Hadley School for the Blind in Winnetka, Illinois.

President Balbo's theme for his year in office, "Lionism: a Heritage Challenging Tomorrow," exhorts Lions everywhere to build upon their strong history of service to meet the future needs of the handicapped, the lonely and the under-privileged of the world.

— The first official Memorial Day was celebrated on May 30, 1868, at Arlington National Cemetery.

Bernie conducts unofficial census

BERNIE — The city of Bernie is conducting an unofficial census in hopes it will show a significant increase in population since the 1970 federal census. If there is a sufficient increase, the city can apply for an official recount, according to Mayor R. B. Woods.

The 1970 federal census showed a Bernie population of 1,641 — up from 1,578 in 1960. The Board of Aldermen believes increased industrial activity and housing expansion has increased the population.

An increased population could mean increased benefits to the city, such as an increase in federal revenue- sharing funds.

In addition, the figures revealed by the census should be of interest to the city and Chamber of Commerce, Woods said.

There is no direct cost to the city in conducting the census. A high school student, Charlotte Wilmath, working for the city under a federally financed summer program is conducting the census.

She began going house- to- house in Bernie Monday afternoon. Starting in the southern section of the city, she estimated Wednesday afternoon that she had covered about one- quarter of the city. Her total for that section was 520 persons.

In conducting the census, she asks five simple questions. They are: who is the head of the household; what is the address; how many persons are in the family; are there any school age children; and does anyone live there part- time?

Mornings are spent going door- to- door and afternoons are spent at the city hall making sure of totals and verifying addresses.

The census should take about two weeks, Miss Wilmath said, then she'll return to full- time work at the city hall until Aug. 10, when the summer program ends.

The work is "warm but very interesting," she said. She finds it interesting to meet everyone in the city although she already knows quite a few.

The results of the unofficial census should be complete before Bernie's next regular Board of Aldermen meeting in August.

Chiropractors plan seminar

The Southeast Missouri Chiropractors Association met Sunday at the Holiday Inn.

Dr. D. Warren Salzmann of Jackson presented the program, and Dr. Jack Kessinger of Viburnum reported that classes for physiotherapy and rehabilitation will be available Nov. 3 and 4 in Jefferson City.

Plans were finalized for a Sept. 14-15 educational seminar in Cape Girardeau at the Holiday Inn.

4 arrested

Police today announced the arrest of Jerry Mac McMackin, 122 Cardinal Drive, for assault and battery; Michael S. Kuehle, 812 Ladue Drive, and James Allen Kiefer, 215 Harry St., speeding; and Gloria Jean Odum, 804 Agnes St., driving while intoxicated.

'Second-hand smoke' dangerous to bystander

Plenty of ammunition is now at hand to help the nonsmoking majority defend itself against the health menace of "second- hand" smoke.

Strengthening the arguments that favor the rights of nonsmokers, who outnumber smokers two to one, the American Lung Association rounded up information based on recent research concerning the harmful effects of tobacco smoke on innocent bystanders.

"Sidestream" smoke from the burning end of a cigarette and "mainstream" smoke pulled in by the smoker and then exhaled are more than merely nuisances to the nostrils and eyes of others, the lung association said.

In an article in its monthly magazine, the Bulletin, entitled, "The Facts About Second- Hand Cigarette Smoke", the nationwide Christmas Seal agency warned that this "double exposure" offers serious threats to the lungs and circulatory system of the unwilling inhaler.

For example:

Twice as much tar and nicotine is found in sidestream smoke from the end of a burning cigarette as in mainstream smoke.

Ten cigarettes an hour smoked in an enclosed auto pollute the air so much that the carbon monoxide doubles in the blood of smokers and nonsmokers alike and could interfere with driving safety.

Parents who smoke at home can aggravate symptoms in asthmatic children and even trigger attacks in some. Even among non- asthmatic children of such parents, researchers found twice as much respiratory illness.

This information is being incorporated into a new leaflet, to be available from local affiliated lung associations, which will also include suggestions on how nonsmokers can apply it to protect themselves from polluting smokers. The intent is also to inform smokers who don't realize the distress and possibly serious health hazares they may inflict on non- smokers.

Hundreds of chemical compounds are contained in tobacco and hundreds more are created when tobacco burns. Listed among the most hazardous, in addition to the more familiar tar and nicotine, are carbon monoxide, cadmium, nitrogen dioxide, carbon dioxide, ammonia, DDT, benzene, formaldehide and hydrogen sulphide.

"Any one alone can assault the body and cause trouble. Together they make smoking the menace it is, " the lung association said.

Studies were reported to show that sidestream smoke contains higher concentrations of noxious compounds than mainstream smoke. Besides tallying twice the tar and nicotine content, the studies indicated threetimes as much 3-4 benzpyrene, suspected as a cancer- causing agent; five times as much carbon monoxide, which robs the blood of oxygen; and 50 times as much ammonia in sidestream smoke.

They also found more cadmium, which is under investigation as one of the compounds that damages the lungs' air sacs, causing emphysema.

After only 30 minutes in a smoke- filled room, according to one study, the carbon monoxide level in the nonsmoker's blood increases along with his blood pressure and heartbeat. The lung association added that researchers found that smoking seven cigarettes in one hour -- even in a ventilated room -- lifted carbon monoxide levels in the seat next to the smoker to 90 parts per million, almost twice the maximum set for industry.

In an enclosed auto, smoking ten cigarettes also produced carbon monoxide levels up to 90 p.p.m.

"Some studies indicate that, with these levels of carbon monoxide in the blood, people cannot distinguish relative brightness, lose some ability to judge time intervals and take longer to respond to tail- lights," the Bulletin article said.

"They also show impaired performance on some psychomotor tests.

1,000 hours contributed

The charm of the Irish shines in Joseph Kelledy's smile as he accepts an award presented to him by E. A. "Wally" Richter, vice president of the American Lung Association of Eastern Missouri, for more than 1,000 hours of volunteer service. Kelledy, who writes and sings songs about his native country, Ireland, and his adopted country, America, is a regular volunteer at the offices of the ALA at 911 Locust St. in St. Louis. "Helping with Christmas Seals helps keep me lively," says the 92- year - old volunteer worker, "and it keeps other people that way, too."

C'ville housing plan seems 'all but dead'

CARUTHERSVILLE — Depended upon to help ease the need for increased public housing while adding sparkle to Caruthersville's downtown district, a planned $2-million seven- story apartment complex for the elderly now appears "all but dead."

That was the evaluation Tuesday of Caruthersville Housing Authority's executive director in the wake of HUD's refusal to approve a $2,024,000 price tag that would have allowed work on the project to have begun in August.

"After wrestling with this thing for almost two years, it's very disappointing. It looks like a definite need is not going to be met," said Ralph Stone, the director.

"We're considering it all but dead now," he said.

The housing authority's remaining hope is pinned to a "diminished plan" that it still hopes to present to the Department of Housing and Urban Development in an effort to salvage at least part of the project.

Originally, plans called for a 60- unit, 63,000- square feet building to include a laundry, a first- floor community room and meeting rooms to cost $1.4 million. Bids were taken in October 1972, with construction to have started in early 1973.

But, in November 1973, increased costs caused the contractor, Consultants Development Corp. of Memphis, to withdraw, throwing the project in jeopardy.

The housing authority then negotiated a preliminary $1.6- million agreement with Boyer Construction Co. of Sikeston in time to receive a go- ahead from HUD Jan. 3, two days before a moratorium on new public housing construction took effect.

However, in May, the company said higher material costs and an unaccounted- for need for stronger earthquake protection in the building's foundation would push the cost past the $2- million mark.

"What the earthquake protection amounted to is that instead of steel encased pilings driven 50 feet, it would mean 65 feet. And, of course, the price of steel has gone up sharply," Stone said.

"It's a very simple matter, really — money. The federal government is not going to agree to put that much money into what we had hoped for in Caruthersville. It's about $400,000 more than had been conted on," he said.

Thus, the fate of the project rests largely on the housing authority's ability to scale down the project at the eleventh hour without having to relinquish the approval to continue received before the moratorium, he said.

"To do that would be like starting all over again, and we need the housing as soon as possible," he said.

While not disclosing what alternatives the housing authority is considering, Stone said "something will have to be come up with in a matter of days."

Caruthesville now has 120 housing units for the elderly included in a total of 308 public housing units administered by the housing authority, "and there is an immediate need," he said.

People never cease to amaze me! Remember my column a week or two ago about our two hunting dogs that Charles let out in the yard and they ran away and we had to call the dog catcher to help us locate them? Well, this is really going to get you, a number of people called the poor man up after reading that column and demanded he make us buy dog stamps for the dogs. Well, this was a minor thing and one that didn't matter a hoot. I never even knew you had to have a stamp unkess the dogs were allowed to run loose, and as we have runs built in our yard and the dogs are always kept penned with the exception of this one time when they got away, the thought of a stamp had never entered my mind.

Anyhow, we bought them and it was certainly no big deal — however — the big deal to me was that those people who called the dog catcher had nothing more pressing or important on their minds than trying to annoy someone else over something as unimportant as a dog stamp! I mean there are so many issues in our world today that could stand a little thought and pressure, for example, if you want to complain about something, why not complain to someone about a movie such as "The Exorcist" which should never be allowed to be shown and have you looked at who's lined up to see it — the teenagers! Or, I can think of a number of items in our governmental system on all levels that needs some pressure brought to bear! Or, if you're so bored such trivia as dog tags are all you have to take up your time then why not do some volunteer work at the hospital, or the retardation clinic, I do and I know they could really use the help. As so could our Scout organizations or the groups that work with the elderly. Now, I'm sorry my dogs weren't tagged, but they are now, and I'm sorry that was the most important thing you people had to fill your minds with and as I said I corrected my mistake — I certainly pray you do something about yours!!

Former 'narc' says job tough

EMPORIA, KAN. (AP) — Dressed in dirty jeans, cowboy boots and a denim jacket with the sleeves cut off, Rick Eaton took a long draw on his cigarette and slowly blew smoke between his lips.

As easily as a Wall Street executive recalls stock market prices, he quoted current Kansas street prices for "coke," or cocaine, "smak," or heroin, and other illegal drugs.

His face was unshaven and he constantly pushed his long hair from in front of his eyes.

He was alien to people who once called him "friend," and he despised the people he was associating with—those he called "creeps." Nearly every night he could be found in a bar sipping a glass of beer, and talking about drugs.

He hoped his appearance and manner labeled him as a pusher or user. If not, he would have failed at his $750-a-month job as an undercover narcotics agent for the Kansas Bureau of Investigation—a job he held until last summer when he decided to end his 16-month career as a "narc."

The more than 200 people he arrested during investigations in 20 Kansas towns would not recognize him today as he goes quietly about his job as a detective at the Lyon County sheriff's office.

The long hair has been cut, with only neatly trimmed sideburns remaining; blue jeans have been replaced by dress slacks, a coat and tie.

Even the name, Rick Eaton, has been dropped. He now is known by his real neame—Eric Eslinger.

A former Army military policeman, Eslinger joined the KBI because "I thought I'd like the suspense and excitement of working as an undercover agent."

After a brief familiarization he was assigned to a drug investigation. "My training with the bureau was on the job," he said.

He quit the bureau because he is married—the only undercover married man at the KBI—and he feels undercover work is not a job for a family man.

Eslinger's procedure was similar in each town where he bought drugs. "Law officers write to the bureau and ask that an undercover agent be sent to their community," he said.

"We had a backlog of 40 to 50 requests, and preference was given to towns where informants were available."

Prosecutors try to convince jurors that informants help because they think drugs are bad, but usually informants are drug users who have been arrested and agree to help police in return for reduced jail sentences, he said.

Eslinger said the KBI tried not to use former drug users. "When I worked there all the agents were people with some type of police training—not former drug users," he said. "I didn't like to have to trust former users."

If an undercover agent can pose as an informant's friend or relative sometimes he can make a drug buy within a few days, Eslinger said. If the agent has to make his own contacts he might have to wait as much as six months to make an arrest.

When an agent is assigned to a town the KBI supplies a list of former drug users and people believed to be involved with drugs. Often being accepted is not easy, he said.

"I've known agents who even had to drop acid (LSD) to keep their cover," Eslinger said. "It seems drug users think they are safe if they can get you to use the drugs."

Sometimes Eslinger would have to hang around bars and taverns where drug dealers visited. Once police raided a club where he was making a drug buy and he was put in jail. He was not released until the bureau confirmed he was an agent.

He did not stay in the area after that. "Once someone knows you're an agent, regardless of who he is, everyone is going to know pretty soon," he said. "Even policemen's kids might use drugs."

Enslinger said an agent will buy drugs in a town until he is about to be exposed or until he makes a drug buy from a specific person he was sent to get.

"Since you have to start at the bottom and work up, many of your drug buys will be with people who are just drug users and not big-time pushers," he said. "Sometimes you get burned (exposed) before you get to the suppliers."

Convictions are difficult, he said. Under Kansas law a person who sells drugs is not guilty if he was "induced or solicited" by someone to make the sale, a claim often made against agents and informants.

Another problem is the credibility of informants.

"The defense attorney gets the informant to tell all about his background and former drug use," Enslinger said. "Usually the informant's past is much worse than the defendant's."

Often the informant seems to be on trial. After one case a woman juror was asked why she voted for acquittal. "No one likes a Judas," she said.

Enslinger defends undercover agents and informants and predicts until tougher drug laws are enacted drug use will grow.

Vossmeyer asks Bond to call special session

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Despite Gov. Christopher S. Bond's insistance that he will not call a special session of the legislature this fall for any reason, another legislator asked him today to do so.

Rep. Steve Vossmeyer, D-St. Louis, asked Bond to call a special session in conjunction with the September veto session for revision of the state's ambulance licensing law.

Sections of the law, Vossmeyer said in his letter to the governor, "have been construed so as to prohibit the transportation of sick or injured persons to the nearest emergency facility by police officers.

"Obviously this was not the intent of the legislature nor do I think it was your intent in signing the bill," Vossmeyer wrote.

Because of what he termed "the very real threat to human life" that could result from such an interpretation, Vossmeyer asked for the special session so the law could be clarified.

The ambulance licensing law, passed by the legislature last year and fully in effect as of July 1, sets out standards for ambulance operation and qualifications for attendants and drivers.

Wyatt woman gets probation

Marilyn McCleary of Wyatt was sentenced to 90 days in jail Tuesday in Magistrate Court proceedings in the Sikeston City Courtroom after pleading guilty to cashing a bogus check.

Her sentence was suspended and she was placed on probation for two years.

Imposition of sentence for nonsupport against Clyde Richard Greer of Madison Street in Morehouse. was delayed for one year on condition he pays $10 a week in child support. He is to reappear for sentencing on July 22, 1975.

Robert J. Dover, 322 William St., waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to appear Thursday in Circuit Court on a charge of knowingly harboring a felony.

Cyclist injured in hit-and-run

A young Poplar Bluff motorcyclist was seriously injured in a hit- and- run accident and two Arkansas men were injured in the second of two area traffic accidents reported Tuesday, the highway patrol announced today.

The hit- and- run accident occurred at 6:20 p.m. on Highway 158 about a mile west of Harviell when a motorcycle driven by Randy Leon Desgranges, 15, came out of a field onto the road and was struck in the side by a 1970 maroon Ford auto. The car left the scene and it and the driver are being sought by authorities.

The boy was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

A West Memphis, Ark., man suffered serious injuries at 3:05 p.m. one mile north of Cape Girardeau on Interstate 55 when the tractor- trailer truck in which he was a passenger ran off the road, struck a guard rail and over turned down an embankment.

Larry Elmore, 41, and Euel D. Townsend, 34, of Piggott, Ark., the driver of the truck who received minor injuries, were taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Farmington man charged with first-degree murder

FARMINGTON — A Farmington man has been charged with first- degree murder in the shooting death of 44- year- old Harold (Bud) Jones of O'Fallon, Mo., St. Francois County sheriff's deputies said.

The suspect's estranged wife also was critically wounded in the shooting.

Jones, an employe of National Weather Service at Lambert St. Louis International Airport, was killed Monday after he was struck three times by bullets fired through a kitchen window in the home of Mrs Betty Stephens, 37, of Farmington, deputies said.

Mrs. Stephens was hit once, deputies said.

Authorities said her husband, Howard Stephens, 36, was arrested in his auto a short time after the incident, which occurred at 12:10 a.m. Monday.

A first degree murder warrant was issued Tuesday by St. Francois County Magistrate Francis Rentfro, deputies said. Stephens was being held without bond in the St. Francois County jail.

Family members said Jones, who lived in a trailer park in O'Fallon and who had been divorced since January, was visiting Mrs. Stephens, who was a next- door neighbor of Jones' parents and sister- in- law of his his brother, James Jones of Farmington.

Deputies said he was hit once in the head and twice in the back by what were believed to be .22- caliber bullets.

Mrs. Stephens was hit once in the head and was listed in critical condition at Farmington Community Hospital, where James was pronounced dead on arrival.

Deputies said Mr. and Mrs. Stephens were married five and a half years ago and had been separated for the last six months. Mrs. Jones has five children, from 11 to 19 years of age, from a previous marriage, authorities said.

No weapon was found when Stephens was arrested about a block from Mrs. Stephens' home 30 minutes after the shooting, deputies said.

Jones, a Farmington native who served in the Air Force during the Korean War, had been a weather observer for the National Weather Service for about 20 years, the last 12 at Lambert family members said.

He also played a guitar and sang, performing a few years ago with a country and western band in Farmington started by one of his brothers, they said.

Funeral services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Thursday in Cozens Funeral Chapel, with burial in K of P Cemetery, both in Farmington.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jones of Farmington; Timmy, Terry and Max Jones, three adopted sons living with his ex-wife in O'Fallon; two sisters, Mrs. Allyaene Sales and Mrs. Eleonor Daniels; and four brothers, George, John, Clarence G. and James Jones of Farmington.

13 accident patients treated

Thirteen accident patients were treated and released Tuesday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Scouting workshop scheduled

CAPE GIRARDEAU — For the second consecutive summer, Southeast Missouri State University will conduct a computers merit badge workshop for area scouts.

The workshop conducted about a year ago was so successful that it was decided to schedule another one this summer, according to Charles R. Wiles, the university's director of field services and a volunteer scout worker.

Up to 125 scouts may be accommodated at the workshop, which will begin at 5:30 p.m. Friday and wind up about 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

It will be possible to complete all the merit badge requirements during the two-day period. The workship is open to all scouts at least 11 years old, and reservations are still being accepted.

Besides hwlping the scouts meet the merit badge requirements, the workshop will serve both to open up a new vocational field to the participants and to give them the experience of living on a university campus, according to Wiles.

Dr. James Briney, director of the computer center at Southeast Missouri State, will lead the workshop program, which will include classes from 7 to 9:30 p.m. on Friday and from 8:30 to noon on Saturday.

The scouts will be housed in one of the university's high-rise dormitories and will dine in a university cafeteria. A free swimming period is set from 9:30 to 10:30 Friday night.

Fee for the institute is $4, which includes linen rental and three meals. Students should bring their own pillows.

Scout leaders are also invited to participate in all the activities for the same fee.

Reservations should be made with the Council Service Center, Boy Scouts of America, Box 637, 400 Broadway, Cape Girardeau.

World News in Brief

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Constantine Caramanlis, Greece's new premier, is a handsome, 6-foot, 67-year-old conservative who refused to knuckle under to royalty or the military. Offered a cabinet post in 1936 by Gen. Ionnis Metaxas, Caramanlis fired back: "Mister Premier, all dictatorships contain the sperm of death. They are doomed from the beginning, as will be yours." He was premier from 1955 until 1963, when he resigned after King Paul and Queen Frederika rejected his advice to call off a state visit to London because he thought an unfriendly reception awaited them. Caramanlis failed to win a majority in a general election later that year and lived in Paris—a self-exile—ever since.

MADRID, Spain (AP) — No matter how Generalissimo Francisco Franco's battle to regain his health turns out, Spain already has slipped into the post-Franco era. The crossover took place when the 81-year-old chief of state, fighting for his life in a Madrid clinic, temporarily transferred the last of his vast powers to Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon. Constitutionally, Franco can rescind at any time the verbal order surrendering power. But to bounce the chief-of-state powers back and forth could be damaging to both Franco and the 36-year-old prince he has trained from boyhood to be his successor.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Almost all of the $12,000 loot including an $8,500 diamond bracelet taken in the burglary of the home of Atlantic City's Mayor Joseph F. Bradway Jr. has been returned by mail.

"I couldn't believe it," said millionaire Bradway on Tuesday after the package was delivered by a postman to the City Hall office.

The burglar did not return several hundred dollars in cash and two clocks taken in the July 13 break-in.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stars of a half dozen Broadway shows including Hermione Gingold, Lynn Redgrave, and Joan Hackett personally have told New York policemen their work is appreciated.

The theater personalities stopped by the Midtown North Precinct Station Tuesday afternoon to thank the officers for cleaning up the area and making it safer for theatergoers and workers.

"I haven't played here since 1967, and then I was kind of scared," said Miss Redgrave. "I've noticed a huge, huge difference."

TRENTON (AP) — The New Jersey Supreme Court has righted the wrong done to Harry Wright's "Write-in-Wright" election campaign by voters who wrote in Wright wrong.

The highest court unanimously upheld on Tuesday an Appellate Division of Superior Court ruling that restored 294 of Wright's votes in a Sparta Township council election. The ballots had been declared invalid because voters wrote only "Wright" without a first name.

A trial court judge had ruled that there was no way to be certain that those voters meant Harry Wright, rather than one of the eight other Wrights in the small Sussex County community, even though all the others said they didn't want the job.

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon kept the focus of his official schedule on economic problems today, summoning Secretary of Housing and Urban Development James T. Lynn for a meeting on the slumping housing industry. Joining them were director Kenneth R. Cole Jr. of the Domestic Council and Kenneth Rush, the President's counsellor for economic affairs. Nixon announced Tuesday he is nominating Alan Greenspan, a 48-year-old New York economic consultant, to be chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers. Greenspan will succeed Herbert Stein, who is taking a teaching post Sept. 1 after serving on the council for five years. Greenspan joined Nixon and Rush for a three-hour meeting Tuesday with some three dozen business leaders and economists and one labor representative, President Frank E. Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters union. The session was a prelude to a Nixon speech on economic affairs Thursday in Los Angeles.

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler says he won't be surprised if the House Judiciary Committee recommends impeachment of President Nixon. But he says if it does, the full House will reject impeachment. "I will not be surprised at all if the House Judiciary Committee passes to the floor a bill of impeachment .... If they do, that will not be approved by the House of Representatives because they will make their decision on fact and not conjecture or implication," Ziegler told newsmen Tuesday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pro-impeachment lobby is trying to put hometown pressure on several key Republican congressmen whose votes could be crucial when the House Judiciary Committee decides whether to recommend impeachment of President Nixon. The National Committee on the Presidency Inc. bought fullpage newspaper advertisements in several districts represented by Republican congressmen considered to be swing votes on the committee.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watergate prosecutors say they may bring bribery charges against a dairy cooperative official in connection with President Nixon's 1971 increase of federal milk price supports. One of the co-op officials who promised $2 million for Nixon's 1972 campaign, David L. Parr, pleaded guilty to conspiring to donate corporate money and services illegally to six candidates. But the prosecutors said his guilty plea won't give him immunity from prosecution on possible charges of bribery and conspiracy.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Alexander P. Butterfield says H.R. Haldeman was the closest staff man to President Nixon, according to House Judiciary Committee testimony released today. "Haldeman was the alter ego. Haldeman was almost the other President. I can't emphasize that enough," Butterfield testified.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Barring another legal ruling, the Louisville and Jefferson County school districts will become the first in the nation to be merged by federal court order for desegregation purposes. U.S. District Court Judge James Gordon ordered on Tuesday the immediate merger of the districts to facilitate a new desegregation plan that calls for the busing of 30,548 students. The plan also includes the 350-pupil suburban Anchorage School District. The Anchorage district is not included in Gordon's merger order, however. School officials estimate the start-up cost of the additional busing at $2.7 million to $3.3 million. Officials of the city district said Gordon's order would be appealed.

Car stolen from bar

HAYTI -- Authorities are searching for a car stolen between 10 p.m. and midnight Tuesday while parked at Idle Hour Inn.

The car, owned by Dean Saloan of Caruthersville, is a yellow 1968 Plymouth Road Runner.

PATHS OF GLORY

Every schoolboy knows where the "Paths of Glory" lead, but, brimming with energy and a zest for life, it is the last thing in this world which concerns him ... until the day he sees his own offspring tousling happily on the lawn. Then, perhaps, the lines of the long- dead English poet echo through his mind. This is the day he begins to study the ways he can protect his family's future ... a major medical plan, life insurance, the pension options open to him, and the ways and means of easing things for his wife should an emergency arise. Such mature thoughtfulness is the true "Path of Glory" for a man who has come of age.

Jackson beats defending champ

Jackson rallied from a 1-0 deficit to defeat defending state and regional champion, Sugar Creek, 3-1 and Jefferson City charged from a 2-2 deadlock to defeat Sikeston 6-2 in opening round play of the Sr. Babe Ruth state baseball tournament at VFW stadium Tuesay evening.

Tonigh's schedule matches Jefferson City against Jackson at 7 p.m. and Sikeston battles Sugar Creek at 9 p.m. in the doubles elimination event.

Kent Nelson provided the offense for Jackson with his two for four showing at the plate and scored two of the teams three runs.

Sugar Creek took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first and held that margin until the fourth when Jackson pushed across two runs and added another in the fifth to give Mark Beussink the victory. A trio of errors cost the defending champs.

Mike Long mistified Sikeston batters, fanning 13 during the seven inning contest and allowed only five hits while walking one.

Jefferson City charged from a 2-2 tie with a four run fifth and held Sikeston scoreless through the final five innings.

Steve Haywood, Gary Ferguson and Jerry Steinbeck had two hits each to lead Jeff City's 10 hit barrage. Steinbeck connected for a two- run triple for the biggest hit.

Sikeston's only bright moment of the night was an inside the park homer by Bruce Lawrence and a triple off the bat of Greg Colwick.

Diebold 1-woman show

Val Diebold pitched Benton to the championship of the Vanduser Women's fast pitch softball tournament Tuesday night, defeating New Hamburg 12-2 and 8-2, while claiming the events most valuable play honors.

Mrs. Diebold won five games for Benton in the tournament, two by no-hit performances.

Benton was also awarded the sportsmanship prize.

Lavon Felter connected for a single and double to lead Benton's opening game victory while Mary Hubbard socked a pair of triples and a double to lead the nightcap win.

Cards sign Fry

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — Bennie Fry, a Houston University product, became the latest player Tuesday to sign with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League.

The Big Red said Fry, a 6-foot-4 , 230-pound free agent, would be tried at center and guard.

In other action, the Cards released running back Fred Gray, who had signed a free agent contract following a tryout camp July 11.

Rod Carew disturbed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The All-Star Game is no fun for Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins, who says that if he can't get the playing time he figures he deserves, he'd rather stay home.

" Next year, I'm just going to ask to have my name not put on the ballot. I don't think I want to come to the All-Star Game any more," the American League's starting second baseman said after playing only 2½ innings in Tuesday night's 7-2 loss to the National League.

Manager Dick Williams said he removed Carew because he thought the infielder had been banged up in a third-inning slide at second base.

"I'm not going to take a chance on injuring someone else's player," Williams said.

Carew, leading the major leagues with a .382 batting average, said he was okay and would have liked to play longer.

"It's the same every year with me," he said. "I'm not trying to rap anybody, but why should I make the trip to the All-Star Game when they lift me after two or three innings?"

Big Jim Saulters heads for home plate with an opening inning score for the Sikeston Sr. Babe Ruth all-stars in their state tournament match against Jefferson City at VFW stadium Tuesday night. The local stars bowed to their opponents 6-2.

Chaffee advances

CHAFFEE — Booneville defeated Kirksville 23-8 in a slugfest and Chaffee eased past Ft. Leonardwood 5-1 in opening round action of the Jr. Babe Ruth state baseball tournament here Tuesday night at Harmon field.

Tournament action resumes at 6 p.m. today when Carthage squares off against Boonville. Chaffee faces Sikeston in the 8 p.m. contest.

Richard Overton connected for five hits and scored four runs in leading Booneville to its 23-8 romp. John Stock claimed the win.

Booneville out-hit Kirksville 16-15 and took advantage of numerous fielding errors to run up their big score.

Chaffee broke a scoreless deadlock with a big four run fifth inning and added its final tally in the seventh while allowing Ft. Leonardwood a single score in the last of the fifth.

Scot Wachter gave up five hits and picked up the win despite the three hit pitching performance of David Jones.

Chaffee's big inning was highlighted by a trio of errors as they managed only one hit in the frame, an opening inning single.

Ft. Leonardwood's Scott Mise was the only player in the game to manage more than one hit. The dandy little second sacker connected for a double and single during the contest.

Terrell Lime and Fertilizer Co. of Sikeston donated this floater loader spreading machine plus their time and limestone to the Sikeston country club this week to complete liming and fertilizing the greens and fairways at the club's gold course. The $50,000 machine, only one of about three in the bootheel region, weighs 15 tons loaded, but the huge balloon tires allow it to travel over wet or dry ground without leaving tracks. The fully loaded machine gives no more pressure than a man walking. Albert Jackson, general manager of Terrell Lime was overseer for the country club job.

Pizza Inn upset

Seventh ranked Legion upset second seeded Pizza Inn 16-9 and Jaycees edged Lions 9-8 in National League tournament action Tuesday night.

Powerhouse hitting highlighted Legion play. Copeland and Abernathy connected for homers while Harry Tope slugged two. Abernathy also connected for a double as did Taylor and Turley. It was a hard-hitting match as Gary Laseter powered a homer and Lewis and Garner cracked doubles for Pizza Inn. Copeland took the mound win from Lane.

Warfield led the hitting attack for Jaycees in other action with four, as he connected for a homer and a double, collecting three of the nine winning runs. Winfield also performed well at the plate for Lions with two- for - two, including a double, but Jaycee's tie-breaking run in the seventh was just enough to overtake Lions. Malcolm took the mound win in the three-hitter while King was tagged with the loss.

Tonight's National League schedule: Kiwanis vs. A&B at 6:30 p.m. and Legion vs. Jaycees at 8:15 p.m.

WFL unbeatens battle tonight

The rookie World Football League, plunging into the midst of its third week, will have four teams battling tonight to hang onto their unbeaten records. At least one is likely to fail.

A pair of undefeated teams — the Birmingham Americans and the Memphis Southmen — are matched in a WFL version of a "showdown" game.

"They have a fine quarterback and two of the better running backs in the league," said Birmingham head coach Jack Gotta about the Southmen — the WFL scoring leaders with a 25-point per game average.

Quarterback John Huarte, who has 22 completions in 37 attempts for 342 yards, leads Memphis. Running back J. J. Jennings has a total of 170 yards rushing for the Southmen and John Harvey has 85 yards.

But quarterback George Mira, the latest WFL Player of the Week, has completed 22 of 44 passes for 299 yards for the Americans. His top receiver is Dennis Homan with six catches for 144 yards.

In other games tonight, the unbeaten Chicago Fire plays the Portland Storm, the undefeated Florida Blazers meet the Houston Texans and the Southern California Sun faces the Jacksonville Sharks.

The Philadelphia Bell hosts the New York Stars Thursday night in a nationally televised WFL game and Chicago - with three days of rest- plays the Hawaiians in another contest Sunday at Honolulu.

The Fire, tied with Birmingham and Memphis for the Central Division lead, will help winless Portland open its home season.

Chicago features quarterback Virgil Carter - 33 of 62 for 371 - and receiver James Scott, the WFL leader with 14 catches for 134 yards.

The Blazers are the other unbeaten WFL team, led by quarterback Bob Davis and runners Jim Strong and A. D. Whitfield.

Winless New York, with the leading WFL offense and the second leading defense, will try to get untracked against Philadelphia.

BASEBALL

PITTSBURGH — The National League All-Stars defeated their American League counterparts 7-2 and Los Angeles Dodgers' Steve Garvey, the only player elected to either All-Star squad by a write-in vote, was voted the game's Most Valuable Player. Garvey slashed two hits that keyed a pair of rallies and helped the National League to its 11th victory in the past 12 All-Star games. The National League now has a 26-18-1 lead in the 45game series.

SAN FRANCISCO — Gary Matthews earned National League Player of the Week honors as his .600 hitting average and nine runs batted in helped the San Francisco Giants win five of six games.

TENNIS

WASHINGTON — Unranked Juan Gisbert of Spain upset seventh-seeded Eddie Dibbs of Miami 6-4, 4-6, 6-4 in the raininterrupted first -round of the 100,000 Washington Star-News Tennis Tournament.

Cardinals standout

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For some it was a busman's holiday. For a busman's son, it was a dream come true.

"The seeds were planted when I was four, five and six," said Steve Garvey of the Los Angeles Dodgers, named the Most Valuable Player in Tuesday night's All-Star Game after leading the National League to a 7-2 victory over the American League.

"My father drove the team bus for the Dodgers in spring training and I got to know them all—Gil Hodges, Carl Furillo, Roy Campanella, Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax.

"They all were All-Stars and I always hoped that someday I'd be one. Gil Hodges was my idol and here I was playing his position in the All-Star Game."

Garvey's name didn't even appear on the computer ballot for this 45th All-Star Game, but the nation's fans responded with more than one million write-in votes to make him the starting first baseman.

Garvey responded to that by delivering two key hits and a sparkling defensive play during a full nine-inning stint as the National League continued its dominance over the American, winning its 11th game in the past 12. The NL now leads the series 26-18-1 after being behind 12-4.

Five NL pitchers held the American to four hits, causing losing Manager Dick Williams to lament: "You can't do much with four hits."

Gaylord Perry, starting pitcher for the AL, retired the first five NL batters before Garvey singled in the second. Dodgers teammate Ron Cey then drove in Garvey with a double.

In the third inning Garvey made a brilliant backhand stab of Bobby Murcer's hot grounder to end the inning.

The AL already had two runs in that inning and two runners on base.

In the fourth, with the Americans leading 2-1, Johnny Bench and Jimmy Wynn, another Dodger, singled. Garvey doubled in one run and Wynn later scored on Cey's groundout.

And although it was not obvious then, Garvey, playing despite an ear infection, had done in the American League.

Joe Garvey, who drives a bus in Tampa, Fla., and his wife were among the standing-room only crowd of 50,706 at Three Rivers Stadium to see their son.

Asked if he contributed any write-in ballots, the elder Garvey beamed: "I'd say the family contributed a couple of hundred. We weren't going to come here. Instead we were going to Atlanta next weekend so we could see three games. But I told my wife that we only live once, let's go."

It was one of the best trips the Garveys ever took.

In the AL dressing room Williams said: "With a group like that—Cey, Garvey, Wynn and Mike Marshall—that's probably why the Dodgers are where they are."

Marshall pitched the last two innings, after strong performances by Messersmith, Ken Brett, Jon Matlack, and Lynn McGlothen. Brett, the only Pittsburgh Pirate on the squad, was credited with the victory after working the fourth and fifth innings.

Luis Tiant, who allowed two runs in the fourth inning, took the loss. The Nationals added an unearned run in the fifth on Joe Morgan's sacrifice fly, scoring Lou Brock who had singled, stolen second and moved to third on catcher Thurman Munson's error.

Reggie Smith homered in the seventh to make it 5-2 off Jim Hunter. and Don Kessinger's triple in the eighth was the key blow as the NL made it 7-2.

The AL scored twice in the third inning with Dick Allen driving in one run with a single.

Problems of poor discussed

JEFFERSON CITY — Representatives of statewide organizations concerned with the problems of the poor met July 17 to plan efforts to meet the needs of Missouri's poor. Of immediate concern was the failure of aid to dependent children (ADC) recipients to receive an increase in payments this year. The maximum assistance to a family of four is $144 per month. Missouri ranks 46th in the nation in average ADC payments per person.

Gov. Christopher Bond recently vetoed Senate Bill 613 which would have raised the family of four maximum to $157. This increase would have been less than this year's cost of living rise but would have represented an additional state expenditure of $3.5 million. Kathy Israel, staff assistant to the governor, and Ewing Gourley, director of the Division of Family Services, met with the group to explain fiscal difficulties that caused the governor to veto the bill.

Sen. Norman Merrell, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Mrs. John S. Ketchum, staff assistant to Sen. William Cason, also met with the group.

The representatives of the groups agreed to attempt to enlist the support of the governor for reconsidering the budgetary impact of the $3.5 million expenditure in light of new lower projected expenditure figures and make an effort to enlist statewide support to override the veto.

In other action, the representatives agreed to priorities for immediate work of this combined group which include working for increased state and local use of contractual social services (Title IV A) funds and for an expanded social education program to help citizens, legislators and administrators become more aware of the ways in which they can immediately meet some of the needs of the poor.

Citizens groups represented were: the Missouri Crisis Coalition, Missouri Coalititon for Human Needs and Budget Priorities and Income Maintenance Task Force of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare.

These organizations in turn include the Missouri Catholic Conference, Missouri Council of Churches, Welfare Rights Organization, Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministries, Missouri Municipal League, League of Women Voters of Missouri, Reform Organization for Welfare, Lutheran Family and Children Service, Social Concerns Department of the Missouri Catholic Conference and Human Rights Commission of the Arch- Diocese of St. Louis.

Fried chicken great for picnics

Perfect for picnics ... fried chicken, a universally favorite food, is ideal for summer outings. It travels well, takes little advance preparation and is easy to eat on the go.

Summertime and the living is easy.

And the easiest of summer foods is fried chicken -- easy on the pocketbook, easy to cook and easy to eat outdoors with your fingers.

The National Broiler Council notes that fried chicken is a good traveler, too, easy to take along on all your outings. Fried chicken fits right in with any of your picnicking, vacation or day-of- outdoor-fun plans.

When you take chicken along, you don't leave good nu trition behind, either. Protein-rich chicken satisfies the heartiest of appetites, even when whetted by summer play or travel. Chicken's low calorie count helps you keep looking your trim best, too.

The many varieties of chicken packaging available make it easy for you to select just the parts you prefer to fry. Or for even greater economy, buy whole broiler-fryers and cut them into pieces yourself. Cutting up a whole bird is easy once you learn the simple basic steps.

When preparing chicken for a picnic, the National Broiler Council advises care in packing it for travel. As soon as the chicken is cooked, place it in the refrigerator and chill quickly. It's best not too cool fried chicken at room temperature.

If you're traveling only a short distance, pack the chicken in a plastic container or aluminum foil. But if you're going some distance and don't plan to eat for a long while, pack it in an insulated container or ice chest to keep it fresh longer.

Traditionally a Southern favorite, fried chicken has become one of the nation's most popular chicken dishes. Its delicate texture and yummy taste appeal to all ages.

Here are two suggestions for preparing fried chicken for your summer outings:

FAMILY FRIED CHICKEN

YIELD: 4 servings.

1 1½ to 2½ pound broiler fryer, cut-up
1 cup corn oil
1 cup milk
1½ cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika

In a large frying pan, place corn oil. Add more if oil is not one-inch deep. Over medium high temperature heat oil. Combine flour, salt, pepper and paprika in a heavy- duty paper bag. Place milk in shallow bowl. Dip each chicken piece into milk then into flour mixture. Shake bag to completely coat each piece. Add all of the chicken pieces to the hot oil and cover for 5 to 6 minutes. Uncover, turn chicken when underside is golden brown. Cover again for approximately 6 to 8 minutes; then remove top. Cook until brown. Reduce heat to midium low, cover and cook 20 to 30 minutes longer.

Prepare favorite fried chicken recipe or Family Fried Chicken recipe given above. Browning chicken parts. Remove from frying pan after browning. Drain on paper towels and place in baking dish. Bake, uncovered, at 375F. for approximately 35 to 40 minutes or until completely cooked.

SOUP-SALAD SUPPER

Split Pea Soup
Iceberg Salad — Bread Tray
Brownies — Beverage

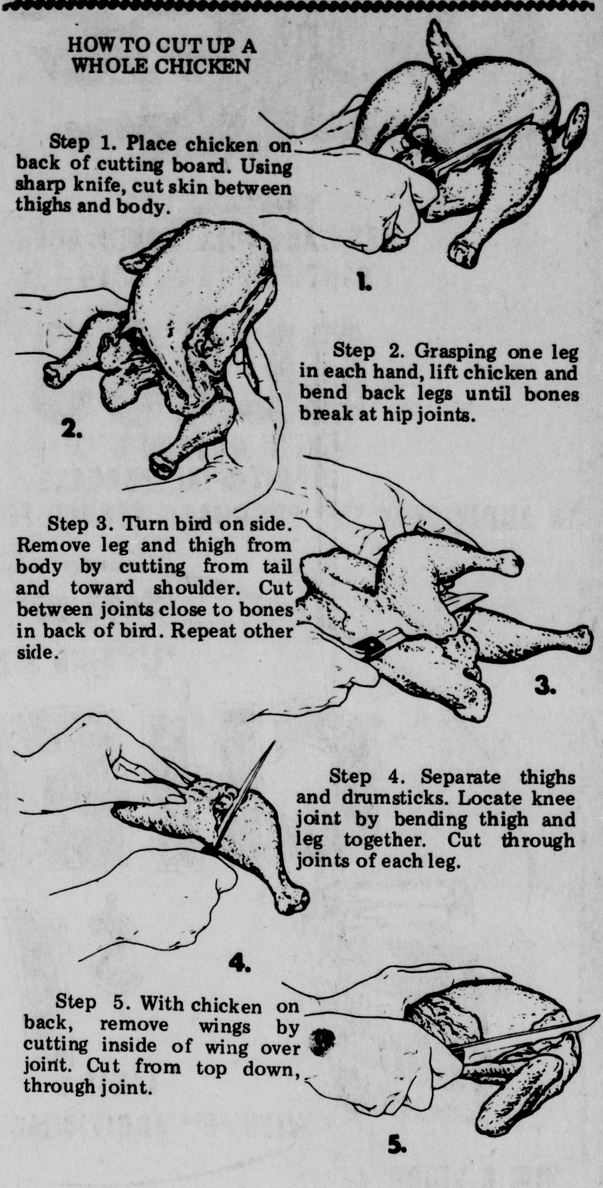
ICEBERG SALAD

4 crosswise slices iceberg lettuce
1-3rd cup mayonnaise blended with 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
Scallion Dressing, see below
½ cup chopped ripe olives
Pimiento strips

Arrange lettuce slices on 4 salad plates; spread with mayonnaise; top with egg slices. Drizzle with Scallion Dressing — about 2 tablespoons for each salad. Center with mounds of olives and garnish with pimiento. Makes 4 servings.

Scallion Dressing: In a small jar shake together ¼ cup corn oil, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar, 1 teaspoon seasoned salt, ¼ teaspoon each dillweed and sugar, pepper to taste and ¼ cup thinly sliced scallion; shake well again just before using.

HOW TO CUT UP A WHOLE CHICKEN



Step 1. Place chicken on back of cutting board. Using sharp knife, cut skin between thighs and body.

Step 2. Grasping one leg in each hand, lift chicken and bend back legs until bones break at hip joints.

Step 3. Turn bird on side. Remove leg and thigh from body by cutting from tail and toward shoulder. Cut between joints close to bones in back of bird. Repeat other side.

Step 4. Separate thighs and drumsticks. Locate knee joint by bending thigh and leg together. Cut through joints of each leg.

Step 5. With chicken on back, remove wings by cutting inside of wing over joint. Cut from top down, through joint.

Step 6. Separate breast and back by placing bird on neck end or back, and cutting through joints along each side of rib cage. Cut away from you toward board.

Step 7. Whole breast is ready to be used as is or you may bone it if desired.

Step 8. To split breast into halves, cut wishbone in two at V of bone. Halves may also be boned.

Senate group to investigate festival damage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, said Monday he would name a senate committee to investigate damage caused by the weekend Ozark Music Festival at the state fairgrounds in Sedalia.

Cason and Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, called a 4 p.m. news conference at the Holiday Inn south of the fairgrounds where about 100,000 young people spent the weekend listening to 22 different music groups and participating in a carnival.

Meanwhile, reports of damage and high costs of cleanup came on the day after the festival.

Residents complained of young people sleeping on their lawns and leaving litter. The state fair shopping center north of the fairgrounds was covered with litter early today.

Supermarket operator W. E. Bingaman said his store windows were broken in looting attempts. The promoters offered to pay for it.

Dottie Blaine, who runs the Holiday Inn for Bingaman, said she normally serves a buffet breakfast for 80 people on Sundays but that she could only serve 10 because about eight young people came in with sacks, picked up over half the biscuits and rolls, and walked out without paying.

"We closed right after that," she said.

The motel grounds were littered with trash, and festival goers bathed in "our swimming pool, they just took it over," Mrs. Blaine said.

Cason said, "I have a preliminary estimate from a knowledgeable man who says it will cost $75,000 to clean up the fairgrounds and repair the damage there."

"We want to know what all of these things cost the state, including the extra highway patrolmen who were called in and the National Guardsmen who were put on standby alert," Cason said. "I'm sure it will far exceed the $40,000 the state got for contracting for the rock festival."

State Agriculture Director James Boillot, asked about the damage Sunday, said it was minimal.

"There were no windows broken or handwriting on walls at the fairgrounds," he said.

He acknowledged the fence was cut in some places.

Boillot said the state's cost for cleanup would be far less than the $40,000 in rent.

The festival promoters—Sal Brancato, Robert Shaw and David Kinton of Kansas City—put up $20,000 in escrow to cover the damage and deposited $50,000 with the state revenue department to cover the sales taxes.

At $15 apiece for advance tickets and $20 at the gate, plus the concessions, the festival promoters probably will gross $1.5 million or more, Boillot said.

The state gets three per cent of that and the city of Sedalia one per cent.

The promoters estimated their costs, for special equipment, pay for the entertainers and 400 security people, at $800,000.

Estimates on the number of people varied. Promoters were estimating Sunday night that at least 60,000 people paid to get in.

"Generally I'm pleased with the lack of trouble," Boillot said.

But he said he would not allow another music festival of that type to be held at the fairgrounds, because of the drug problem and possible damage to homes outside the fairgrounds.

"But we have not had any major problems," he said, "considering the situation."

Boillot said the promoters had agreed to have less emphasis on acid rock, with more "soft rock, bluegrass and country and western."

"I thought we would have music that appealed to all types of people," Boillot said.

It was advertised from coast to coast as hard rock and "we didn't have the bands set down in the contract," Boillot said.

Officials of the first aid center at the fairgrounds said 3,500 persons were treated there in the three days, 1,000 for drug-related problems and the rest for minor injuries and heat exhaustion. It was 106 degrees Sunday.

Resignation results in controversy

BERNIE — A controversy has developed surrounding the resignation Thursday of Bernie police officer David L. Moore. Moore turned in a letter of resignation Thursday in which he made detrimental statements concerning the operation of the Bernie department.

However, Bernie officials said that Moore had been suspended Thursday prior to his resignation. Mayor R. B. Woods denied allegations made by Moore in his letter of resignation.

In his letter, Moore said that new Police Chief Arthur Lee was "an excellent police officer and the city board could have made no better choice for the chief of police," but that Mayor Woods and Police Commissioner Wendell Moore still run the department.

Moore also alleged that a prior police chief had kept him under surveillance with an electronic listening device and there were some "lost DWI (driving while intoxicated) tickets."

"Moore was suspended Thursday, at which time he quit," Mayor Woods said. "He was suspended by Chief of Police Arthur Lee pending the board's (Police Board) action."

The mayor said Chief Lee had suspended Moore for sleeping on duty and various other things.

As to the DWI tickets which Moore alleged were lost, Woods said, "If they existed," we'd sure like to have them. We'd be glad to turn over anything like that to the prosecuting attorney."

"I did not encourage the chief of police to fire him (Moore)," Woods said. "I do not run the police department."

Lee, who took his position July 1, confirmed Moore's suspension and subsequent resignation. "I told him he would be suspended," Lee said.

Lee cited at least three occasions when Moore allegedly had been late for work, instances of being late for periods of an hour-and-a-half, 15 minutes and 30 minutes.

In addition, Lee stated that on one occasion he found Moore asleep in a chair at the police department headquarters when he (Lee) came to work.

According to Lee, efforts were made to have Moore "straighten up" but that he "wouldn't do it."

Woods said that Moore had been the only city police officer living outside the city limits, which was contrary to city policy. The Bernie Board of Aldermen had agreed to allow Moore to live outside the city limits and continue his job providing he obtained a home telephone. However, he never got the telephone, Woods said.

Moore had been involved in a previous controversy when the had been charged with the May 1973 beating of a prisoner. He was acquitted, however, of the charge and was not suspended pending the acquittal.

College junior crowned new Miss Missouri

MEXICO, Mo. (AP) — An auburn-haired junior from Stephens College in Columbia, Michelle Marshall, will represent Missouri in the Miss America Pageant this year.

Miss Marshall, competing as Miss Gateway to the West, was crowned Miss Missouri Saturday night after three days of competition by 31 young women.

Miss Marshall, daughter of Marjorie Marshall of Florissant in St. Louis County, won, in addition to her trip to Atlantic City, a trophy, $3,000 wardrobe, a $7,500 scholarship to Columbia College or a $1,200 cash scholarship, and a Caribbean cruise.

The new Miss Missouri is 5-feet-7½, weighs 117 pounds and is a dance major at Stephens College. She formerly served as Miss Teenage St. Louis and was Miss Congeniality in the Miss Teen American contest.

The first through fourth runners-up at the Miss Missouri Pageant here were Madeline Kupersmith, Miss Kansas City; Jane Hawkins, Miss Raytown; Cindy Kueck, Miss Columbia, and Sherry Grisham, Miss Springfield.

Yolantha Harrison of Champaign, Ill., representing Columbia College, was named Miss Congeniality.

Bootheel election spotlight focuses on N. Madrid

NEW MADRID — A record number of votes could be tallied in the Aug. 6 primary election in New Madrid County which, in several ways, is a definite contrast to prior primaries.

With the election just two weeks away, personal campaigning is reaching a peak by the prospective nominees despite the withdrawal of two candidates and the resignation from office of another who was seeking renomination.

For the first time within the past 20 years, seven candidates are vying for the Democratic nomination for two offices, and an inactive candidate for a third office could be elected and subsequently disqualified.

The upcoming election is the first local primary to be held under the statewide mandatory voter registration law enacted Sept. 28, 1973.

Voting precincts in the county now total 33, which is an increase of 12 polling places, and there are approximately 9,500 registered voters.

Also, for the first time since the 1970 census revealed the county's population to be less than 30,000, the office of probate judge and magistrate judge will be combined.

Another political facet which could result in an unusual development is that the name of an inactive candidate, Linus E. Young of Portageville, appears on the Democratic ballot for renomination for county recorder of deeds.

Young, who has resigned from the office to accept federal employment, was unable to withdraw his name from the ballot because less than 45 days remained before the date of the election.

Should a majority of votes be cast for Young over his opponent, Robert B. Hedgepeth of New Madrid, Young would be declared the Democratic nominee for the general election. However, he would subsequently become disqualified due to his federal position.

In that instance, under section 120.550 of the state election laws, the county Democratic Party central committee would be allowed to nominate a candidate and place his name on the ballot for the November general election.

Whether the county Republican Party central committee, which is without a candidate for the office in the primary election, could, in this particular situation, also name a nominee for the office in the general election is unclear.

No Republican candidates filed for any county offices.

A third Democratic candidate for the nomination of recorder of deeds, Donald R. Schaffer of Lilbourn, withdrew from the race.

Regardless of the outcome of the contested or uncontested primary races, five offices will change hands when the newly elected officeholders assume duties next January.

These include county treasurer, collector of revenue, recorder of deeds, county clerk and the probate judge, who will serve also as magistrate judge.

Four Democratic candidates are seeking the nomination for the county treasurer's office, which is being vacated by W. R. "Dick" Phillips Jr. Phillips had filed as a candidate for county collector and later withdrew his candidacy.

Candidates for the treasurer's post are H. H. "Bud" Townsend and Price P. Thompson of New Madrid, Shirley LaPlant of New Madrid Route One and O. D. Henning of Morehouse.

A three- way contest is being waged for the office of collector of revenue to be relinquished by William H. "Bill" Dean Jr. of Sikeston Route Three. Deputy Collector W. A. "Dub" Scobey of New Madrid is opposed in his bid for the nomination by Robert A. Riley of New Madrid and H. Van Whittle of Canalou.

John R. Bailey of Portageville, the incumbent probate judge, is unopposed for the nomination of Court tells Nixon to release tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 8 to 0 today that President Nixon must surrender White House tapes and papers sought by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski as evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, a Nixon appointee, delivered the ruling.

"We conclude that when the ground for asserting privilege as to subpoenaed materials sought for use in a criminal trial is based only on the generalized interest in confidentiality, it cannot prevail over the fundamental demands of due process of law in the fair administration of criminal justice," Burger said.

Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, a senior Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee, said it would be disastrous for Nixon if he failed to obey the Supreme Court order.

"If the President would defy the court the way he has defied the committee I don't see how we could avoid articles of impeachment," McClory told newsmen.

McClory also said he thought the committee should hold up its impeachment proceedings in order to get the tapes for its own inquiry.

"This clearly is relevant information," McClory said. "We have subpoenaed it, we want it and to report articles to the floor without it would be a disservice."

It was not immediately clear how the President would respond to the court's ruling.

In arguments before the court, his lawyer, James D. St. Clair, said the case was "being submitted to this court for its guidance and judgment with respect to the law."

"The President, on the other hand, has his obligations under the Constitution," St. Clair said.

President Nixon promised during a similar dispute with Jaworski's predecessor, Archibald Cox, that he would comply with a definitive ruling of the Supreme Court on whether he had to turn over tapes sought by Cox.

That case never reached the Supreme Court, however, and Nixon and other White House spokesmen have consistently refused to repeat that pledge in the dispute with Jaworski.

At a news conference Monday night, St. Clair again declined under repeated questioning to say whether Nixon would obey a Supreme Court order in the case.

The 8-0 ruling appeared to be about as strong a statement as the court could have made on the subject.

After delivering the opinion, the court recessed until 10 a.m. on Thursday.

Michael Rodak Jr., the clerk of the court, said a decision was expected at that time on an appeal from a lower court order calling for busing of pupils across school district lines for purposes of racial integration in the Detroit area.

The court ruled that the dispute between the President and Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski was subject to determination in the courts, contrary to Nixon's assertion that it was not on grounds it was a dispute within the executive branch.

Local cities seeking park grants

MALDEN — The State Inter- Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation began accepting applications from local municipalities for recreation grants under the Land and Water Conservation Fund for fiscal year 1975, according to an announcement issued by the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission office.

The grants will be made on a 50-50 cost- sharing basis, with the federal government putting up 50 per cent if certain conditions are met and the local participant paying the balance.

The Bootheel REgional Planning Commission is assisting a number of area municipalities in preparing preliminary drawings for pre-applications.

The Bootheel Rural Conservation and Development Committee will develop the plans, with assistance from the Soil Conservation Service. Upon completion of the plan, which will contain recommendations concerning erosion, sediment control, flood prevention and recreation, funds are available on a matching basis for implementation..

Dexter is preparing an application covering the development of an approximately eight- acre park. The eight acres will be donated to the city. The development will provide regualr activities, along with specially designed facilities for the handicapped. A 10-acre park will be developed by Advance with landscaping, tennis courts and other recreational facilities.

Vanduser is considering the acquisition and development of a five- acre park.

Morley is considering the acquisition of the old school grounds for development into a four- acre park.

Local officials in Benton are considering acquisition of the old school grounds there to develop into a recreational complex.

The Richland School District is considering installation of a tennis court to serve both school patrons and the residents of Essex.

The project application deadline for grants is Oct. 1.

Police said they could find no signs of forced entry.

Betterment club meets in Dexter

DEXTER — The Dexter Community Betterment Committee will hold an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 1 at the city administration building.

The committee is currently working on several phases of the statewide five-star program. In the area of community service in leisure activities, Dexter now has an active summer program, but the state requires a year-around program, so the committee will begin planning indoor winter activities for adults.

Dexter's board of education has approved the use of the junior high school gymnasium three nights a week and on Sunday. Plans are to conduct the program from Nov. 1 to March 1, with basketball, volleyball, table tennis, shuffleboard and calisthenics among possible activities.

In order to cover necessary expenses, the committee will organize activities into leagues and plans to ask local industries, businesses, civic clubs and church groups to sponsor teams.

Nixon's defense setback after Hogan's defection

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's hopes of avoiding impeachment have suffered a setback on the eve of the House Judiciary Committee's historic debate today.

Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, a conservative and one of those committee Republicans counted on to oppose impeachment, announced Tuesday he supports impeachment.

Hogan is the first committee Republican to announce he will vote for impeachment. His decision touched off open talk of impeachment in the Republican cloak room.

The debate, beginning at 7:30 p.m. EDT, will be carried nationally on television and radio. A vote on whether to recommend impeachment is expected by Friday or Saturday.

Hogan's announcement triggered a prediction by one GOP member that as many as seven of the 17 committee Republicans may end up calling for Nixon's impeachment. Hogan said in an interview Tuesday night that he expected eight Republicans to vote for impeachment. All 21 Democrats are believed ready to vote for at least one article of impeachment.

Another GOP member, who said he has expected about 40 Republicans to vote for impeachment, raised his estimate to 80 after Hogan's views became known.

Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, the third-ranking Republican in the House, said, "It seems to me quite obvious that Mr. Hogan's statement is convincing evidence that the committee is disposed to vote one or more articles and I would gather that the House would follow suit, from what I hear in the corridors."

One southerner said after the Hogan announcement, "This had a profound psychological impact. Many Republicans who were not on anybody's list for impeachment were talking for the first time today about their votes for it as being possible or probable."

Races develop for Stoddard posts

BLOOMFIELD — Several races have developed for nomination to various offices among Stoddard County Democrats.

Among the positions where races have developed is the recorder of deeds office, for which Freida Lee of Dexter and Murlin Phillips of Bloomfield have filed for nomination. The office was left open when Ethel Crites, the present recorder, did not file for re- election.

Ermer Garner of Bloomfield, incumbent presiding judge of the County Court, will be opposed for nomination by Bob Blair of Gray Ridge.

A three- way race has developed for nomination to the office of County Court associate judge of the first district. Charles M.Jones of Puxico, Darrel Roberts of Bloomfield and Jack Ward of Avert are seeking the nomination.

For associate judge of the second district, Darla J. Grossman of Dexter is opposed for nomination by Harold E. "Pete" Snider of Pyle.

Democrats facing no opposition are Jimmy B. Trammel of Dexter for the office of probate- magistrate judge. He will face Republican incumbent Koss W. Blomeyer in the November general election.

Phillip Ayers of Dexter is unopposed for prosecuting attorney, and Charles R. Corbin faces no opposition for the circuit clerk post. John Marvin Capps of Bloomfield, incumbent county clerk, will face Republican Bill Beal on the November ballot.

Seeking the offices of township committeemen nd committeewomen are:

Castor: Bob L. Beal and Vera W. Wellman of Bloomfield, Republican; and Fred Wethington of Idalia and Kathryn Mooney of Bloomfield, Democrat.

Duck Creek: Wiley L. Mattingly and Betty Mattingly of Asherville, Republican; and William E. Sifford of Puxico and Mary E. Taylor of Dudley, Democrat.

Elk: Earl Swinger and Sue Swinger of Essex, Republican; and Hugh W. Parks and Pauline Aycock of Marco, Democrat.

THE AMNESTY ISSUE

Although efforts are being vigorously renewed to obtain total, unconditional amnesty for the thousands of American men who fled the country rather than serve in Vietnam, or who deserted the military, we believe the government must stand firm in its denial.

Some of the most cogent reasons for this position were recently given by the Director of National Security and Foreign Affairs for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Col. Phelps Jones. In a broadcast interview with Philip C. Clarke of the American Security Council, Col. Jones contrasted the actions of those who fled with those who served.

"During the Vietnam war 600,000 Americans were drafted and served in Vietnam," Col. Jones explained. "Of this number, 60,000 were wounded — one out of 10 — and 11,500 were killed. Total casualties of our drafted soldiers, then, in Vietnam was 71,500. Surely, the compositon of that role of honor would be very different if those young men who had been called had served rather than deserted their comrads or deserted their country.

Col. Jones also noted that, overall, 56,000 Americans were killed in Vietnam, 303,000 were wounded, nearly 600 returned in "unspeakable conditions" as prisoners of war, and more than 1,000 Americans are still missing in action.

Those who broke the law must now face the law and be judged individually on the merits of their cases. To rule otherwise would be a grave injustice to those who heeded the call to serve. It would also invite chaos and set a dangerous precedent for the future of American military action.

Our judicial system historically has tempered justice with mercy. If these men truly want to become part of American society again, let them turn to this system and pay the price it requires of them as a prerequisite for citizenship.

Bill Hanna advises that anyone who can afford to pay the interest these days doesn't need a loan.

One of the basic strengths of our society is the concept of voluntary social action. For most Americans voluntarism means a commitment to improving the quality of life - in the community, in the nation.

By donating their time and skills to organizations such as Girl Scouts, many citizens are able to give responsible service to their communities. We need Girl Scouts and they need us.

This fall, Girl Scouts are again conducting an adult recruitment drive for volunteer leaders, in their continuing effort to bring Girl Scouting within reach of all girls who want to belong.

In Girl Scouting voluntarism is more than a simple commitment; it's a way of life. And, since the ultimate responsibility for the Girl Scout movement rests with the volunteers and their dedication to young people, we are happy to lend our support to the organization's adult recruitment campaign.

Today, over half a million women and men work in partnership with more than three million Girl Scouts in the country. But - and it's an important but - there is a vital need for at least twice that many adult volunteers if the organization is to achieve its goal of serving every girl who wants to be a Girl Scout.

There is a long list of girls ages 6 through 17 who are waiting to become Girl Scouts in our area. To give them this opportunity for self- development and to give yourself personal satisfaction, join Scouting - be a Girl Scout leader. Get in touch with your local Girl Scout council and find out how you can fit in.

Business gives you and me more and better products and services than in any other nation, for less than a nickel out of a dollar of sales — when they make any profit at all (and 3 companies out of 10 don't make any.)

More than one and a half million new jobs have to be created every year if we want to avoid depression. If government provides them our taxes go up; if business provides them our taxes go down.

Industry is a better friend of ours than many think. For instance, between the years 1940 and 1969, drug firms invested in research which developed 868 major medicines which saved millions of lives while the average unit price of prescription drugs went down.

How many games would your home team win if all the spectators did nothing but smear and jeer them at every game?

DIZZY DEAN: A FOLKHERO

It is very hard to think of Dizzy Dean as dead. He was always so alive, so real, so vividly present on the American scene. He was the superstar of the St. Louis Cardinals in the early 1930s, and there wasn't a kid on a sandlot anywhere who didn't worship him. He was the joking sportscaster with a million malapropisms. He was the guy you like to go hunting with or sit around drinking beer with on Saturday night. And he was an authentic American folk hero of the 20th Century.

"Hi, podnuh," he would say in that Arkansas drawl, and you felt that he must have been your friend forever. So he was puffed up with vanity about his baseball pitching exploits. Well, nobody else in the National League has yet topped that 1934 record of winning 30 games. It's impossible to remember another World Series like that of the Cardinals and the Detroit Tigers that year, when Diz won two games and brother Daffy Dean another two. Ole Diz had a right to his ego, and it never destroyed his appreciation for the baseball skills of others.

Since he hailed from the cotton fields of Arkansas and spent many of his later years at Wiggins, Miss., when not traveling, Dizzy Dean's death may seem a little more personal to Mid-Southerners than to the big- city crowds he mingled with.

But he was a part of the national fabric — a strong thread that wove itself into the national pastime — and it was good to have him as a symbol of the good times in this uncertain century.

BOTTOM DROPS OUT OF THE BAG MARKET

Consumers are getting used to being left holding the bag. The trouble is that now even bags are in short supply.

Grocery stores around the country are asking customers to bring their own bags. Some are offering two cents or trading stamps for each one.

Not only is there a scarcity of bags, but paper products of all kinds, napkins, tissues, toilet tissue and towels, are frequently conspicuous by their absence from supermarket shelves.

There are all kinds of reasons for the paper shortage, but basically the explanation is a simple one says Food Marketer magazine: demand exceeds supply.

In 1973, the paper industry produced 2.7 per cent more paper than in 1972. In the 10 years before that, however, production increased 4.6 per cent annually.

There are two reasons for the production slowdown. First, a shortage of natural resources; second, minimal profits in the paper industry which prohibit the expansion required to meet present demands.

Canandian pulpwood producers increased their prices in 1973 and plan two more increases this year. The pulp producers blame the price increases on dwindling forest supplies and labor and transport problems.

Then there's the energy crunch. Several paper mills have been forced to shorten working hours and workdays to conserve natural gas. Some have closed operations permanently.

Basic chemicals, such as chlorine for cooking woodpulp, are in short supply. In addition, installation of pollution equipment to comply with new government laws has pushed up operating expenses.

Another reason the bottom has fallen out of the bag business is that there is little profit in kraft and bleach papers from which paper bags are made. Thus manufacturers have turned to more profitable grades of paper.

Virtually at a stalemate in the United States because of price controls, paper products also began turning to the more lucrative overseas market and found eager purchasers in Japan and Europe, leaving the U. S. market starving.

That's the bad news. Now for the worse news. The paper shortage, far from being just a temporary inconvenience, promises to develop into a major crisis, says Food Marketer.

Through 1975, woodpulp production is expected to increase only 1.5 per cent a year, about a fifth the average annual increase in the previous 10 years.

It takes two years or more to develop and install new paper producing equipment, and even if the needed mills were being built today, the shortages of basic resources would still hinder production.

AMERICAN DOLLARS TO YUGOSLAVIA

Does it make sense for American taxpayers to underwrite low-interest loans to a Communist dictatorship, while the American people are forced to pay higher interest rates, in addition to paying higher and higher taxes?

Some members of Congress think not; but that didn't pervent the U.S. Export-Import Bank from slipping through a controversial $176 million to Communist Yugoslavia, to build a nuclear power plant on the Sava River in Eastern Slovenia.

According to radio commentator Philip C. Clarke on the "Washington Report of the Air," there are a number of unusual provisions in the Yugoslav deal. It is, he pointed out, the first time that the Export-Import Bank has given aid for nuclear power in a Communist country. It is also the largest such credit ever granted Yugoslavia by the Bank. Further, it provides 90 percent of the financing for the sales of U. S. equipment for the project, compared to a normal 45 percent financing of other Export-Import loans. In addition, the low- interest (seven percent) loan guarantees repayment of an additional $2 million loan to finance local costs such as payment for Yugoslav labor and equipment. Normally, Clarke reports, local costs are not a part of the Export-Import Bank's financing.

The U.S. taxpayer-underwritten loan will not only help Yugoslavia to build the nuclear power plant, but will also enable this Communist monopoly to "buy" the time, talents, and technical know-how of some of our most highly skilled scientists, engineers and technicians in the field of atomic energy.

There are at least two major issues involved in the matter of this loan. First, does the Export-Import bank have the right to hand out American taxpayers' dollars on terms far more favorable than private American business loans, particularly to a regime that is unalterably opposed to our free enterprise system, and to a project which will help to strengthen the economic and military potential of that regime?

Secondly, is it morally right for business interests in the United States to enter into such an agreement, whereby they will be paid with American dollsrs to assist a nation which exploits slave labor; and which suppresses every vestige of human liberty? Or doesn't morality enter into the field of big business today?

THE HABIT OF LIBERTY

What about a free press?

"I am always in favor of a free press . . . but sometimes they say quite nasty things," Winston Churchill once said.

Mr. Churchill also said, on a more formal occasion:

"A free press is the unsleeping guardian of every other right that free men prize; it is the most dangerous foe of tyranny . . . Under dictatorship the press is bound to languish, and the loudspeaker and the film to become more important. But where free institutions are indigenous to the soil and men have the habit of liberty, the press will continue to be the Fourth Estate, the vigilant guardian of the rights of the ordinary citizen."

He started his professional life as a war correspondent during the Boer War in South Africa.

Charles Dickens knew about newspapers, too. It was he who said:

"To the wholesome training of servere newspaper work, when I was a very young man, I constantly refer my first successes."

Newspaper work is sometimes servere.

Ben Franklin, another newspaperman, put it this way:

"If all printers were determined not to print anything till they were sure it would offend nobody, there would be very little printed."

However, as desirable as a free press is, we must face the fact that it is not right all the time. People staff the press, so in spite of their most diligent efforts to achieve the highest order of professionalism in news, the press is not perfect. Nor will it ever be. And, certainly, controlled by the government would never make it so.

Judge Learned Hand put it this way:

"The first amendment . . . presupposes that right conclusions are more likely to be gathered out of a multitude of tongues, than through any kind of authoritative selection. To many this is, and always will be, folly; but upon it we have staked out all."

GENEROUS PA

"Your young man asked me for your hand and I consented," the father told his darling daughter.

"But, father, I don't wish to leave mother," his daughter replied.

BIRTH RATE SLOWS AS AFFLUENCE GROWS

The more developed the country, the more likely it is to have low population growth rates, according to the World Popular Conference.

Most of the world's highly industralized nations, including Western European countries, Canada, Japan and the United States have low growth rates. They are expected to maintain an overall downward trend.

The USSR, Eastern European and Scandinavian countries have goverment policies encouraging family planning, with resulting lower birth rates.

In the U. S., birth rates reached the lowest rate ever in 1972, with an average number of children per couple at 2.03 and population growth rate of .7 per cent per year.

A DIRTY TRICK

A bachelor who had lived with his mother for nearly 40 years was fearful of marrying because he didn't want her to be alone. Finally he met a girl and eloped with her, but for one year after his marriage he never told his mother.

Finally his wife insisted to visit his mother and gently broke the news.

"Mom, Dottie and I have been married since last November."

The mother said nothing, just peered at her son.

"Mom," he asked, "are you angry? Don't you approve?"

"It's just a dirty trick." the old lady said. "You've been married a whole year and I'm still doing your shirts."

AN APPALLING IDEA

The proposal has been made in all seriousness that newspaper, radio and television newsmen should be licensed just like barbers, electricians, doctors and lawyers. The idea is "... just a thought that's occurred ..." to a state legislator. It is unlikely that the idea will become a national threat, but nevertheless, the potential for mischief which it holds is worth contemplating.

Licensing of newsmen is advocated on the theory that since standards of knowledge and performance are set for other professions, why shouldn't they be formalized by statute with respect to newsmen. Under such a proposal, if it became law, a news writer would have to take an examination to meet the requirements of a licensing law administered by state authorities. Conceivably, owners of newspapers, magazines and radio and television stations would be subject to licensing if they supervised the content of the news that their outlets offered.

Licensing and state surveillance of those who write the news and present it in the nation's press and over radio and television would reduce freedom of expression to an incalculable degree. Licensing means control and when the state controls newsmen the news won't be worth reading because the press will merely be the sounding board of the state.

THEN AND NOW

Most of those wh currently lament the allegedl sad state of the environmen are acting on hindsight especially when they blam business and industry for no having more foresight. Nobod lost any sleep back in th 1940's and 60's over failure t price products to provide fo proper land reclamation an the elimination of air an water pollution.

An executive of a major o company points out that it i easy to imagine the naswer salesman would have gotten 1 years ago if he had said, "Yes we can deliver coal for $3.75 ton, or crude oil for $1.75 barrel, but we'll have to buil in another 50 cents fo pollution devices, a dollar fo health and safety research an another 50 cents to eliminat sulfur." The salesman woul have been told to shut hi mines or plug his well.

Even today, when it come right down to it, the public sti wants energy and wants it i sufficient supply -- plu without environmenta damage, plus without threat t health and safety, plus withou peril from radiation, plu without offshort drilling, plu without surface mining -- and i still wants it cheap. As th industry executive observes "All these desires ar understandable, but we can have them all, not in the sam world."

OPPOSE FEDERAL ENERGY CONTROLS EDUCATOR SAYS

Strong opposition present and propose government actions to sol the energy shortage has bee expressed by a leadi academic spokesman.

In a keynote address at th 78th Annual Congress American Industry in Ne York City. Henry G. Mann Kenan Professor of Law an Political Science at th University of Rochester, said

"The threats of control and higher taxes and the call to patriotism and socia responsibility are but th carrots and sticks of politica bullies who can ultimatel rationalize the last ounce o control over our private lives."

Denying that a real "crisis" exists, and citing the failure o wage and price controls to curl inflation, Prof. Manne urge the business leaders t "publicize as widely as possibl the inevitable inefficiencies mistakes, and human miseries that will develop with these controls."

They are and will be al around us, and no one wil have to look far for examples," he said. "That price controls prevented production of the equipment necessary to produce more oil refining capacity is the kind of thing that the public should be made to understand. The public should not be allowed to believe that racketeering, black markets, favoritism, misallocations, delays and inconveniences are sacrifices that they must endure in the nation's interest. These are, after all, in fact the unnecessary costs of economic stupidity or political knavery."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: How Big Oil Sets Own Rules

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Geological Survey, which is supposed to protect the public from calamitous offshore oil spills, has turned to the oil industry for guidance.

A Geological Survey document, marked "PRIVILEGED INFORMATION," reveals that the government has brought in 23 oil executives to draft the standards for antipollution equipment used in offshore drilling.

This is a little like putting Dracula in charge of the blood bank. The oil tycoons have demonstrated in the past that they are more interested in holding down their costs than in protecting the public from oil spills.

The scramble for more oil, meanwhile, has spurred a drive for new leases to drift for oil off the Gulf and Atlantic coasts. Unless adequate safeguards are taken, repetitions of the disastrous Santa Barbara, Calif., oil spill could blight America's beaches.

A Geological Survey spokesman promised us that the antipollution standards adopted by the industry-dominated committee would be carefully reviewed.

The quiet appointment of 23 oil executives to draft oil spill standards, however, illustrates how the industry influences federal oil policies. Top industry executives and governmen oil officials shuffle back and forth between corporate boardrooms and government conference rooms with remarkable ease.

Not only does the government depend upon industry manpower but also industry data in oil policymaking. A confidential General Accounting Office investigation has found, for example, that the oil oversight agencies accept industry figures on everything from the number of shut- in wells to the amount of recoverable oil and gas under the ground.

The government doesn't verify the figure, GAO investigators were told, because "policies prohibit verification." These "policies" are imposed by the oil and gas industry, which supplies the government with the data.

Any manipulation of the figures, of course, would significantly alter oil and gas prices. Yet there is no way anyone can double-check.

Footnote: Congressman John Moss, D-Calif., who requested the GAO study, has called for independent government data gathering.

TIMM'S TROUBLES -- In 1960, Federal Communications Chairman John Charles Doerfer took a brief yachting vacation at the expense of broadcaster George B. Storer.

Doerfer admitted at House hearing that he and his wife had flown to Miami in a plane owned by the Storer Broadcasting Company and had gone yachting and golfing in the Keys aboard Storer's cabin cruiser Lazy Girl. "This was a social occasion," pleaded Doerfer.

Nevertheless, President Eisenhower immediately summoned Doerfer to the White House and demanded his resignation. Within a week, the unhappy Doerfer was no longer Federal Communications Chairman.

Last month, Civil Aeronautics Chairman Robert D. Timm and his wife flew to Bermuda for a golfing vacation at the expense of United Aircraft Corporation.

They traveled in a company jet and were put up at the fashionable, cliffside Clastle Harbour Hotel. We went to Bermuda and checked out the hotel, which is surrounded by lush, semitropical gardens. It has an 18- hole championship golf course, two private pink sand beaches, a private yacht club with deep -sea fishing boats and three swimming pools, one of them complete with a man- made waterfall.

Strictly speaking, the Doerfer and Timm junkets were not alike. Doerfer's expenses were paid by a company he was supposed to regulate. Timm doesn't regulate United Aircraft, which picked up his bills.

But United Aircraft sells aircraft engines and accessories to the big airlines, which Timm does regulate. And the company arranged for four top airline executives -- Pan American's William T. Seawell, Trans World's Charles C. Tillinghast, Braniff's Harding L. lawrence and Western's Arthur F. Kelly -- to join their chief regulator for a cozy weekend in Bermuda.

The airline bigwigs must have been grateful to United Aircraft for putting them together, under such sociable circumstances, with the man who will judge whether they get valuable new routes. But Timm protested that he had no control over whom his host invited to Bermuda.

He confirmed our finding that the trip arrangements had been made by President Nixon's former chief lobbyist and campaign manager, Clark MacGregor, who is now the chief lobbyist for United Aircraft.

Although Timm technically didn't accept a free vacation in Bermuda from the airlines he regulates, he frequently lunches, dines, golfs and attends theater parties as the guest of airline executives. We spoke to airline vice presidents who admitted they had entertained Timm, who acknowledged that he had been their guest at social events.

Both Timm and his airline hosts emphasized that they never discussed pending cases on these social occasions. Timm also insisted that his rulings have not been affected by his social contacts. He contended that he couldn't oversee the airline industry from a glass bubble and that he learned about the industry through close association with its people.

BRAVE CHRISTIANS SPEAK OUT IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Though the Soviet government continues its brutal suppression of all religion, brave Christians still speak out and their message is being heard.

Rev. Dmitri Dudko was until recently the pastor of the Church of St. Nicholas, a Russian Orthodox church in Moscow. From his pulpit the priest strongly criticized the brutalities of the communist regime. Father Dudko had spent eight years in Soviet prison camps, so he had felt the wrath of the Kremlin before. Nevertheless he did not hesitate to tell his parishioners of the evils of the communist government, especially the moral bankruptcy of the Soviet Union.

Father Dudko's sermons and question- and- answer sessions drew huge crowds to his small church and inevitably attracted the attention of the communists. He was first forbidden to preach and then arrested. His fate is still unknown.

Much better known is the fate of the brilliant author Alexander Solzhenitsyn, recently exiled, who had at one time attended Father Dudko's church. What is not so well known in the West is that Solzhenitsyn is a devout Christian and is critical of communism precisely from that standpoint.

Solzhenitsyn, Dudko and those like them are setting an inspiring example to those of us in the West. They deserve whatever help and support we can give them. HLH

New Greek leader takes office today

By the Associated Press

Constantine Caramanlis took office as premier of Greece today after the Cyprus crisis toppled the country's seven-year-old military dictatorship.

Early congratulations came from Turkey where Premier Bulent Ecevit described Caramanlis as "an experienced statesman who had shown the value he places on Turkish-Greek friendship during his previous service."

Turkey's invasion of Cyprus on Saturday, following a coup by the Greek-led national guard, brought on the fall of the Greek government and recall of Caramanlis from 11 years of self-imposed exile. He replaced resigned Premier Adamantios Androutsopoulos.

On Cyprus, newly named President Glafcos Clerides said the return of President Makarios, ousted in the now collapsed coup, "is a question for the people of Cyprus." Makarios said in New York he expected to return to the presidency in a few weeks, but Clerides, a Makarios supporter, said he had not been in touch with the archbishop.

He said his job is not to decide about the return of Makarios, but to avoid bloodshed and rebuild the nation. He declared, "Turks and Greeks must coexist in the Cyprus nation without fighting."

News dispatches from Cyprus reported only scattered fighting Tuesday. But United Nations forces reported a number of cease-fire violations, and the Security Council adopted a new resolution demanding compliance with the truce that began Monday.

Hundreds of thousands of jubilant Greeks thronged the streets of Athens, dancing, singing, hugging and kissing, after the announcement that "the armed forces have decided to transfer power to a civilian government" headed by Caramanlis, the elder statesman of Greek democracy and a self-exile in Paris for 11 years.

Caramanlis, 67, told a cheering crowd at the Athens airport early this morning: "I know that the Greek people in difficult moments are united, and together I hope we will be able to construct a new democracy."

Chanting "no mockery, true democracy," cheering crowds lined his route into the city, and he went at once to a meeting at the parliament building with leaders of the military dictatorship, civilian politicians who have been in limbo for the past seven years, and two foreign ambassadors, Henry Tasca of the United States and Robin Hooper of Britain.

The government radio said the ambassadors were called in to receive a protest against alleged Turkish violations of the cease-fire on Cyprus.

The conference lasted for two hours and then Caramanlis, presumably satisfied that the military leaders would return to the barracks and give him a free hand, was sworn in. The oath was administered by Archbishop Seraphim in the presence of President Phaedon Gizikis, a general who was installed last November when a conservative group of generals overthrew the previous military dictator, President George Papadopoulos.

The government radio said Caramanlis would announce his cabinet later today.

The rebel Cypriot regime also was tottering. The president installed by the Greek army officers who led the coup,

2 plead guilty, draw probation

NEW MADRID -- Two men were placed on probation after pleading guilty to criminal charges Tuesday in Circuit Court before Judge William L. Ragland, who also granted four dissolution of marriage decrees.

Kenneth Battles of New Madrid was granted probation without supervision after receiving a two-year sentence in custody of the State Department of Corrections following a guilty plea to possession of a loaded rifle on June 12 while he was intoxicated.

Sentencing was suspended against Clifton Robinson of Portageville and he was granted probation without supervision when he pleaded guilty to feloniously exhibiting a dangerous shotgun in a rude and threatening manner in the presence of Edward DeLisle on July 7.

Vicki Marie Jones of Matthews Route One was restored to her maden name of Roberts when her marriage to James Edward Jones was dissolved. A property settlement was approved and custody of two children, plus $75 per child per month for support, were awarded to Brenda Joyce Rowland upon the dissolution of her marriage to Larry Richard Rowland of East Prarie Route One.

Also dissovled were the marriages of Clyde G. Scott and Violette D. Scott of Sikeston Route Three and Claudia Anne White of Portageville and Bruce Edwin White. Mrs. White was granted custody of three children and $35 per week for each child for support.

Judge Ragland sustained a motion to dismiss an earlier motion to set aside sentence and judgment filed by Bruce Joseph Wright. Wright was sentenced Nov. 15, 1973 to 10 years in custody of the State Department of Corrections on a guilty plea to a manslaughter charge stemming from the shooting death of Larry Allen Williams, 16, of Portageville.

The Garden State Park thoroughbred racing meet at Cherry Hill, N.J., continues through Memorial Day, May 27.

Scouts enjoy horseback riding

Riding instructor Rick Walk, left, of Puxico watches closely as counselor- in-training Lee Bidewell of Poplar Bluff instructs Cadette campers in saddling a horse. Camp Latonka offers horseback riding for Cadette and Senior Scouts during each 12-day session.

Cyclists enjoy freedoms

Kay Kirkpatrick of Charleston enjoys a level stretch for cycling at Camp Latonka. Bike trips are a new addition to the camp program this summer, and the cycling units are open to third, fourth and fifth graders.

Sailing is recreation

Water welcome in hot weather

"Oh, boy! I'm hot, and the lake's just waiting to be jumped into!" The waterfront appears to be the most popular area of camp when the temperature climbs, and Camp Latonka offers canoeing, sailing, skiing and swimming to Girl Scout campers.

Confessions to mate ruin marriage

Dear Ann Landers: I have a wonderful husband and we have two fine children. About a year ago I made a miserable mistake. I became involved with a married man, the husband of a friend of mine. The "romance" was of short duration and I could kick myself every time I think about it.

I foolishly believed I was entitled to some outside loving because something was lacking at home. My lover gave me the same line. We were "soulmates." Finally I came to see the relationship for what it was, a cheap, back-alley affair. I stopped seeing him after the fifth meeting and have toned down my friendship with his wife. (Guilt, of course.)

Since that lousy episode, I've tried doubly hard to be a better-than-ever wife, and our marriage has never been stronger.

Yesterday I received a phone call from "Mr. Black Past." He tells me he wants to "do the right thing" and confess everything to his wife. He claims his conscience is bothering him and he can't rest until he comes clean. I nearly collapsed.

I begged him not to. I explained that if his wife isn't willing to forgive and forget she might sue for divorce, naming me correspondent, and it could wreck my life. He reads your column every day and says you're a smart lady. Will you please try to get through to him. -- Tormented in Toledo

Dear Torm: If he reads my column every day, he knows my position on confessing past indiscretions -- this goes for extramarital affairs as well as premarital sexual activities. I'll say it one more time, especially for him.

Confession may be good for the soul, but it won't do anything for a marriage except hurt your wife and shatter her faith in you. It is also a very dirty trick to play on the woman with whom you were involved.

If you feel you MUST clear your conscience, please talk to a clergyman, a trusted lawyer or a doctor -- some individual who will view your confession as privileged information. But please, mister -- spare your wife.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for quite some time, but I never thought I'd have to write to you. When I read that long lecture you gave about how we must outlaw guns in this country I knew I had to speak out.

Do you realize you are stepping on the toes of millions of sportsmen? Did you ever stop to think about who pays the salaries of all the wildlife officers? In case you don't know it, they are financed through the sale of hunting licenses and taxes on guns and ammunition. If you eliminate these jobs, our wildlife will dwindle.

If someone wants to kill you, he will, and he can do it with a hatpin. I wish you'd see both sides of the story before you take such a strong stand against something. -- Sportsman Not A Killer

Dear Sport: I'm not interested in taking guns away from the sportsmen of America. I'm well aware that the hunters are not going to be deprived of their fun no matter what.

I AM against handguns, those "Saturday Night Specials" sold for only one reason -- to kill people.

For your sake, Sport, I hope that if someone wants to hold you up on a dark street, he has a hatpin instead of a handgun. Your chances of coming through alive will be a lot better.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Brownies to include 1st graders

This year all first grade girls will be offered the opportunity to particiapte in the Girl Scout program.

Girl Scouting is a changing program keeping up with the changing world of today. Girls, today, are exposed to the world at an early age through the media, more widespread travel and the knowledge revolution, as well as through pre-school experiences. As a result, they are able to enter the Girl Scout movement at an earlier age than in the past.

A five or six-year-old girl is interested in enlarged community experience and eager to learn about new things, to have group experiences and to join her peers in enrichmant activities.

Through Girl Scouts, the 5 to 6-year-old girl is provided with opportunities to communicate and verbalize, to explore and experiment with her own ideas, to develop a greater curiosity about things outside her own immediate framework, to become involved with her community and to develop coordination through group play and crafts.

The Brownie Girl Scout program is a learning experience which is available to girls meeting the Brownie Girl Scout requirements. The requirements are to learn the Brownie Girl Scout Promise, accept the scout laws, be a participating member in the scout program, pay annual membership dues and meet applicable membership standards.

This is an exciting age for girls and they can share many happy times together through the Brownie Girl Scout program. If your child is interested in this program, please call 471-1035.

Miss Berlin bride of Tony A. Sisk

Tony Anthony Sisk and Dollie Idamay Berlin of Sikeston were married Friday at 1 p.m. at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Irene Sisk, 122 N. Handy St., by the Rev. T. A. McDonough.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Berlin, 203 Bynum St. William Sisk of Morehouse is the father of the groom.

The couple is living in Sikeston.

Area Girl Scouts enjoy trip to nation's capitol

By NANCY FORBIS

Sixty-six girls from the Bootheel area left June 6 for Washingotn, D.C. This trip was sponsored by the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council for scouts interested in seeing our nation's capitol.

The chaperones were Mrs. Wade Demaree of Malden and Mrs. Jim Leggett of Bloomfield. The two bus guides for the trip were Mrs. Darrell Alcorn of Sikeston, and Mrs. Dale Schumacher of Bell City. They were especially helpful since they have made the trip many times.

One the way to Washington, we toured one of the outstanding horse farms at Lexington, Ky., and saw the statue of Man-O-War, the most famous race horse. While traveling through the West Virginia mountains, we stopped at Hawks Nest State Park. Friday night, we attended the drama of the "Creation" at Natural Bridge, Va. It was a play about the creation of the world.

Saturday, we toured Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson. We also visited "Christ of the Blue Ridge" at Waynesboro, Va. It is the home of Lao Russell and the late Dr. Walter Russell, who sculptured a statue of Christ with his hands in prayer. They call the mountain Swannanoa. And it is breath-taking to see. The next day was spent touring the old town of Williamsburg.

On Monday, we toured Mt. Vernon, home of George Washington. Then we went on to Alexandria, Va., to see "Christ Church". That is where Washington and Robert E. Lee attended church. We spend four nights at Rockwood National Girl Scout Camp in Potomac, Md. Each day we drove into Washington, D.C.

Tuesday through Thursday was spent touring Washington. It was really unbelieveable to think of all the history that had been made in this one city. We saw the U.S. Mint while they were printing money. Also, we saw the White House, Senate, House, Capitol, Arlington Cemetery, Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, Archives Building and many more. We even got to see the Watergate Office Building, the motel where it all happened. We also toured the Smithsonian Institute. It was the most interesting place of the trip. At night, we went up in the Washington Monument and looked over the city. It was really beautiful.

Wednesday night we saw a musical entitled "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope" at Ford's Theatre. It had an all black cast, and was the best play I've ever seen. Friday and Saturday were spent coming home.

We rushed around quite a bit, but it was necessary to keep on schedule so we could see everything. The trip on the whole, was the most interesting one I've ever been on. Everyone became like one big family, and it was sad when we all separated.

Many things can happen on a trip, and we had a few exciting incidents. We came home tired but with a little more knowledge and respect for our country. I think, if anyone gets a chance to go on this trip or one like it, they should go. They will benefit greatly, and it is a lot of fun.

Miss Peggy Davison is June bride of Kenny Wayne Bright

VANDUSER—Twin bouquets of white mums with rainbow-colored ribbons graced the alter of Vanduser Baptist Church for the June 28 wedding of Peggy Jean Davison of Vanduser and Kenny Wayne Bright of Sikeston Route One.

The Rev. Lawrence Ray performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Jessie Todd was pianist and accompanied Louis Watkins as he sang "More".

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Davison of Vanduser, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bright of Sikeston Route One.

neckline, sheer bodice and sheer shepherdess sleeves all accented with lace. The gathered skirt featured a wide, fluted, gathered flounce at the hem.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal-length gown of peau de soie and Chantilly lace. The gown featured a high

The bride wore an elbow-length, three-tiered veil of white illusion, and carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Miss Darline Hatley of Vanduser was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Peggy Walls of Matthews, sister of the groom; Dorothy Jones of Crowder; Barbara Davison of Vanduser, sister of the bride; and Debbie Bright of Crowder, sister of the groom

The attendants wore long gowns of dacron overlaid with flowered sheer dacron. The dresses featured empire waistlines accented with satin ribbon and short sleeves which were flounced and sheer. Bridesmaids wore mint green, light blue, hot pink and lavender dresses, respectively; and the maid of honor wore an apricot dress. Each girl carried a nosegay of white mums tipped to match the color of their gowns.

Ricky Daniels of Oran was best man. Terry Walls of Matthews, brother-in-law of the groom, Mike Bivens of Sikeston Route Four, Alfred Pearson of Bell City Route One, and Chuck Pobst of Sikeston Route Four were groomsmen.

They wore white tuxedoes with colored shirts to match the color of the gown of the bride's attendant each escorted.

Ushers were Richard Eaker and Terry Burton.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church. Sherri Owens of Sikeston Route Four and Cindy Pobst of Oran served guests. Vickie Dollins of Morley attended the guestbook.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Cookson and Jay, Vestor Phillips and Judy Cook of Morley; Harold Britt and Billy Brown of Sikeston; Barb Abner and Fred Brown of Bell City; Kathy Daniel, Judy Daniel and Carol Jansen of Oran; Dorothy and Freddie Middleton and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kennedy of Matthews; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Adams of Denver, Colo.; and Sandy Griffin of Dudley.

Women executives have bright futures

Over three in five (64.6%) corporation presidents plan to increase the number of female executives in their companies over the next five years, according to an exclusive study conducted by The Gallagher Presidents' Report among chief executives of 250 leading U.S. corporations. The weekly newsletter to chief executives finds women compose 35.5% of the average company's labor force of 2246 employees. However, only one in 10 of the average company's 76 executives is a woman. An executive is defined as 1) an officer and/or director (cited by 75.1% of the GPR respondents); 2) a person with P&L responsibilities (listed by 49.0%); 3) a department head (46.1%); 4) an individual in charge of a staff function (28.2%). 12.2% consider responsibility for a minimum number of employees as an executive function (12 employees per executive). 6.9% regard salary level as an important consideration (average $17,900). The study is published as a Supplement to this week's issue.

Over three in four (78.4%) company presidents think "women's lib" has helped women in business despite the fact that over half (51.6%) of the corporate chiefs don't feel the movement reflects the thinking of a majority of women, the Report continues. On the other hand, 44.0% think the movement is generally good. While two-thirds (66.1%) of the presidents in the study admit that females are discriminated against in business today, 76.0% see the encouragement of women to seek meaningful careers as a chief benefit of the movement. 66.4% regard the heightened awarness of job/pay inequalities as a positive factor. 48.5% recognize the movement has opened up a new corporate resource for executive talent.

The Report finds that administration looms as a major area for female executive employment in the future. Personnel, sales, marketing, communications, finance, and advertising are also areas for employing female executive talent. The professions (accounting, law), production, acquisition and merger appear the least likely prospects for female executive potential.

Seven in 10 (70.7%) presidents find women executives superior in paperwork, detail. Nearly one-third (32.9%) find female executives more economical with company funds. The major objections to hiring female executives center around the tendency of women to drop out during their childbearing years and the lack of adequate preparation for executive positions, according to the Report.

The continuing government crackdown on corporate hiring and promotion practices is expected to accelerate the change in executive suites, the Report finds. One in five (21.1%) companies in the GPR study has experienced government investigation of female employment policies. The problem appears more acute in Big Business where 37.0% of the presidents heading companies with annual sales over $100 million report government probes of female hiring, promotion practices. While only one in three (31.0%) companies actively recruit female executives, of those who do over eight in 10 (85.3%) promote from within. Over half (51.6%) the GPR respondents provide on-the-job training opportunities for executives. 94.1% include women in regular training programs.

The biggest problem to be overcome by female executives as viewed by 63.0% of the presidents in the study is male ego resentment of a female boss, the Report concludes.

What's the law?

The case of the aging cop

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Upon reaching his 50th birthday, Sam expected to begin losing his hair, his teeth and even his illusions. But he never figured he'd lose his job as a state policeman. Yet a state law was enacted which prescribed mandatory retirement for any state policeman 50 years of age.

Refusing to hang up his shield and empty his gun, Sam aggressively attacked the validity of the retirement statute in court.

"To compel a cop to retire at 50," he argued, "isn't fair. I'm as tough and efficient as I ever was. What's more, I'm the fastest gun on the force."

"That may be," conceded state officials, "but, we can't deal with individual situations. At 50 years of age, some men are still big and strong while others can be blown over by a kiss. To maintain a vigorous and healthy police department a mandatory retirement age was necessary and the one we picked can't be challenged."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of the retirement statute and bounce aging Sam from the force?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that to arbitrarily force a policeman to retire at 50 years of age with his age being the sole criterion for his retirement is unreasonable and unconstitutional. At that young age, concluded the judge in effect, there must be some other evidence to indicate a reason for his compulsory retirement from the force.

DR LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Will diet harm unborn baby?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can dieting during pregnancy be harmful to the unborn baby? My friend is one month pregnant and weighs 110 pounds. She says she will allow herself to gain no more than 10 pounds during the pregnancy.

What does determine the weight of the baby? Is there an way a woman can control the weight of the baby so she will have a smaller baby?

DEAR READER — The only person who should diet during a pregnancy is a woman with a medical problem, like toxemia of pregnancy. I think it is very unwise for a pregnant woman to diet except upon the advice of her doctor.

That new baby needs protein to develop. If he doesn't get it there is a possibility of faulty development, or as some scientists have suggested, the baby's brain may not be developed to its full capacity. In plain language, the baby won't be as smart as it should be.

The latest recommendations from the Food and Nutrition Council of the National Academy of Sciences recommends an addition of 30 grams of protein a day at a bare minimum. For more information on dietary requirements write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019, and ask for the booklet on Balanced Diet. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

The placenta and fluid around the baby will amount to about two-and-a-half pounds. The uterus will also increase in weight as it must develop to provide support for the baby and delivery of the baby. It usually increases over two pounds in weight. The breasts normally gain about two pounds. That accounts for at least six-and-a-half pounds without considering the weight of the baby. The body normally accumulates some extra fluid during pregnancy, and the mother's volume of blood is increased to support the pregnancy.

It follows that in a normal pregnancy with a baby of about seven pounds, the mother will gain a minimum of 15 to 20 pounds just to support the pregnancy. Now if she is fat to begin with she can use some of her body fat, but oddly enough it is the skinny woman who wants to avoid gaining weight during pregnancy. So she harms her own body and harms her baby by failing to follow the good advice of her doctor.

The baby's weight will indeed depend upon the mother's health during the pregnancy, and that definitely includes what she eats. It will also depend upon how long the pregnancy lasts. One indication of whether a baby is premature or not is its birth weight. Premature babies often have serious health problems at birth.

The mother's diet must contain adequate amounts of minerals. The baby has to develop a complete skeleton and that means it needs calcium. The mother can lose calcium from her own skeleton if she doesn't pay attention to this. The American diet is often deficient in calcium, so it is a very important consideration. The baby will also need lots of iron.

Housing program aids elderly in small towns

By STUART SYMINGTON
U.S. Senator—Missouri

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Low- cost housing is a major concern of many Missourians, but it is especially vital to senior citizens who wish to live dignified, self- sufficient lives. Due to a lack of inexpensive, adequate housing in rural areas all over the country, many elderly persons on low, fixed incomes have been forced to leave the towns where they and their families have spent many years.

Starting in 1964, however, using loans from the Farmer's Home Administration, many smaller communities in Missouri reversed this trend and modern low- cost housing for moderate- income families and senior citizens has been constructed.

Oak Grove
First to Act

The FmHA makes low-interest loans available to non-profit and citizen groups for new housing which both suits the needs of the elderly and fits into the community it serves. Only 10 years ago, the people of Oak Grove in Jackson County responded to the need for housing for the aged and became the first town in Missouri to apply for federal funds.

Since then, 140 communities have built a total of 2,902 apartment units for senior citizens, making Missouri the nation's leader in housing of this type. MFA has financed loans totaling $28,905,880 for these projects in our state.

The National Housing Act provided for support of housing credit for both urban and rural areas. Towns of 10,000 population or less are eligible to receive loans from the FmHA, an agency of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Most of the housing built for the elderly in Missouri small towns has been garden-style, one- story apartments with no steps. These units usually are located near shopping areas and medical care and contain central laundry and recreational facilities. Most important, this housing allows persons on fixed incomes to remain in the towns where they have spent their lives and have long family or friendship ties.

Arthur Stanley

One man, Arthur Stanley, who has helped the small cities all over our state solve the problem of low cost housing, deserves special recognition. After 35 years of service with the Missouri Farmers Home Administration and its predecessor agency, the Farm Security Administration, Mr. Stanley retired June 30.

Beginning as an assistant county office supervisor in 1939, he had advanced through the FmHA to become a leading specialist in the rental housing area.

Thanks to the efforts of Art Stanley and concerned citizens all over our state, Missouri has moved ahead in the continuing effort to provide decent, inexpensive housing for those who have the greatest need.

His dedicated assistance and guidance have been invaluable.

Soft contact lenses not answer to everyone's vision problem

CHICAGO (AP) — Soft contact lenses are not the answer to everybody's vision problems, but apparently they are here to stay.

The so-called soft contacts have gained wide popularity in the three years they have been available in the United States because of the ease with which they can be worn.

Dr. Barton L. Hodes, an ophthalmologist on the faculty at Northwestern University medical school, said that while he would fit his own children with soft contact lenses if they needed them today, "they're not the answer to everybody's problems."

Dr. Whitney G. Sampson, a Houston, Tex., ophthalmologist who is president of the Contact Lens Association of Ophthalmologists, said at a recent symposium on contact lenses that "soft —as well as hard—contact lenses are here to stay."

But the decision as to which the patient needs should be the eye doctor's, he said.

He said there were some early problems with soft contacts because the same techniques used for fitting the hard ones were used.

But he said the soft lenses are now "definitely safe, effective and warranted in a fair percentage of situations" in the management of certain vision problems.

Contact lenses correct vision the same way eyeglasses do.

There are no accurate figures on the number of persons wearing contact lenses or eyeglasses. An estimated 50 per cent or more of the population wear some type of corrective lenses. Of these, contacts may be worn by 2.5 to 3 per cent.

Malden council to hold special meeting Friday

MALDEN — The City Council Monday night voted to hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the council room to meet with an architect and discuss low bidders on the new community building.

The council decided to have 100 copies of the new zoning ordinance and map printed at a cost of $300.

The council also accepted the revised budget for the new fiscal year, with the only change being that monies allotted for the recreational park may be changed as needed.

In other action, the council told the chief of police to ask owners to remove all old cars parked on the street which are not licensed.

The street department was given permission to purchase oil for blacktopping at a cost of $155.

Frankly speaking

Mandatory allocation vital to independents

By SEN. THOMAS F. EAGLETON

WASHINGTON — The mandatory fuel allocation program is of critical importance to independent oil marketers. Without it independents fear they may not be able to stay in business.

One of those independents is MFA -- the largest independent oil dealer in Missouri. If MFA and other independents went out of business, farmers, a large number of whom purchase oil from independents, would be forced to buy exclusively from the major oil companies. This could mean fuel scarcity and higher prices.

The independents' plight has been recognized since the fall of 1971, when various sections of the country experienced shortages of petroleum products. Insufficient production capabilities for crude oil and a domestic shortage of refining capacity made it impossible to meet all of our oil demands. Yet while demands were increased, so were the needs of the other industrial countries.

For this reason I offered the first legislative allocation proposal to the Economic Stabilization Act in 1973. It allowed the President to allocate fuel across the country on a mandatory basis. It was then apparent that independents must survive if competition was to continue in the fuel marketing industry.

The President did not use his authority to allocate, so in 1973 the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act was passed by Congress to protect the consumer from unreasonably high prices and to maintain competition in the oil industry.

My current concerns are the Federal Energy Administration's attempts to thwart the allocation program and oppose Congressional efforts to extend authority for the program, which otherwise will expire in February.

According to recent press reports, John Sawhill, chief of the Federal Energy Administration, has already prepared a memo entitled "Petroleum Deallocation Strategy" which was sent to top officials in the administration proposing a method to phase out the allocation program.

It is hard to visualize how an agency can effectively carry out its legislative mandate if the key officials in the agency are in basic opposition to the legislative goals stated in the laws that they are required to enforce.

At a recent meeting with Sawhill, the Independent Gasoline Marketers Council, a group of nonbranded independent marketers submitted a position paper to the FEA urging several steps to be taken to maintain and protect competition within the marketing segment of the oil industry. The paper clearly indicated that they have serious reservations about eliminating allocations at this time.

I agree with this position and recently spoke on this subject in the Senate. With the public's attention momentarily diverted from the oil companies because of a current lack of shortages, we should not lose sight of the long- range problem and the continuing threat to independent marketers.

Extension of the Emergency Petroleum allocation Act would prevent this and would help protect consumers from even higher and more unreasonable prices.

Malone features Max Baer film

The plight of two brothers from Chicago and their Dallas girl friend, suspected of a heinous murder in a small Southern town, unfolds in "Macon County Line", which opens tonight at Malone Theatre, 107 W. Malone Ave.

Alan Vint and Jesse Vint, real brothers as well as for their movie roles, star in the American International release produced by Max Baer and Roger Camras.

Baer also enacts the role of a sheriff whose wife, played by Joan Blackman, is the murder victim.

Also starring in the film are Cheryl Waters, the girlfriend, and Geoffrey Lewis, Sam Gilman, Timothy Scott, James Gammon, Leif Garrett, Emile Meyer and Doodles Weaver.

"Macon County Line" is based on a story written by Baer and Richard Compton, who directed the film.

Heavy trading may mean better days

By CROCKETT SCOTT

"The Mighty Hopes that Make us Men."

...Tennyson

A glimmer of hope in the stock market could be that some of the badly depressed stocks may have touched bottom.

Whether or not sight gains hold will be proven or disproven in time.

But heavy trading in distressed common shares sometimes are forerunners of better days.

First Charter Financial is an example. This California savings and loan firm has been hurt by high interest rates, with certificates of deposit and bonds siphoning off funds it normally obtains from small money savers.

Recently First Charter bounded up from about 6½ to over seven.

Lennar Corp., a home builder, also appears to be attempting to get up off the floor.

Kaufman & Broad, another home builder with interests also in cable television, has climbed from its low of recent days.

First Charter, Lennar and Kaufman & Broad all have been heavily traded recently.

Another issue which has made a move to the upside is Bausch & Lomb.

R. H. Macy & Co. and Bell & Howell also have turned upward for the time being -- even though the moves may be of short duration.

Qualified economists say the depressed stock market may be heralding a depression; noting that recognized standards of measuring the pace of the economy already are defining it as encumbered by a recession.

Stock market analysts remind that lessened strength in the economy eventually will tend to ease the demand for money for capital expansion.

They add that, as the velocity of the economy eases, there will be less demand for money, with the likelihood of declining interest rates, which in turn makes for potentially higher corporate profits, recycling the economy for another upward turn.

Realization of the approaching turn stimulates the buyer of common stocks again; and as he starts acquiring shares, their price goes up.

Kiplinger's Washington Letter has a few words to say about the economy, and the optimists about the market should be happy to hear part of it.

"More boom" ahead, says Kiplinger. Now comes the bad part of the letter's prediction," more inflation ahead."

"Over the next 10 years," says the Kiplinger Letter, "inflation will continue to jog along at nearly twice the rate of the 1960s ... despite Nixon's efforts to roll it back. And business will boom again as the biggest backlog of savings that the American consumer has ever stashed away comes out of hiding and into the market.

"This may be hard for you to accept under today's conditions. But the fact remains that those who do prepare for the new boom ahead will reap big dividends for their foresight -- and avoid the blunders others will make."

The savings which Kiplinger talks about should help fuel the stock market, eventually. But first the ingredient of confidence has to be present.

Some plus for confidence in the market may be found in the published reports about Saudi Arabia's oil money finding its way to the United States.

An Associated Press dispatch of July 20 noted that Saudi Arabia likely will invest a sizeable amount of its oil wealth in the United States -- in government securities and the stock market, too.

Any money the Arabs place in American stocks should help the market, pricewise.

In 1918, Elmo Lincoln, was the first actor to portray "Tarzan the Ape Man" in the movies.

Rowe under $2,500 bond on drug charge

NEW MADRID — Two men were bound over to Circuit Court for trial on felony charges after both waived a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

Charged with possession of marijuana in excess of 35 grams and possession of paraphernalia for administering controlled drugs, Charles Rowe was placed under $2,500 bond pending his Circuit Court appearance.

In addition to marijuana, Rowe is accused of possession of paraphernalia consisting of one pipe, one gas mask hose and one cigarette holder for administering controlled drugs.

Charles Gill of Tallapoosa was bound over to Circuit Court under $500 bond on a charge of feloniously exhibiting a shotgun in a threatening manner before Charles Deprow.

A fine of $45 was assessed Daniel Leslie Flowers for careless and imprudent driving and operating a motor vehicle with defective brakes. Sammy White paid a $40 fine for careless and imprudent driving.

A charge of malicious destruction of personal property resulted in a $35 fine against Brenda Fields. Richard Carter pleaded guilty to trespassing on property owned by Roy F. Elam and was fined $50.

Alan Vincent Seagrave, a driver from outside of the state, was levied a $125 fine on a driving while intoxicated charge.

Marsha Ann Clubb paid a $25 fine for driving without a license, and Clarence T. Parks and Columbus Watters each paid $20 fines on similar charges. Randall Don Williams was fined $20 for operating an improperly registered vehicle.

Thirty-two fines were levied on speeding citations. Persons fined were:

Norris Richmond Jr. and Fredrick James Wilson, $75 each; Robert Wesley Spencer; Cloyd B. Moran Jr., John D. Talbert and Archie Kelly, $50 each; Betty Lou Delcove, $41; Stanley Michael Harmon and William Lloyd Reed, $34 each; Gerald Counts, James Edward Pell, Robert Wayne Nix and Brian Lee Willis, $30 each.

James Allen House, Earnest Honey, Jerry Don Lorance, Richard D. Duvall, Owen J. Taul, and Marshall Wendall Thompson, $28 each; Jack Raymond Lewis, Keith Allen Grissom, Willie Davis Motton, James Baker, Betty Mae Hinton, Jerry Wayne Lewis and Leonard Edward Smith, $26 each; Robert Eugene Bush and Danny Lee Albritton, $25 each; and James Linn Chamberlain, Jack Lee Weddington, William Robert Chamberlain and Roy Lee Bishop, $20 each.

Casting derby, rodeo winners announced

RISCO — Winners of the casting derby, bicycle rodeo and demonstration activities, conducted last week in conjunction with the annual New Madrid County 4-H Fair, have been announced.

Howard Bailey and Sheila Midgett of Risco were top winners in the casting derby held Wednesday afternoon under the direction of Conservation Agent Wayne Martin of Cape Girardeau and Sam Tanner of New Madrid. Contestants performed after they saw a film on Missouri Rivers and fishing shown by Martin.

Other winners were Wayne Blough of Risco and Lori Deprow of Tallapoosa, second, and Johnny Sells of Matthews and Charlene Whiffen of Canalou, third. Honorable mention went to Andy McCord and Chris Hon of Risco and Terena Joyce and Melissa Kirksey of Risco.

Sheila Buck and Andrew Joyce of Risco won first place in the bicycle rodeo Thursday afternoon. The rodeo was conducted by highway patrol Sgt. Joe Matthews of Poplar Bluff, who was assisted by Mrs. Paul Cummins of Risco and Mrs. Richard Whiffen of Matthews.

Also winning recognition were Trena Joyce of Risco and Gary Phillips of Marston, second, and Randy Phillips of Marston and Sheila Midgett of Risco, third. Honorable mention was awarded to Tammy Hony and Chris Hon of Risco, Marie Macklan of Portageville and Van Malloy of Canalou.

Awards were also presented to winners of demonstration activities, held Thursday morning under the direction of Mrs. Dianne Watson of Canalou.

Winners of $5 cash prizes for over 14- age demonstrators were Cheryl Whiffen and Cindy Blankenship of Canalou, who presented "Grooming a Horse."

Winning the $5 top prize for the under- 14 age group was Wayne Blough, Risco, who presented "Photography ... The Old and the New."

Second prize of $3 for under - 14 demonstrators went to Tommy Kirksey of Risco, who showed "Hunters Safety."

Third prize of $2.50 was presented to Christie Pearson of Risco, who showed "Measuring Liquid and Dry Ingredients."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor
Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Mr. Editor,

The President of the U.S.A. is under attack, not just for the misdeeds of some of his associates but, by the powerful conspirators to destroy America and the Presidency of the U.S.A. The news media, while not a part of the conspiracy, is nevertheless playing into the hands of the conspirators and the President, himself, is falling deeper and deeper in the pit. By ignoring the horrible conditions of our country and courting the ones who are plotting the downfall of our country and the people the President is calling friends, are the plotters and planners. I could not but note the contempt of Brezhnev when he was looking or talking to Nixon, the one thing the Russians have the uttmost contempt for, is weakness, and the Russians are not stupid, they know when they have the upper hand. The President, if he would regain the confidence of the American People and the world, would be to get the affairs of this country straightened out, by divorcing himself from the Big Oil companies the oppressors of the common people, the Communists are hopeful that this country will fall, but they don't know what a Great and Mighty God has declared that no conquerer will set foot on this land. God has proven that Declaration through two of the vicious wars the world has ever known and that same almighty God will never permit the foot of an enemy to walk upon this land. So in Conclusion let me say, Mr. Editor, that the President, had better look to America and the American people for his help, if he wants to survive.

Lions Elect New International President

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA—Johnny Balbo of Oak Brook, Illinois, was elected President of the International Association of Lions Clubs at their 57th Annual Convention in San Francisco, California. Lions International is the largest humanitarian service club organization in the world. It is a non-political, non-sectarian association with over one million members in 146 nations and geographic areas.

A former professional wrestler and World Light-Heavyweight Champion from 1947-49, Balbo has been a member of the La Grange, Illinois, Lions Club since 1952. Now a mobile home park owner, Balbo is a director of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness and a trustee of Leader Dog School for the Blind, Rochester, Michigan, and Hadley School for the Blind in Winnetka, Illinois.

President Balbo's theme for his year in office, "Lionism: a Heritage Challenging Tomorrow," exhorts Lions everywhere to build upon their strong history of service to meet the future needs of the handicapped, the lonely and the under-privileged of the world.

— The first official Memorial Day was celebrated on May 30, 1868, at Arlington National Cemetery.

Bernie conducts unofficial census

BERNIE — The city of Bernie is conducting an unofficial census in hopes it will show a significant increase in population since the 1970 federal census. If there is a sufficient increase, the city can apply for an official recount, according to Mayor R. B. Woods.

The 1970 federal census showed a Bernie population of 1,641 — up from 1,578 in 1960. The Board of Aldermen believes increased industrial activity and housing expansion has increased the population.

An increased population could mean increased benefits to the city, such as an increase in federal revenue- sharing funds.

In addition, the figures revealed by the census should be of interest to the city and Chamber of Commerce, Woods said.

There is no direct cost to the city in conducting the census. A high school student, Charlotte Wilmath, working for the city under a federally financed summer program is conducting the census.

She began going house- to- house in Bernie Monday afternoon. Starting in the southern section of the city, she estimated Wednesday afternoon that she had covered about one- quarter of the city. Her total for that section was 520 persons.

In conducting the census, she asks five simple questions. They are: who is the head of the household; what is the address; how many persons are in the family; are there any school age children; and does anyone live there part- time?

Mornings are spent going door- to- door and afternoons are spent at the city hall making sure of totals and verifying addresses.

The census should take about two weeks, Miss Wilmath said, then she'll return to full- time work at the city hall until Aug. 10, when the summer program ends.

The work is "warm but very interesting," she said. She finds it interesting to meet everyone in the city although she already knows quite a few.

The results of the unofficial census should be complete before Bernie's next regular Board of Aldermen meeting in August.

Chiropractors plan seminar

The Southeast Missouri Chiropractors Association met Sunday at the Holiday Inn.

Dr. D. Warren Salzmann of Jackson presented the program, and Dr. Jack Kessinger of Viburnum reported that classes for physiotherapy and rehabilitation will be available Nov. 3 and 4 in Jefferson City.

Plans were finalized for a Sept. 14-15 educational seminar in Cape Girardeau at the Holiday Inn.

4 arrested

Police today announced the arrest of Jerry Mac McMackin, 122 Cardinal Drive, for assault and battery; Michael S. Kuehle, 812 Ladue Drive, and James Allen Kiefer, 215 Harry St., speeding; and Gloria Jean Odum, 804 Agnes St., driving while intoxicated.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

"Love ye your enemies, and do good." (Luke 6:35)

PRAYER: Thank You, God, for using a child to show me the way to live for Christ. Help us all to look to You for Your helping love and to pray from our hearts the prayer Your Son, the Christ, taught us. Amen.

'Second-hand smoke' dangerous to bystander

Plenty of ammunition is now at hand to help the nonsmoking majority defend itself against the health menace of "second- hand" smoke.

Strengthening the arguments that favor the rights of nonsmokers, who outnumber smokers two to one, the American Lung Association rounded up information based on recent research concerning the harmful effects of tobacco smoke on innocent bystanders.

"Sidestream" smoke from the burning end of a cigarette and "mainstream" smoke pulled in by the smoker and then exhaled are more than merely nuisances to the nostrils and eyes of others, the lung association said.

In an article in its monthly magazine, the Bulletin, entitled, "The Facts About Second- Hand Cigarette Smoke", the nationwide Christmas Seal agency warned that this "double exposure" offers serious threats to the lungs and circulatory system of the unwilling inhaler.

For example:

Twice as much tar and nicotine is found in sidestream smoke from the end of a burning cigarette as in mainstream smoke.

Ten cigarettes an hour smoked in an enclosed auto pollute the air so much that the carbon monoxide doubles in the blood of smokers and nonsmokers alike and could interfere with driving safety.

Parents who smoke at home can aggravate symptoms in asthmatic children and even trigger attacks in some. Even among non- asthmatic children of such parents, researchers found twice as much respiratory illness.

This information is being incorporated into a new leaflet, to be available from local affiliated lung associations, which will also include suggestions on how nonsmokers can apply it to protect themselves from polluting smokers. The intent is also to inform smokers who don't realize the distress and possibly serious health hazares they may inflict on non- smokers.

Hundreds of chemical compounds are contained in tobacco and hundreds more are created when tobacco burns. Listed among the most hazardous, in addition to the more familiar tar and nicotine, are carbon monoxide, cadmium, nitrogen dioxide, carbon dioxide, ammonia, DDT, benzene, formaldehide and hydrogen sulphide.

"Any one alone can assault the body and cause trouble. Together they make smoking the menace it is, " the lung association said.

Studies were reported to show that sidestream smoke contains higher concentrations of noxious compounds than mainstream smoke. Besides tallying twice the tar and nicotine content, the studies indicated threetimes as much 3-4 benzpyrene, suspected as a cancer- causing agent; five times as much carbon monoxide, which robs the blood of oxygen; and 50 times as much ammonia in sidestream smoke.

They also found more cadmium, which is under investigation as one of the compounds that damages the lungs' air sacs, causing emphysema.

After only 30 minutes in a smoke- filled room, according to one study, the carbon monoxide level in the nonsmoker's blood increases along with his blood pressure and heartbeat. The lung association added that researchers found that smoking seven cigarettes in one hour -- even in a ventilated room -- lifted carbon monoxide levels in the seat next to the smoker to 90 parts per million, almost twice the maximum set for industry.

In an enclosed auto, smoking ten cigarettes also produced carbon monoxide levels up to 90 p.p.m.

"Some studies indicate that, with these levels of carbon monoxide in the blood, people cannot distinguish relative brightness, lose some ability to judge time intervals and take longer to respond to tail- lights," the Bulletin article said.

"They also show impaired performance on some psychomotor tests.

1,000 hours contributed

The charm of the Irish shines in Joseph Kelledy's smile as he accepts an award presented to him by E. A. "Wally" Richter, vice president of the American Lung Association of Eastern Missouri, for more than 1,000 hours of volunteer service. Kelledy, who writes and sings songs about his native country, Ireland, and his adopted country, America, is a regular volunteer at the offices of the ALA at 911 Locust St. in St. Louis. "Helping with Christmas Seals helps keep me lively," says the 92- year - old volunteer worker, "and it keeps other people that way, too."

C'ville housing plan seems 'all but dead'

CARUTHERSVILLE — Depended upon to help ease the need for increased public housing while adding sparkle to Caruthersville's downtown district, a planned $2-million seven- story apartment complex for the elderly now appears "all but dead."

That was the evaluation Tuesday of Caruthersville Housing Authority's executive director in the wake of HUD's refusal to approve a $2,024,000 price tag that would have allowed work on the project to have begun in August.

"After wrestling with this thing for almost two years, it's very disappointing. It looks like a definite need is not going to be met," said Ralph Stone, the director.

"We're considering it all but dead now," he said.

The housing authority's remaining hope is pinned to a "diminished plan" that it still hopes to present to the Department of Housing and Urban Development in an effort to salvage at least part of the project.

Originally, plans called for a 60- unit, 63,000- square feet building to include a laundry, a first- floor community room and meeting rooms to cost $1.4 million. Bids were taken in October 1972, with construction to have started in early 1973.

But, in November 1973, increased costs caused the contractor, Consultants Development Corp. of Memphis, to withdraw, throwing the project in jeopardy.

The housing authority then negotiated a preliminary $1.6- million agreement with Boyer Construction Co. of Sikeston in time to receive a go- ahead from HUD Jan. 3, two days before a moratorium on new public housing construction took effect.

However, in May, the company said higher material costs and an unaccounted- for need for stronger earthquake protection in the building's foundation would push the cost past the $2- million mark.

"What the earthquake protection amounted to is that instead of steel encased pilings driven 50 feet, it would mean 65 feet. And, of course, the price of steel has gone up sharply," Stone said.

"It's a very simple matter, really — money. The federal government is not going to agree to put that much money into what we had hoped for in Caruthersville. It's about $400,000 more than had been conted on," he said.

Thus, the fate of the project rests largely on the housing authority's ability to scale down the project at the eleventh hour without having to relinquish the approval to continue received before the moratorium, he said.

"To do that would be like starting all over again, and we need the housing as soon as possible," he said.

While not disclosing what alternatives the housing authority is considering, Stone said "something will have to be come up with in a matter of days."

Caruthesville now has 120 housing units for the elderly included in a total of 308 public housing units administered by the housing authority, "and there is an immediate need," he said.

People never cease to amaze me! Remember my column a week or two ago about our two hunting dogs that Charles let out in the yard and they ran away and we had to call the dog catcher to help us locate them? Well, this is really going to get you, a number of people called the poor man up after reading that column and demanded he make us buy dog stamps for the dogs. Well, this was a minor thing and one that didn't matter a hoot. I never even knew you had to have a stamp unkess the dogs were allowed to run loose, and as we have runs built in our yard and the dogs are always kept penned with the exception of this one time when they got away, the thought of a stamp had never entered my mind.

Anyhow, we bought them and it was certainly no big deal — however — the big deal to me was that those people who called the dog catcher had nothing more pressing or important on their minds than trying to annoy someone else over something as unimportant as a dog stamp! I mean there are so many issues in our world today that could stand a little thought and pressure, for example, if you want to complain about something, why not complain to someone about a movie such as "The Exorcist" which should never be allowed to be shown and have you looked at who's lined up to see it — the teenagers! Or, I can think of a number of items in our governmental system on all levels that needs some pressure brought to bear! Or, if you're so bored such trivia as dog tags are all you have to take up your time then why not do some volunteer work at the hospital, or the retardation clinic, I do and I know they could really use the help. As so could our Scout organizations or the groups that work with the elderly. Now, I'm sorry my dogs weren't tagged, but they are now, and I'm sorry that was the most important thing you people had to fill your minds with and as I said I corrected my mistake — I certainly pray you do something about yours!!

Former 'narc' says job tough

EMPORIA, KAN. (AP) — Dressed in dirty jeans, cowboy boots and a denim jacket with the sleeves cut off, Rick Eaton took a long draw on his cigarette and slowly blew smoke between his lips.

As easily as a Wall Street executive recalls stock market prices, he quoted current Kansas street prices for "coke," or cocaine, "smak," or heroin, and other illegal drugs.

His face was unshaven and he constantly pushed his long hair from in front of his eyes.

He was alien to people who once called him "friend," and he despised the people he was associating with—those he called "creeps." Nearly every night he could be found in a bar sipping a glass of beer, and talking about drugs.

He hoped his appearance and manner labeled him as a pusher or user. If not, he would have failed at his $750-a-month job as an undercover narcotics agent for the Kansas Bureau of Investigation—a job he held until last summer when he decided to end his 16-month career as a "narc."

The more than 200 people he arrested during investigations in 20 Kansas towns would not recognize him today as he goes quietly about his job as a detective at the Lyon County sheriff's office.

The long hair has been cut, with only neatly trimmed sideburns remaining; blue jeans have been replaced by dress slacks, a coat and tie.

Even the name, Rick Eaton, has been dropped. He now is known by his real neame—Eric Eslinger.

A former Army military policeman, Eslinger joined the KBI because "I thought I'd like the suspense and excitement of working as an undercover agent."

After a brief familiarization he was assigned to a drug investigation. "My training with the bureau was on the job," he said.

He quit the bureau because he is married—the only undercover married man at the KBI—and he feels undercover work is not a job for a family man.

Eslinger's procedure was similar in each town where he bought drugs. "Law officers write to the bureau and ask that an undercover agent be sent to their community," he said.

"We had a backlog of 40 to 50 requests, and preference was given to towns where informants were available."

Prosecutors try to convince jurors that informants help because they think drugs are bad, but usually informants are drug users who have been arrested and agree to help police in return for reduced jail sentences, he said.

Eslinger said the KBI tried not to use former drug users. "When I worked there all the agents were people with some type of police training—not former drug users," he said. "I didn't like to have to trust former users."

If an undercover agent can pose as an informant's friend or relative sometimes he can make a drug buy within a few days, Eslinger said. If the agent has to make his own contacts he might have to wait as much as six months to make an arrest.

When an agent is assigned to a town the KBI supplies a list of former drug users and people believed to be involved with drugs. Often being accepted is not easy, he said.

"I've known agents who even had to drop acid (LSD) to keep their cover," Eslinger said. "It seems drug users think they are safe if they can get you to use the drugs."

Sometimes Eslinger would have to hang around bars and taverns where drug dealers visited. Once police raided a club where he was making a drug buy and he was put in jail. He was not released until the bureau confirmed he was an agent.

He did not stay in the area after that. "Once someone knows you're an agent, regardless of who he is, everyone is going to know pretty soon," he said. "Even policemen's kids might use drugs."

Enslinger said an agent will buy drugs in a town until he is about to be exposed or until he makes a drug buy from a specific person he was sent to get.

"Since you have to start at the bottom and work up, many of your drug buys will be with people who are just drug users and not big-time pushers," he said. "Sometimes you get burned (exposed) before you get to the suppliers."

Convictions are difficult, he said. Under Kansas law a person who sells drugs is not guilty if he was "induced or solicited" by someone to make the sale, a claim often made against agents and informants.

Another problem is the credibility of informants.

"The defense attorney gets the informant to tell all about his background and former drug use," Enslinger said. "Usually the informant's past is much worse than the defendant's."

Often the informant seems to be on trial. After one case a woman juror was asked why she voted for acquittal. "No one likes a Judas," she said.

Enslinger defends undercover agents and informants and predicts until toughrr drug laws are enacted drug use will grow.

Vossmeyer asks Bond to call special session

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Despite Gov. Christopher S. Bond's insistance that he will not call a special session of the legislature this fall for any reason, another legislator asked him today to do so.

Rep. Steve Vossmeyer, D-St. Louis, asked Bond to call a special session in conjunction with the September veto session for revision of the state's ambulance licensing law.

Sections of the law, Vossmeyer said in his letter to the governor, "have been construed so as to prohibit the transportation of sick or injured persons to the nearest emergency facility by police officers.

"Obviously this was not the intent of the legislature nor do I think it was your intent in signing the bill," Vossmeyer wrote.

Because of what he termed "the very real threat to human life" that could result from such an interpretation, Vossmeyer asked for the special session so the law could be clarified.

The ambulance licensing law, passed by the legislature last year and fully in effect as of July 1, sets out standards for ambulance operation and qualifications for attendants and drivers.

Wyatt woman gets probation

Marilyn McCleary of Wyatt was sentenced to 90 days in jail Tuesday in Magistrate Court proceedings in the Sikeston City Courtroom after pleading guilty to cashing a bogus check.

Her sentence was suspended and she was placed on probation for two years.

Imposition of sentence for nonsupport against Clyde Richard Greer of Madison Street in Morehouse. was delayed for one year on condition he pays $10 a week in child support. He is to reappear for sentencing on July 22, 1975.

Robert J. Dover, 322 William St., waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to appear Thursday in Circuit Court on a charge of knowingly harboring a felony.

Cyclist injured in hit-and-run

A young Poplar Bluff motorcyclist was seriously injured in a hit- and- run accident and two Arkansas men were injured in the second of two area traffic accidents reported Tuesday, the highway patrol announced today.

The hit- and- run accident occurred at 6:20 p.m. on Highway 158 about a mile west of Harviell when a motorcycle driven by Randy Leon Desgranges, 15, came out of a field onto the road and was struck in the side by a 1970 maroon Ford auto. The car left the scene and it and the driver are being sought by authorities.

The boy was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

A West Memphis, Ark., man suffered serious injuries at 3:05 p.m. one mile north of Cape Girardeau on Interstate 55 when the tractor- trailer truck in which he was a passenger ran off the road, struck a guard rail and over turned down an embankment.

Larry Elmore, 41, and Euel D. Townsend, 34, of Piggott, Ark., the driver of the truck who received minor injuries, were taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Clothes dryer catches fire

Firemen were called at 4:15 p.m. Tuesday to the Pat Thompson home, 409 S. New Madrid St., when a clothes dryer caught fire.

Firemen said damage was minor.

Farmington man charged with first-degree murder

FARMINGTON — A Farmington man has been charged with first- degree murder in the shooting death of 44- year- old Harold (Bud) Jones of O'Fallon, Mo., St. Francois County sheriff's deputies said.

The suspect's estranged wife also was critically wounded in the shooting.

Jones, an employe of National Weather Service at Lambert St. Louis International Airport, was killed Monday after he was struck three times by bullets fired through a kitchen window in the home of Mrs Betty Stephens, 37, of Farmington, deputies said.

Mrs. Stephens was hit once, deputies said.

Authorities said her husband, Howard Stephens, 36, was arrested in his auto a short time after the incident, which occurred at 12:10 a.m. Monday.

A first degree murder warrant was issued Tuesday by St. Francois County Magistrate Francis Rentfro, deputies said. Stephens was being held without bond in the St. Francois County jail.

Family members said Jones, who lived in a trailer park in O'Fallon and who had been divorced since January, was visiting Mrs. Stephens, who was a next- door neighbor of Jones' parents and sister- in- law of his his brother, James Jones of Farmington.

Deputies said he was hit once in the head and twice in the back by what were believed to be .22- caliber bullets.

Mrs. Stephens was hit once in the head and was listed in critical condition at Farmington Community Hospital, where James was pronounced dead on arrival.

Deputies said Mr. and Mrs. Stephens were married five and a half years ago and had been separated for the last six months. Mrs. Jones has five children, from 11 to 19 years of age, from a previous marriage, authorities said.

No weapon was found when Stephens was arrested about a block from Mrs. Stephens' home 30 minutes after the shooting, deputies said.

Jones, a Farmington native who served in the Air Force during the Korean War, had been a weather observer for the National Weather Service for about 20 years, the last 12 at Lambert family members said.

He also played a guitar and sang, performing a few years ago with a country and western band in Farmington started by one of his brothers, they said.

Funeral services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Thursday in Cozens Funeral Chapel, with burial in K of P Cemetery, both in Farmington.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jones of Farmington; Timmy, Terry and Max Jones, three adopted sons living with his ex-wife in O'Fallon; two sisters, Mrs. Allyaene Sales and Mrs. Eleonor Daniels; and four brothers, George, John, Clarence G. and James Jones of Farmington.

13 accident patients treated

Thirteen accident patients were treated and released Tuesday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Scouting workshop scheduled

CAPE GIRARDEAU — For the second consecutive summer, Southeast Missouri State University will conduct a computers merit badge workshop for area scouts.

The workshop conducted about a year ago was so successful that it was decided to schedule another one this summer, according to Charles R. Wiles, the university's director of field services and a volunteer scout worker.

Up to 125 scouts may be accommodated at the workshop, which will begin at 5:30 p.m. Friday and wind up about 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

It will be possible to complete all the merit badge requirements during the two-day period. The workship is open to all scouts at least 11 years old, and reservations are still being accepted.

Besides hwlping the scouts meet the merit badge requirements, the workshop will serve both to open up a new vocational field to the participants and to give them the experience of living on a university campus, according to Wiles.

Dr. James Briney, director of the computer center at Southeast Missouri State, will lead the workshop program, which will include classes from 7 to 9:30 p.m. on Friday and from 8:30 to noon on Saturday.

The scouts will be housed in one of the university's high-rise dormitories and will dine in a university cafeteria. A free swimming period is set from 9:30 to 10:30 Friday night.

Fee for the institute is $4, which includes linen rental and three meals. Students should bring their own pillows.

Scout leaders are also invited to participate in all the activities for the same fee.

Reservations should be made with the Council Service Center, Boy Scouts of America, Box 637, 400 Broadway, Cape Girardeau.

World News in Brief

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Constantine Caramanlis, Greece's new premier, is a handsome, 6-foot, 67-year-old conservative who refused to knuckle under to royalty or the military. Offered a cabinet post in 1936 by Gen. Ionnis Metaxas, Caramanlis fired back: "Mister Premier, all dictatorships contain the sperm of death. They are doomed from the beginning, as will be yours." He was premier from 1955 until 1963, when he resigned after King Paul and Queen Frederika rejected his advice to call off a state visit to London because he thought an unfriendly reception awaited them. Caramanlis failed to win a majority in a general election later that year and lived in Paris—a self-exile—ever since.

MADRID, Spain (AP) — No matter how Generalissimo Francisco Franco's battle to regain his health turns out, Spain already has slipped into the post-Franco era. The crossover took place when the 81-year-old chief of state, fighting for his life in a Madrid clinic, temporarily transferred the last of his vast powers to Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon. Constitutionally, Franco can rescind at any time the verbal order surrendering power. But to bounce the chief-of-state powers back and forth could be damaging to both Franco and the 36-year-old prince he has trained from boyhood to be his successor.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Almost all of the $12,000 loot including an $8,500 diamond bracelet taken in the burglary of the home of Atlantic City's Mayor Joseph F. Bradway Jr. has been returned by mail.

"I couldn't believe it," said millionaire Bradway on Tuesday after the package was delivered by a postman to the City Hall office.

The burglar did not return several hundred dollars in cash and two clocks taken in the July 13 break-in.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stars of a half dozen Broadway shows including Hermione Gingold, Lynn Redgrave, and Joan Hackett personally have told New York policemen their work is appreciated.

The theater personalities stopped by the Midtown North Precinct Station Tuesday afternoon to thank the officers for cleaning up the area and making it safer for theatergoers and workers.

"I haven't played here since 1967, and then I was kind of scared," said Miss Redgrave. "I've noticed a huge, huge difference."

TRENTON (AP) — The New Jersey Supreme Court has righted the wrong done to Harry Wright's "Write-in-Wright" election campaign by voters who wrote in Wright wrong.

The highest court unanimously upheld on Tuesday an Appellate Division of Superior Court ruling that restored 294 of Wright's votes in a Sparta Township council election. The ballots had been declared invalid because voters wrote only "Wright" without a first name.

A trial court judge had ruled that there was no way to be certain that those voters meant Harry Wright, rather than one of the eight other Wrights in the small Sussex County community, even though all the others said they didn't want the job.

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon kept the focus of his official schedule on economic problems today, summoning Secretary of Housing and Urban Development James T. Lynn for a meeting on the slumping housing industry. Joining them were director Kenneth R. Cole Jr. of the Domestic Council and Kenneth Rush, the President's counsellor for economic affairs. Nixon announced Tuesday he is nominating Alan Greenspan, a 48-year-old New York economic consultant, to be chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers. Greenspan will succeed Herbert Stein, who is taking a teaching post Sept. 1 after serving on the council for five years. Greenspan joined Nixon and Rush for a three-hour meeting Tuesday with some three dozen business leaders and economists and one labor representative, President Frank E. Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters union. The session was a prelude to a Nixon speech on economic affairs Thursday in Los Angeles.

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler says he won't be surprised if the House Judiciary Committee recommends impeachment of President Nixon. But he says if it does, the full House will reject impeachment. "I will not be surprised at all if the House Judiciary Committee passes to the floor a bill of impeachment .... If they do, that will not be approved by the House of Representatives because they will make their decision on fact and not conjecture or implication," Ziegler told newsmen Tuesday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pro-impeachment lobby is trying to put hometown pressure on several key Republican congressmen whose votes could be crucial when the House Judiciary Committee decides whether to recommend impeachment of President Nixon. The National Committee on the Presidency Inc. bought fullpage newspaper advertisements in several districts represented by Republican congressmen considered to be swing votes on the committee.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watergate prosecutors say they may bring bribery charges against a dairy cooperative official in connection with President Nixon's 1971 increase of federal milk price supports. One of the co-op officials who promised $2 million for Nixon's 1972 campaign, David L. Parr, pleaded guilty to conspiring to donate corporate money and services illegally to six candidates. But the prosecutors said his guilty plea won't give him immunity from prosecution on possible charges of bribery and conspiracy.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Alexander P. Butterfield says H.R. Haldeman was the closest staff man to President Nixon, according to House Judiciary Committee testimony released today. "Haldeman was the alter ego. Haldeman was almost the other President. I can't emphasize that enough," Butterfield testified.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Barring another legal ruling, the Louisville and Jefferson County school districts will become the first in the nation to be merged by federal court order for desegregation purposes. U.S. District Court Judge James Gordon ordered on Tuesday the immediate merger of the districts to facilitate a new desegregation plan that calls for the busing of 30,548 students. The plan also includes the 350-pupil suburban Anchorage School District. The Anchorage district is not included in Gordon's merger order, however. School officials estimate the start-up cost of the additional busing at $2.7 million to $3.3 million. Officials of the city district said Gordon's order would be appealed.

Car stolen from bar

HAYTI — Authorities are searching for a car stolen between 10 p.m. and midnight Tuesday while parked at Idle Hour Inn.

The car, owned by Dean Saloan of Caruthersville, is a yellow 1968 Plymouth Road Runner.

PATHS OF GLORY

Every schoolboy knows where the "Paths of Glory" lead, but, brimming with energy and a zest for life, it is the last thing in this world which concerns him ... until the day he sees his own offspring tousling happily on the lawn. Then, perhaps, the lines of the long-dead English poet echo through his mind. This is the day he begins to study the ways he can protect his family's future ... a major medical plan, life insurance, the pension options open to him, and the ways and means of easing things for his wife should an emergency arise. Such mature thoughtfulness is the true "Path of Glory" for a man who has come of age.

Jackson beats defending champ

Jackson rallied from a 1-0 deficit to defeat defending state and regional champion, Sugar Creek, 3-1 and Jefferson City charged from a 2-2 deadlock to defeat Sikeston 6-2 in opening round play of the Sr. Babe Ruth state baseball tournament at VFW stadium Tuesay evening.

Tonigh's schedule matches Jefferson City against Jackson at 7 p.m. and Sikeston battles Sugar Creek at 9 p.m. in the doubles elimination event.

Kent Nelson provided the offense for Jackson with his two for four showing at the plate and scored two of the teams three runs.

Sugar Creek took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first and held that margin until the fourth when Jackson pushed across two runs and added another in the fifth to give Mark Beussink the victory. A trio of errors cost the defending champs.

Mike Long mistified Sikeston batters, fanning 13 during the seven inning contest and allowed only five hits while walking one.

Jefferson City charged from a 2-2 tie with a four run fifth and held Sikeston scoreless through the final five innings.

Steve Haywood, Gary Ferguson and Jerry Steinbeck had two hits each to lead Jeff City's 10 hit barrage. Steinbeck connected for a two- run triple for the biggest hit.

Sikeston's only bright moment of the night was an inside the park homer by Bruce Lawrence and a triple off the bat of Greg Colwick.

Diebold 1-woman show

Val Diebold pitched Benton to the championship of the Vanduser Women's fast pitch softball tournament Tuesday night, defeating New Hamburg 12-2 and 8-2, while claiming the events most valuable play honors.

Mrs. Diebold won five games for Benton in the tournament, two by no-hit performances.

Benton was also awarded the sportsmanship prize.

Lavon Felter connected for a single and double to lead Benton's opening game victory while Mary Hubbard socked a pair of triples and a double to lead the nightcap win.

Cards sign Fry

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — Bennie Fry, a Houston University product, became the latest player Tuesday to sign with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League.

The Big Red said Fry, a 6-foot-4 , 230-pound free agent, would be tried at center and guard.

In other action, the Cards released running back Fred Gray, who had signed a free agent contract following a tryout camp July 11.

Rod Carew disturbed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The All-Star Game is no fun for Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins, who says that if he can't get the playing time he figures he deserves, he'd rather stay home.

" Next year, I'm just going to ask to have my name not put on the ballot. I don't think I want to come to the All-Star Game any more," the American League's starting second baseman said after playing only 2⅓ innings in Tuesday night's 7-2 loss to the National League.

Manager Dick Williams said he removed Carew because he thought the infielder had been banged up in a third-inning slide at second base.

"I'm not going to take a chance on injuring someone else's player," Williams said.

Carew, leading the major leagues with a .382 batting average, said he was okay and would have liked to play longer.

"It's the same every year with me," he said. "I'm not trying to rap anybody, but why should I make the trip to the All-Star Game when they lift me after two or three innings?"

Play ball....

Big Jim Saulters heads for home plate with an opening inning score for the Sikeston Sr. Babe Ruth all-stars in their state tournament match against Jefferson City at VFW stadium Tuesday night. The local stars bowed to their opponents 6-2.

Chaffee advances

CHAFFEE — Booneville defeated Kirksville 23-8 in a slugfest and Chaffee eased past Ft. Leonardwood 5-1 in opening round action of the Jr. Babe Ruth state baseball tournament here Tuesday night at Harmon field.

Tournament action resumes at 6 p.m. today when Carthage squares off against Boonville. Chaffee faces Sikeston in the 8 p.m. contest.

Richard Overton connected for five hits and scored four runs in leading Booneville to its 23-8 romp. John Stock claimed the win.

Booneville out-hit Kirksville 16-15 and took advantage of numerous fielding errors to run up their big score.

Chaffee broke a scoreless deadlock with a big four run fifth inning and added its final tally in the seventh while allowing Ft. Leonardwood a single score in the last of the fifth.

Scot Wachter gave up five hits and picked up the win despite the three hit pitching performance of David Jones.

Chaffee's big inning was highlighted by a trio of errors as they managed only one hit in the frame, an opening inning single.

Ft. Leonardwood's Scott Mise was the only player in the game to manage more than one hit. The dandy little second sacker connected for a double and single during the contest.

Terrell Lime and Fertilizer Co. of Sikeston donated this floater loader spreading machine plus their time and limestone to the Sikeston country club this week to complete liming and fertilizing the greens and fairways at the club's gold course. The $50,000 machine, only one of about three in the bootheel region, weighs 15 tons loaded, but the huge balloon tires allow it to travel over wet or dry ground without leaving tracks. The fully loaded machine gives no more pressure than a man walking. Albert Jackson, general manager of Terrell Lime was overseer for the country club job.

Pizza Inn upset

Seventh ranked Legion upset second seeded Pizza Inn 16-9 and Jaycees edged Lions 9-8 in National League tournament action Tuesday night.

Powerhouse hitting highlighted Legion play. Copeland and Abernathy connected for homers while Harry Tope slugged two. Abernathy also connected for a double as did Taylor and Turley. It was a hard-hitting match as Gary Laseter powered a homer and Lewis and Garner cracked doubles for Pizza Inn. Copeland took the mound win from Lane.

Warfield led the hitting attack for Jaycees in other action with four, as he connected for a homer and a double, collecting three of the nine winning runs. Winfield also performed well at the plate for Lions with two- for - two, including a double, but Jaycee's tie-breaking run in the seventh was just enough to overtake Lions. Malcolm took the mound win in the three-hitter while King was tagged with the loss.

Tonight's National League schedule: Kiwanis vs. A&B at 6:30 p.m. and Legion vs. Jaycees at 8:15 p.m.

Fabick posts upset

Fifth seeded Fabick upset fourth ranked First National Bank 7-2 and Righter Trucking fell to Bridger 16-4 in a pair of American League tournament matches Tuesday night.

Mike Williams made a good showing, taking the mound win from Smith and stealing home in the fifth.

Garner was two for two at the plate and McReynolds also connected for two hits and collected one of the seven runs.

In other action, McKinney showed fine form, winning the two hitter and making a three- for- three plate performance. Thompson was two- for- two at the plate and Glaus powered two hits and collected one run. Plank was tagged with the loss.

Tonight's American League schedule: Ryan vs. Nunnelee at 6:30 p.m. and Bridger vs. Fabick at 8:14 p.m.

WFL unbeatens battle tonight

The rookie World Football League, plunging into the midst of its third week, will have four teams battling tonight to hang onto their unbeaten records. At least one is likely to fail.

A pair of undefeated teams — the Birmingham Americans and the Memphis Southmen — are matched in a WFL version of a "showdown" game.

"They have a fine quarterback and two of the better running backs in the league," said Birmingham head coach Jack Gotta about the Southmen — the WFL scoring leaders with a 25-point per game average.

Quarterback John Huarte, who has 22 completions in 37 attempts for 342 yards, leads Memphis. Running back J. J. Jennings has a total of 170 yards rushing for the Southmen and John Harvey has 85 yards.

But quarterback George Mira, the latest WFL Player of the Week, has completed 22 of 44 passes for 299 yards for the Americans. His top receiver is Dennis Homan with six catches for 144 yards.

In other games tonight, the unbeaten Chicago Fire plays the Portland Storm, the undefeated Florida Blazers meet the Houston Texans and the Southern California Sun faces the Jacksonville Sharks.

The Philadelphia Bell hosts the New York Stars Thursday night in a nationally televised WFL game and Chicago - with three days of rest- plays the Hawaiians in another contest Sunday at Honolulu.

The Fire, tied with Birmingham and Memphis for the Central Division lead, will help winless Portland open its home season.

Chicago features quarterback Virgil Carter - 33 of 62 for 371 - and receiver James Scott, the WFL leader with 14 catches for 134 yards.

The Blazers are the other unbeaten WFL team, led by quarterback Bob Davis and runners Jim Strong and A. D. Whitfield.

BASEBALL

PITTSBURGH — The National League All-Stars defeated their American League counterparts 7-2 and Los Angeles Dodgers' Steve Garvey, the only player elected to either All-Star squad by a write-in vote, was voted the game's Most Valuable Player. Garvey slashed two hits that keyed a pair of rallies and helped the National League to its 11th victory in the past 12 All-Star games. The National League now has a 26-18-1 lead in the 45game series.

SAN FRANCISCO — Gary Matthews earned National League Player of the Week honors as his .600 hitting average and nine runs batted in helped the San Francisco Giants win five of six games.

TENNIS

WASHINGTON — Unranked Juan Gisbert of Spain upset seventh-seeded Eddie Dibbs of Miami 6-4, 4-6, 6-4 in the raininterrupted first -round of the 100,000 Washington Star-News Tennis Tournament.

BOWLING

HOUSTON — Tommy Hudson of Akron, Ohio defeated Bill Beach in the finals of the $47,000 Houston-Sertoma Open Bowling tournament.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For some it was a busman's holiday. For a busman's son, it was a dream come true.

"The seeds were planted when I was four, five and six," said Steve Garvey of the Los Angeles Dodgers, named the Most Valuable Player in Tuesday night's All-Star Game after leading the National League to a 7-2 victory over the American League.

"My father drove the team bus for the Dodgers in spring training and I got to know them all—Gil Hodges, Carl Furillo, Roy Campanella, Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax.

"They all were All-Stars and I always hoped that someday I'd be one. Gil Hodges was my idol and here I was playing his position in the All-Star Game."

Garvey's name didn't even appear on the computer ballot for this 45th All-Star Game, but the nation's fans responded with more than one million write-in votes to make him the starting first baseman.

Garvey responded to that by delivering two key hits and a sparkling defensive play during a full nine-inning stint as the National League continued its dominance over the American, winning its 11th game in the past 12. The NL now leads the series 26-18-1 after being behind 12-4.

Five NL pitchers held the American to four hits, causing losing Manager Dick Williams to lament: "You can't do much with four hits."

Gaylord Perry, starting pitcher for the AL, retired the first five NL batters before Garvey singled in the second. Dodgers teammate Ron Cey then drove in Garvey with a double.

In the third inning Garvey made a brilliant backhand stab of Bobby Murcer's hot grounder to end the inning.

The AL already had two runs in that inning and two runners on base.

In the fourth, with the Americans leading 2-1, Johnny Bench and Jimmy Wynn, another Dodger, singled. Garvey doubled in one run and Wynn later scored on Cey's groundout.

And although it was not obvious then, Garvey, playing despite an ear infection, had done in the American League.

Joe Garvey, who drives a bus in Tampa, Fla., and his wife were among the standing-room only crowd of 50,706 at Three Rivers Stadium to see their son.

Asked if he contributed any write-in ballots, the elder Garvey beamed: "I'd say the family contributed a couple of hundred. We weren't going to come here. Instead we were going to Atlanta next weekend so we could see three games. But I told my wife that we only live once, let's go."

It was one of the best trips the Garveys ever took.

In the AL dressing room Williams said: "With a group like that—Cey, Garvey, Wynn and Mike Marshall—that's probably why the Dodgers are where they are."

Marshall pitched the last two innings, after strong performances by Messersmith, Ken Brett, Jon Matlack, and Lynn McGlothen. Brett, the only Pittsburgh Pirate on the squad, was credited with the victory after working the fourth and fifth innings.

Luis Tiant, who allowed two runs in the fourth inning, took the loss. The Nationals added an unearned run in the fifth on Joe Morgan's sacrifice fly, scoring Lou Brock who had singled, stolen second and moved to third on catcher Thurman Munson's error.

Reggie Smith homered in the seventh to make it 5-2 off Jim Hunter, and Don Kessinger's triple in the eighth was the key blow as the NL made it 7-2.

The AL scored twice in the third inning with Dick Allen driving in one run with a single.

Problems of poor discussed

JEFFERSON CITY — Representatives of statewide organizations concerned with the problems of the poor met July 17 to plan efforts to meet the needs of Missouri's poor. Of immediate concern was the failure of aid to dependent children (ADC) recipients to receive an increase in payments this year. The maximum assistance to a family of four is $144 per month. Missouri ranks 46th in the nation in average ADC payments per person.

Gov. Christopher Bond recently vetoed Senate Bill 613 which would have raised the family of four maximum to $157. This increase would have been less than this year's cost of living rise but would have represented an additional state expenditure of $3.5 million. Kathy Israel, staff assistant to the governor, and Ewing Gourley, director of the Division of Family Services, met with the group to explain fiscal difficulties that caused the governor to veto the bill.

Sen. Norman Merrell, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Mrs. John S. Ketchum, staff assistant to Sen. William Cason, also met with the group.

The representatives of the groups agreed to attempt to enlist the support of the governor for reconsidering the budgetary impact of the $3.5 million expenditure in light of new lower projected expenditure figures and make an effort to enlist statewide support to override the veto.

In other action, the representatives agreed to priorities for immediate work of this combined group which include working for increased state and local use of contractual social services (Title IV A) funds and for an expanded social education program to help citizens, legislators and administrators become more aware of the ways in which they can immediately meet some of the needs of the poor.

Citizens groups represented were: the Missouri Crisis Coalition, Missouri Coalititon for Human Needs and Budget Priorities and Income Maintenance Task Force of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare.

These organizations in turn include the Missouri Catholic Conference, Missouri Council of Churches, Welfare Rights Organization, Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministries, Missouri Municipal League, League of Women Voters of Missouri, Reform Organization for Welfare, Lutheran Family and Children Service, Social Concerns Department of the Missouri Catholic Conference and Human Rights Commission of the Arch- Diocese of St. Louis.

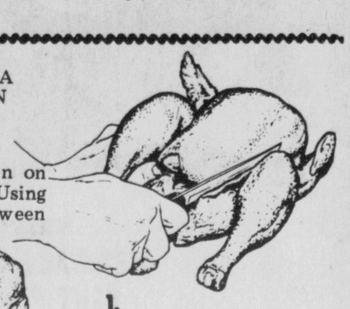
COOKING-UP

HOW TO CUT UP A WHOLE CHICKEN



Step 1. Place chicken on back of cutting board. Using sharp knife, cut skin between thighs and body.

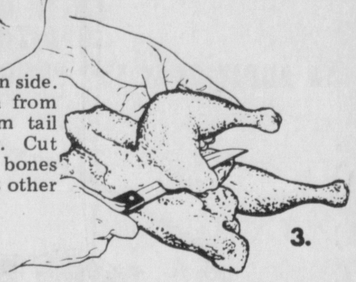
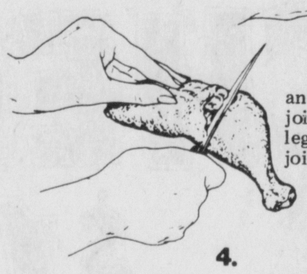
2.

Step 2. Grasping one leg in each hand, lift chicken and bend back legs until bones break at hip joints.



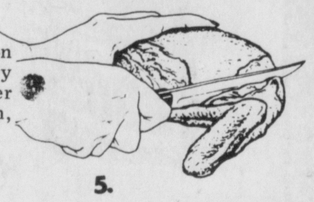
3.

Step 3. Turn bird on side. Remove leg and thigh from body by cutting from tail and toward shoulder. Cut between joints close to bones in back of bird. Repeat other side.



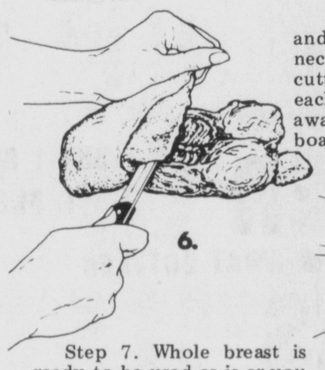
4.

Step 4. Separate thighs and drumsticks. Locate knee joint by bending thigh and leg together. Cut through joints of each leg.



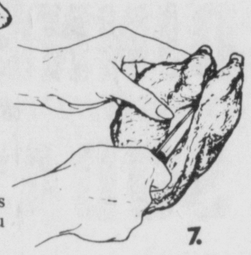
5.

Step 5. With chicken on back, remove wings by cutting inside of wing over joint. Cut from top down, through joint.



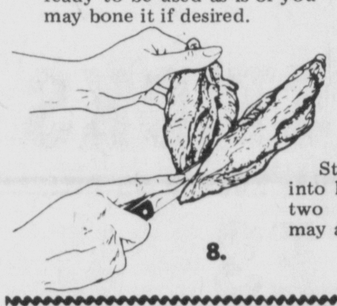
6.

Step 6. Separate breast and back by placing bird on neck end or back, and cutting through joints along each side of rib cage. Cut away from you toward board.



7.

Step 7. Whole breast is ready to be used as is or you may bone it if desired.



8.

Step 8. To split breast into halves, cut wishbone in two at V of bone. Halves may also be boned.

Fried chicken great for picnics

Perfect for picnics ... fried chicken, a universally favorite food, is ideal for summer outings. It travels well, takes little advance preparation and is easy to eat on the go.

Summertime and the living is easy.

And the easiest of summer foods is fried chicken -- easy on the pocketbook, easy to cook and easy to eat outdoors with your fingers.

The National Broiler Council notes that fried chicken is a good traveler, too, easy to take along on all your outings. Fried chicken fits right in with any of your picnicking, vacation or day-of- outdoor-fun plans.

When you take chicken along, you don't leave good nu trition behind, either. Protein-rich chicken satisfies the heartiest of appetites, even when whetted by summer play or travel. Chicken's low calorie count helps you keep looking your trim best, too.

The many varieties of chicken packaging available make it easy for you to select just the parts you prefer to fry. Or for even greater economy, buy whole broiler-fryers and cut them into pieces yourself. Cutting up a whole bird is easy once you learn the simple basic steps.

When preparing chicken for a picnic, the National Broiler Council advises care in packing it for travel. As soon as the chicken is cooked, place it in the refrigerator and chill quickly. It's best not too cool fried chicken at room temperature.

If you're traveling only a short distance, pack the chicken in a plastic container or aluminum foil. But if you're going some distance and don't plan to eat for a long while, pack it in an insulated container or ice chest to keep it fresh longer.

Traditionally a Southern favorite, fried chicken has become one of the nation's most popular chicken dishes. Its delicate texture and yummy taste appeal to all ages.

Here are two suggestions for preparing fried chicken for your summer outings:

FAMILY FRIED CHICKEN

1 1½ to 2½ pound broiler fryer, cut-up
1 cup corn oil
1 cup milk
1½ cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika

In a large frying pan, place corn oil. Add more if oil is not one-inch deep. Over medium high temperature heat oil. Combine flour, salt, pepper and paprika in a heavy- duty paper bag. Place milk in shallow bowl. Dip each chicken piece into milk then into flour mixture. Shake bag to completely coat each piece. Add all of the chicken pieces to the hot oil and cover for 5 to 6 minutes. Uncover, turn chicken when underside is golden brown. Cover again for approximately 6 to 8 minutes; then remove top. Cook until brown. Reduce heat to midium low, cover and cook 20 to 30 minutes longer.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Prepare favorite fried chicken recipe or Family Fried Chicken recipe given above. Browning chicken parts. Remove from frying pan after browning. Drain on paper towels and place in baking dish. Bake, uncovered, at 375F. for approximately 35 to 40 minutes or until completely cooked.

SOUP-SALAD SUPPER
Split Pea Soup
Iceberg Salad Bread Tray
Brownies Beverage

ICEBERG SALAD

4 crosswise slices iceberg lettuce
1-3rd cup mayonnaise blended with 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
Scallion Dressing, see below
½ cup chopped ripe olives
Pimiento strips

Arrange lettuce slices on 4 salad plates; spread with mayonnaise; top with egg slices. Drizzle with Scallion Dressing — about 2 tablespoons for each salad. Center with mounds of olives and garnish with pimiento. Makes 4 servings.

Scallion Dressing: In a small jar shake together ¼ cup corn oil, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar, 1 teaspoon seasoned salt, ¼ teaspoon each dillweed and sugar, pepper to taste and ¼ cup thinly sliced scallion; shake well again just before using.

Senate group to investigate festival damage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, said Monday he would name a senate committee to investigate damage caused by the weekend Ozark Music Festival at the state fairgrounds in Sedalia.

Cason and Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, called a 4 p.m. news conference at the Holiday Inn south of the fairgrounds where about 100,000 young people spent the weekend listening to 22 different music groups and participating in a carnival.

Meanwhile, reports of damage and high costs of cleanup came on the day after the festival.

Residents complained of young people sleeping on their lawns and leaving litter. The state fair shopping center north of the fairgrounds was covered with litter early today.

Supermarket operator W. E. Bingaman said his store windows were broken in looting attempts. The promoters offered to pay for it.

Dottie Blaine, who runs the Holiday Inn for Bingaman, said she normally serves a buffet breakfast for 80 people on Sundays but that she could only serve 10 because about eight young people came in with sacks, picked up over half the biscuits and rolls, and walked out without paying.

"We closed right after that," she said.

The motel grounds were littered with trash, and festival goers bathed in "our swimming pool, they just took it over," Mrs. Blaine said.

Cason said, "I have a preliminary estimate from a knowledgeable man who says it will cost $75,000 to clean up the fairgrounds and repair the damage there."

"We want to know what all of these things cost the state, including the extra highway patrolmen who were called in and the National Guardsmen who were put on standby alert," Cason said. "I'm sure it will far exceed the $40,000 the state got for contracting for the rock festival."

State Agriculture Director James Boillot, asked about the damage Sunday, said it was minimal.

"There were no windows broken or handwriting on walls at the fairgrounds," he said.

He acknowledged the fence was cut in some places.

Boillot said the state's cost for cleanup would be far less than the $40,000 in rent.

The festival promoters—Sal Brancato, Robert Shaw and David Kinton of Kansas City — put up $20,000 in escrow to cover the damage and deposited $30,000 with the state revenue department to cover the sales taxes.

At $15 apiece for advance tickets and $20 at the gate plus the concessions, the festival promoters probably will gross $1.5 million or more, Boillot said.

The state gets three per cent of that and the city of Sedalia one per cent.

The promoters estimated their costs, for special equipment, pay for the entertainers and 400 security people, at $800,000.

Estimates on the number of people varied. Promoters were estimating Sunday night that at least 60,000 people paid to get in.

"Generally I'm pleased with the lack of trouble," Boillot said.

But he said he would not allow another music festival of that type to be held at the fairgrounds, because of the drug problem and possible damage to homes outside the fairgrounds.

"But we have not had any major problems," he said, "considering the situation."

Boillot said the promoters had agreed to have less emphasis on acid rock, with more "soft rock, bluegrass and country and western."

"I thought we would have music that appealed to all types of people," Boillot said.

It was advertised from coast to coast as hard rock and "we didn't have the bands set down in the contract," Boillot said.

Officials of the first aid center at the fairgrounds said 3,500 persons were treated there in the three days, 1,000 for drugrelated problems and the rest for minor injuries and heat exhaustion. It was 106 degrees Sunday.

Resignation results in controversy

BERNIE — A controversy has developed surrounding the resignation Thursday of Bernie police officer David L. Moore. Moore turned in a letter of resignation Thursday in which he made detrimental statements concerning the operation of the Bernie department.

However, Bernie officials said that Moore had been suspended Thursday prior to his resignation. Mayor R. B. Woods denied allegations made by Moore in his letter of resignation.

In his letter, Moore said that new Police Chief Arthur Lee was "an excellent police officer and the city board could have made no better choice for the chief of police," but that Mayor Woods and Police Commissioner Wendell Moore still run the department.

Moore also alleged that a prior police chief had kept him under surveillance with an electronic listening device and there were some "lost DWI (driving while intoxicated) tickets."

"Moore was suspended Thursday, at which time he quit," Mayor Woods said. "He was suspended by Chief of Police Arthur Lee pending the board's (Police Board) action."

The mayor said Chief Lee had suspended Moore for sleeping on duty and various other things.

As to the DWI tickets which Moore alleged were lost, Woods said, "If they existed," we'd sure like to have them. We'd be glad to turn over anything like that to the prosecuting attorney."

"I did not encourage the chief of police to fire him (Moore)," Woods said. "I do not run the police department."

Lee, who took his position July 1, confirmed Moore's suspension and subsequent resignation. "I told him he would be suspended," Lee said.

Lee cited at least three occasions when Moore allegedly had been late for work, instances of being late for periods of an hour-and-a- half, 15 minutes and 30 minutes.

In addition, Lee stated that on one occasion he found Moore asleep in a chair at the police department headquarters when he (Lee) came to work.

According to Lee, efforts were made to have Moore "straighten up" but that he "wouldn't do it."

Woods said that Moore had been the only city police officer living outside the city limits, which was contrary to city policy. The Bernie Board of Aldermen had agreed to allow Moore to live outside the city limits and continue his job providing he obtained a home telephone. However, he never got the telephone, Woods said.

Moore had been involved in a previous controversy when the had been charged with the May 1973 beating of a prisoner. He was acquitted, however, of the charge and was not suspended pending the acquittal.

College junior crowned new Miss Missouri

MEXICO, Mo. (AP) — An auburn-haired junior from Stephens College in Columbia, Michelle Marshall, will represent Missouri in the Miss America Pageant this year.

Miss Marshall, competing as Miss Gateway to the West, was crowned Miss Missouri Saturday night after three days of competition by 31 young women.

Miss Marshall, daughter of Marjorie Marshall of Florissant in St. Louis County, won, in addition to her trip to Atlantic City, a trophy, $5,000 wardrobe, a $7,600 scholarship to Columbia College or a $1,200 cash scholarship, and a Caribbean cruise.

The new Miss Missouri is 5-feet-7½, weighs 117 pounds and is a dance major at Stephens College. She formerly served as Miss Teenage St. Louis and was Miss Congeniality in the Miss Teen American contest.

The first through fourth runners-up at the Miss Missouri Pageant here were Madeline Kupersmith, Miss Kansas City; Jane Hawkins, Miss Raytown; Cindy Kueck, Miss Columbia, and Sherry Grisham, Miss Springfield.

Yolantha Harrison of Champaign, Ill., representing Columbia College, was named Miss Congeniality.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, July 24, the 205th day of 1974. There are 160 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1704, the British captured Gibraltar during the War of the Spanish Succession.

On this date:

In 1783, the Latin American patriot, Simon Bolivar, was born in Caracas, Venezuela.

In 1847, the Mormon leader, Brigham Young, arrived at Great Salt Lake Valley in Utah. The event is celebrated in the state as Pioneer Day.

In 1870, the first railroad car from the Pacific Coast reached New York City.

In 1929, President Herbert Hoover proclaimed the Kellogg-Briand Pact, which renounced war as an instrument of national policy.

In 1942, in World War II, British bombers devastated the German cities of Frankfurt and Mannheim.

In 1946, the United States made the first underwater test of an atomic bomb, off Bikini atoll in the Pacific.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson rejected a French proposal for an international conference to proclaim the neutrality of Indochina, saying, "We do not believe in a conference called to ratify terror."

Five years ago: The Apollo Eleven astronauts made a safe splashdown in the Pacific after their history-making moon landing.

One year ago: President Nixon welcomed the Shah of Iran to the White House and said the monarch was a crucial friend of the U.S. in the Middle East.

Today's birthdays: Former U.S. Food and Drug Administrator Frances Kelsey is 60 years old. Theatrical producer Alexander Cohen is 54.
